Directory of the Chi Psi Fraternity

*“Can you number the gems of that Chi of gold,
Or fathom the secrets those gems enfold?
Then count them—though strange, you will find it true,
Two meanings in one, and one in two!”*

Who celebrate our hundredth year from the vantage point of a half century or more within the Bonds—this centennial history is dedicated

FOREWORD

AS LONG AGO AS IN 1887 an editorial in The Purple and Gold spoke of the need for a "Chi Psi History" and of the hope that one would be completed for our semi-centennial anniversary in 1891. Here and now, in 1941, that need is being filled, that hope realized! Imperfect as this volume is, nevertheless it does boldly take the title of a history. And though the most important parts of it have already appeared in our "Catalogue," this present book, for our centennial anniversary, may indeed be called the first "Chi Psi History."

The history of a social fraternity is mainly found in the biographies of its members. Their lives reveal the impress of the brotherhood and reflect its ideals. Therefore the major portion of this book is devoted to formal biographical digests, informal personal commentary, anecdotes, and portraits and other pictures. But history as such is not neglected herein. The origin and growth of Chi Psi, its institutions and its characteristics are dealt with in the opening section and also in the articles on each alpha. Here again, the organization lives in its component parts, and much of the Fraternity's history is found in the history of its alphas. Miscellaneous notes and illustrations enliven the whole and as supplementary material serve a purpose beyond their individual importance.

The editorial purpose and plan are thus revealed. These we have carried out to the best of our ability. Shortcomings are unavoidable due to limitations of time and material. Some errors are inescapable for the same reasons, though every effort has been made to avoid them. Omissions should spur on future editors of a revised edition, and truly many a nugget of reminiscence and inspiration is still to be mined from musty old volumes of The P and G and other sources.

Fortuity has of necessity played a part in the selection of material and pictures for this book. Perforce we have largely had to take advantage of what happened to be available and so have sometimes missed the important and found the less important. Voids that would have been palpable have been filled in some cases but not in all. Once more hypothesizing some future editors, may they have the time and resources to outline the history, then seek and find the material to fill it in! Working "after hours" and as a hobby, we on the contrary have had to take what we had or could readily get and make the pattern from the material. If in our selection the material from older days has been given more than proportionate space and weight, this is because it is passing and must be seized ere it vanishes. Our successors can do as much for these days.

Weaving a thread here and a thread there, with one thread from today and one thread from yesterday, we have striven to design a tapestry picturing one hundred years of a college fraternity. Though much is left out, much is included. As the pattern takes shape, it appears that he who looks for it can even find in this compendium of facts grave and gay, of events momentous and trivial, of men remembered and forgotten, a microcosm of America, a minute cross-section of a century. Fortunately, this book will be owned only by Chi Psis, who may be expected not only to overlook flaws in the workmanship but also to understand that a certain naiveté and lack of formality are intentional, befitting a fraternity book as they would a family letter.

This book is the work of many hands. We are its editors throughout, its authors only in part. Reasonable efforts have been made to achieve a measure of mechanical uniformity, in punctuation and the like, but otherwise the style of each contributor is not crimped. This is conspicuous in the alpha histories, some emphasizing one aspect, some another. Better all were well balanced, but since they are not, the merit remains that taken as a whole they afford in composite a comprehensive view of the thirty-five Chi Psi Alphas and thirty-five American colleges during the century.

At this point it seems appropriate to acknowledge the aid of all those who have collaborated on the alpha histories as well as in compiling and writing other portions of the book. Their names are so numerous that we will not attempt to print them; indeed in many cases we could not, for the original authors of some of the material herein brought up-to-date could be determined only through laborious back-tracking, if at all. Of course, letters are identified by the signatures of the writers, and some other data, such as the brief sketches of the colleges, are credited to individuals. The hands of so many Chi Psis are in the writing, that the Fraternity truly has written its own history. Indeed this is betrayed by the partiality shown by the brothers for their brotherhood. History should be objective and impartial, but these contributors and editors seem to have been no better able to keep pride and affection out of their book than was poor Mr. Dick in "David Copperfield" able to keep King Charles out of his.

In the biographies of living members, absence of an address indicates those comparatively few cases in which none is known. In all other cases, questionnaires requesting up-to-date information were delivered by mail. If the information is not up-to-date, it is because no reply was received to the questionnaire or follow-up requests. The fatal dagger indicating information has not been verified by alumnus and double dagger indicating address not known, have not been used as they were in the last "Catalogue." The facts speak for themselves. Their use would unfairly disparage both the diligence of the Central Office and the generally praiseworthy responsiveness of our membership.

Lastly, except for the asterisks preceding the names of deceased brothers in the Membership Rolls, no special effort is made to differentiate between the quick and the dead. This historical record is intended for posterity as well as for the present, and, alas, we could not keep up with the asterisks if we would, for more will be needed before this ink is all dried. Our Fraternity is made up of all who have worn its badge, and the lives of those who have passed on and those still living are here of equal significance. Also, our Fraternity is made up of all its alphas and in this centennial roll-call the flags of the dormant alphas are once more unfurled to fly proudly with those of the active alphas. "Once a Chi Psi, Always a Chi Psi!"

HISTORY OF THE FRATERNITY

CHI PSI FRATERNITY was founded at Union College on May 20, 1841. It was the fifth fraternity at Union, where the Greek letter fraternity originated. The original members were Major-General James C. Duane, Judge Patrick U. Major, Philip Spencer, Colonel Alexander P. Berthoud, John Brush, Jr., Dr. Jacob H. Farrell, Robert H. McFaddin, Samuel T. Taber, Hon. William F. Terhune and Hon. James L. Witherspoon.

Following the example of the already established fraternities Chi Psi soon spread into other New England colleges, establishing alphas at Williams, Middlebury, Wesleyan, Bowdoin and Hamilton within a period of four years. Then on account of friendships of certain students in Hamilton College, a new move was made and Chi Psi was established in the University of Michigan in 1845. Alphas at Columbia and Princeton soon followed. Shortly thereafter, by reason of the fact that many of the members of our alphas were Southerners, Chi Psi established five alphas in the South.

After the Civil War the Fraternity again began its expansion with the result that by 1900 we had alphas from coast to coast. Since that date the alphas established have tended to complete the geographical links between those already founded. Within a period of a few years after 1920 the Western Coast alphas were aided by the establishment of those at Colorado, Oregon and Washington. The alpha at Georgia was given a sister alpha in that established at Georgia School of Technology. In 1924, at the request of Yale University and the fraternities there, Chi Psi established an alpha at New Haven, and in 1928 the southern group again was aided by the revival at North Carolina.

The parent alpha became dormant during a period of depression in the affairs of Union College in 1878. It was revived in 1892. As a result of various reverses incident to the Civil War the Wesleyan and Bowdoin alphas were rendered inactive, but were later revived. By the same causes most of the southern alphas were made dormant. The ones at Princeton, Furman, South Carolina, Mississippi and Wofford were killed by anti-fraternity laws.

The Fraternity was the first one to establish chapters in Middlebury, Michigan and Minnesota. Epsilon, established in 1845 at Ann Arbor, was the first alpha placed in the West. A log cabin in the woods near Ann Arbor, used by Epsilon soon after its establishment, at a time when FOUNDERS MEMORIAL BRONZE TABLETS. These tablets in the meeting rooms of all Chi Psi lodges were furnished to the alphas in 1930 by the Executive Council. The cast-bronze tablets are 14 $\frac{3}{4}$ x18 inches in size. The accompanying illustration is from a photograph taken in Paris, France, of the plaster model. The sculptor who executed the design was Mr. Harold Perry Erskine, of Paris and New York City, a classmate at Williams College of Clifford H. Williams, '02, chairman of the Executive Council. The figures symbolize secrecy and memory.

the faculty was hostile to the fraternities, may be considered in some sense as the prototype of the chapter house of the present day, although it was not used as a dwelling.

The lodge of Alpha Pi was erected by the alpha and Fraternity as a memorial to Philip Spencer, one of the founders. The lodge of the Stanford alpha was destroyed in the earthquake of April 18, 1906, but was soon rebuilt. Prior to 1907 the Cornell lodge was the well-known Fiske-McGraw mansion of Ithaca. In a fire which completely destroyed this house in the early morning hours of December 7, 1906, four members of the alpha and three members of the Ithaca volunteer fire department lost their lives. As an example of the fiber of men, two of the four members who lost their lives had escaped from the burning lodge but upon finding their roommates were still in the house returned to find them and perished with them. A new lodge was built on the site of the old. Elsewhere in this book is an extensive account of the tragedy revised by J. D. Barnum, Jr., '39.

Today the Fraternity finds itself in a flourishing condition. All of the alphas own their lodges, with a total valuation of over $1,500,000.

With the election of E. C. Swift, E'76, to the presidency of the Fraternity in 1914, active efforts were made for the foundation of a permanent endowment fund for the Fraternity. A beginning was made through personal efforts of Brother Swift, but it was not until twelve years later, in 1926, that the Executive Council formed the Chi Psi Educational Trust and for two succeeding years carried on a campaign for an endowment fund of $500,000, subscriptions to which were completed in September, 1928, with the fund over-subscribed.

Outside of the annual conventions, the Executive Council is the governing body of the Fraternity. In spite of the recognized local autonomy of the alphas, Chi Psi was the pioneer in the policy of employing a paid traveling secretary to devote his entire time to fraternity work. This was in keeping with the desire to keep the Fraternity closely knit and uniform. Chi Psi provides for universal transfer of members. During the past fifteen years much has been accomplished in unifying the Fraternity, broadening and developing its field of usefulness, and making the administration of its affairs more progressive and efficient. There have been established the office of Auditor or Alpha Financial Adviser, which supervises the financial affairs of the alphas, and that of Director of Scholarship, which concerns itself with the college work of the actives. With all its progressive moves, Chi Psi still continues one of the conservative fraternities, clinging fast to the ideals of its founders, and the bond between the graduates and undergraduates is unusually close. Few have worn its badge who have not retained its influence, not as a memory merely, but as a living force, sometimes dormant, but ever ready to waken to earnest activity.

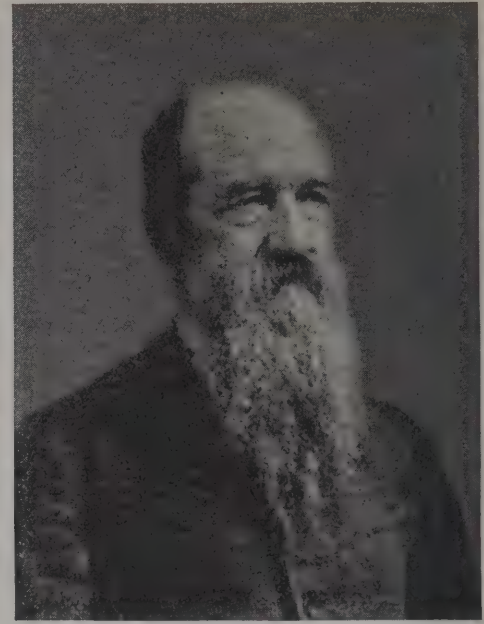

One of the original members of Chi Psi was Philip Spencer, a son of a cabinet officer, and a member of a family of high social position. Later, while serving as midshipman on the U. S. brig of war Somers, he was executed for alleged mutiny. Senator Benton, in his "Thirty Years' View," shows the charge and arrest to have been unwarrantable, and is unsparing in his condemnation of the seizure and execution. James Fenimore Cooper, Gail Hamilton, and others, have been even more emphatic in denunciation of the steps which led to Spencer's death.

FOUNDERS

PHILIP SPENCER. Of Philip Spencer little more need be said here. Every Chi Psi is familiar with the story of his death, discussions of which have been printed from time to time in The Purple and Gold. An article by W. Jackson Chaille, AΔ'29, appears elsewhere in this book as well as a reproduction in color of a Currier lithograph on the subject. (Page 34.) The first Chi Psi to break the circle, his death was a test of courage and brotherly love which those early men met bravely and well, and which served to strengthen the bond which united them.

ROBERT H. MCFADDIN. The second to depart was Robert Heyward McFaddin, who met his death on July 2, 1858, when his horse, running away, threw him out of his carriage. Born in Sumter District, S. C., he went to Greensboro, Ala., when quite a small boy to live with his uncle and guardian. After his college career he returned to Greensboro, where he engaged in cotton planting. He owned two plantations operated by slave labor, and became very successful. He was loved not only by his neighbors but by all his slaves, many of whom came from his father's plantation in South Carolina and grew up with him.

JACOB H. FARRELL. Jacob Henry Farrell died November 10, 1862, after a short illness. He practiced medicine for a very short time, and then retired to live with his father at Hudson, N. Y., refraining entirely from any participation in public life.

JOHN BRUSH, JR. John Brush, Jr., died January 18, 1867, at Poughkeepsie, where he had practiced law continuously since graduating from college.

SAMUEL T. TABER. Samuel Titus Taber followed Brush, February 4, 1871, after a career devoted almost entirely to agriculture. He was instrumental in the founding of several agricultural societies and active in their work.

JAMES L. WITHERSPOON. There was a lapse of nineteen years before the circle was again broken, this time by the death of James Lafayette Witherspoon, on June 9, 1890. An eminent man in his community, a veteran of the Civil War, he rose high in his profession, becoming a member of the state legislature, several times special circuit judge, once special supreme court judge, and later attorney general of the state. He was a true Southerner of the old type, and well loved by all who knew him.

WILLIAM F. TERHUNE. William Force Terhune died very suddenly on December 6, 1893. He was one of the early settlers in Wisconsin, and the pioneer lawyer of his county. His activity and brilliance quickly gained for him an enviable reputation, and he held many public offices of trust and honor.

ALEXANDER P. BERTHOUD. Alexander Peter Berthoud, always acknowledged as the scholar of the founders, died June 19, 1894, after an active and notable life. He served with distinction during the Civil War, and afterwards engaged in civil engineering, in which he was very successful.

JAMES C. DUANE. James Chatham Duane also gained prominence in the engineering profession, although his services were chiefly with the United States Army, from which he resigned in 1888 as Chief of Engineers, with the rank of Major-General. He became interested in municipal engineering and was appointed by Mayor Hewitt as chief engineer of the New York City Aqueduct Commission. With his death on November 8, 1897, the public world lost a faithful servant and the Fraternity a loyal friend.

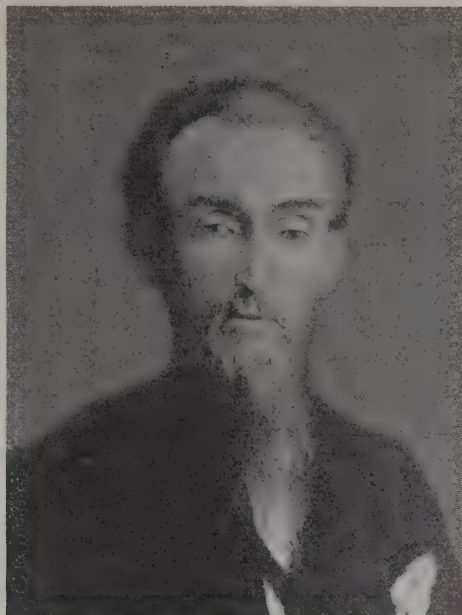

PATRICK U. MAJOR. Patrick Upshaw Major, the last of the founders to pass away, died in July, 1903. Always an enthusiastic Chi Psi, his life is a lesson in loyalty to every member of the Fraternity. His public career was characterized by faithfulness, kindness and efficiency, and he was loved not only for his sound justice but also for his pure heart and strong intellect. He was always in the public eye, whether on the bench or in private practice, and was connected with some of the most important litigation in Kentucky.

PLATES

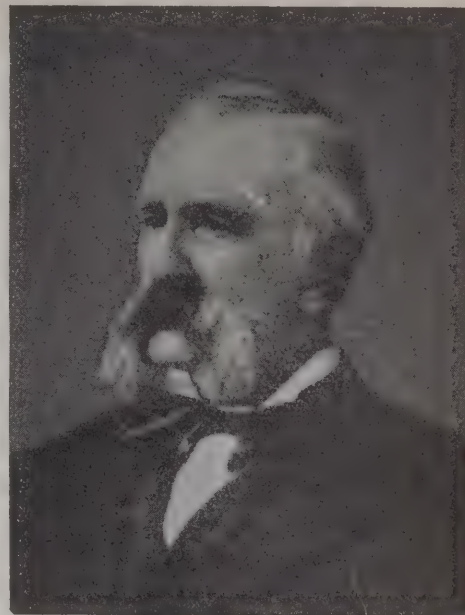

The Chi Psi Plate, which is reproduced in enlarged size as the left-hand end-paper of this book, and which has appeared in each catalogue of the Fraternity, beginning with that of 1849, has its origin and history veiled in silence and mystery. The designer, Lewis Bradley, was not a member of the Fraternity. The only member of the Fraternity of that name as far back as 1848 was David Ogden Bradley, of Alpha Phi of that class. This, however, may have a very important connection, as the duty of securing a frontispiece for our first catalogue was entrusted to Alpha Phi. It is presumed that Lewis Bradley was taken into the counsels of the committee and his aid sought in preparing a plate. He had some skill as a painter and, securing from the committee their general and crude ideas of what was wanted, made a sketch and presented it for their approval. It was liked and he perfected it in the form in which it afterwards appeared. The plate itself was made by a firm no longer in existence, Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson, who were the great steel plate engravers in New York City in their day.

ROBERT H. MCFADDIN, II'44, Founder

JAMES L. WITHERSPOON, II'44, Founder

ALEXANDER P. BERTHOUD, II'44, Founder

The plate was cut in steel some time during the year 1847, and was paid for before April 25, 1848, at a cost of $300. The original steel plate is today in the possession of the Central Office of the Fraternity. That the Fraternity, barely a half-dozen years of age, should have attempted a plate of this sort and at this cost, especially when viewed in the light of the relative value of money at that time, is remarkable and may well be said to be indicative of the type of our early members.

The plate is a mystical description of the Fraternity, of its emblem, its objects and its symbols. (See also page 291.)

For further information in regard to the plate see the letters contained in The Purple and Gold, Volume 8, pages 195 and 196, Volume 32, page 341, and Volume 40, page 228.

The right-hand end-paper is a reproduction in enlarged size of the plate in our 1871 "Catalogue" preceding the list of deceased brothers. The Greek words are, in the casket, "Athanatoi," meaning "the immortal," and, above, "Met(a) Agon-Stephanos," meaning, "after the contest, the crown" or "after the struggle, the victory." Symbolic of death's release of the immortal soul from the mortal body, is the severance of the "Chi" and the "Psi" of the badge.

In the alpha histories appear the distinctive heraldic emblems of those alphas having them. These appeared in the "Catalogue" of 1871, and in the "Catalogue" of 1883, when Rho was the most recently established alpha. The original cuts were preserved and are used, except as to Nu, whose emblem is thus more imperfectly reproduced. The files of A. B. Sager, E'71, editor of the 1871 "Catalogue," disclose correspondence with James H. Lambert, @'46, of New York City, regarding these alpha plates.

The allegorical representation of the badge, which faces the title-page, is from the 1871 "Catalogue."

OFFICERS

PRESIDENT. In the list of conventions herein we have given, in so far as we have been able to collect them, the names of those who have filled the office now known as No. 6 since its creation under the constitution adopted by the convention of 1849. Under the first constitution no provision was made for a presiding officer over the entire Fraternity. The convention of 1849 created this office under the same name as now known, the holder to be the chief officer of the Fraternity, yet to act as secretary of the convention of his year, which custom continued until 1864, when he became president of the convention.

The office of No. 7 was not provided for until the action of the special convention of 1879, although urged as early as 1871. The name for this officer was taken from the constitution of the Fraternity adopted by the convention held in Springfield, Mass., in 1845, wherein this name had been given to the one who presided over each alpha. From the inception of this office in 1879 its holders have been:

WILLIAM F. TERHUNE, II'44, Founder

Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., @'58, 1879-82.
Elbridge T. Gerry, Z'57, 1882-1914.
Edward C. Swift, E'76, 1914-19.
Albert S. Bard, X'88, 1919-21.
Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, 1921-23.
John W. Anderson, E'90, 1923-30.
Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, 1930-34.
Frank Matthiessen, Ψ'95, 1934-36.
Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, 1936-1940.
Charles E. Merrill, X'08, 1940.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL. The Executive Council, while to most of us a seemingly ancient institution in the Fraternity government, yet is of recent origin when compared to the years of the Fraternity. For one-half century such a body was unknown to the Fraternity.

Following the revision of the constitution in 1886 there came in that year expressions of sentiment for a change in the government of Chi Psi. In 1888 a committee of George B. Turner, Ψ'73, W. E. Earle, O'60, W. M. Collier, Φ'89, G. A. Viehmann, P'86, and B. E. Pegues, T'89, was appointed to make suggestions for such changes. At the convention of 1889 William Miller Collier read the report of the above committee and it was voted at that time that the governing board of the Fraternity be the No. 6, the editor of The Purple and Gold, and an undergraduate, said undergraduate to be selected from the different alphas in rotation. At the same time it was voted to have a Fraternity Visitor, with his expenses to be paid by a per capita tax, and F. A. Pike, I'85, was elected to the position. In the conventions of 1890 and 1891 the constitution was further revised and the provision for a governing board was changed to include the Visitor instead of the undergraduate from different alphas in rotation.

Following the adoption of the revised constitution in 1891 the first governing board was made up of Harry G. Palmer, Ψ'92, No. 6; William Miller Collier, editor of The Purple and Gold, and John S. DeHart, Ξ'90, Visitor. For 1892 Brothers Collier and DeHart remained on the board, while John C. McMynn, Ψ'91, was No. 6.

At the convention of 1893 it was proposed that the constitution be amended to provide for an Executive Council of three alumni, with the No. 6, the editor of The Purple and Gold, and the Visitor as ex-officio members. The term of this Council was to be one year, and the 1893 convention elected Charles C. Dwight, Θ'50, George B. Turner, and William Miller Collier, all of Auburn, N. Y., as the first alumni Executive Council. The convention of 1894 provided that the Council should hold office for two years, and the Council of 1893 was continued for 1894 and 1895.

In 1896 there was a change in the Council, and William J. Youngs, Ψ'72, Osgood Smith, X'83, and Jesse Stearns, M'83, were elected as the Council. In 1897 William J. Youngs resigned and H. B. Adriance, Θ'87, was elected in his stead. In 1898 the same Council of Smith, Stearns, and Adriance was re-elected, and this Council continued through 1899.

In 1900 the administration of the Fraternity went westward for the first time, and J. P. Montrose, Φ'87, V. F. Mashek, Ψ'89, and F. B. Hussey, X'82, were elected to the Council for the years 1900 and 1901. This Council recommended that the term of the body be increased to three years.

In 1902 this change was adopted and Albert S. Bard, X'88, Vanderpoel Adriance, Θ'90, and George P. Richardson, Ξ'97, were elected as the first members of the new Council for a three-year term. In 1905 the same Council was re-elected. In 1908 a new Council of Albert S. Bard, George P. Richardson, and George E. Talmage, P'86, was elected. In 1911 it was proposed to increase the Council to five members and at this convention Albert S. Bard, Ernest F. Clymer, Ψ'00, and Harold

G. Aron, Φ'09, were elected to the Council and they were authorized to select the remaining two after receiving the report of a special committee on future policy of the Fraternity. The convention in 1912 chose H. D. Tremper, P'96, and John S. Sheppard, Jr., Θ'91, to fill these places. Brother Sheppard was unable to serve and the Council appointed Philip L. Thomson, II'00, in his stead. In 1914 the Council, consisting of Brothers Bard, Clymer, Aron, Tremper and Thomson, was re-elected. During the year H. D. Tremper resigned and the convention of 1915 elected to his place E. H. Bedell, Ξ'05, who resigned in November, 1916.

The convention of 1917 provided for a change in term of the Council so that all terms would not expire at once and accordingly elected Brothers Bard and Aron for a one-year term, Clymer and Thomson for two years, and Charles E. Merrill, X'08, for three years. On account of the war, Brother Merrill resigned, and F. T. Ostrander, II'02, was chosen by the Council to fill his place until the 1918 convention. At this convention Albert S. Bard and George F. Gentes, Φ'06, were elected for a three-year term expiring in 1921. Shortly after the convention Brother Tremper, whose term still had one year to run, resigned, and Judge A. R. Page, Θ'81, was chosen by the Council to fill the vacancy until the 1919 convention.

The convention of 1919, held in Madison, Wis., expressed a desire to move the administration of the Fraternity to the Central West, and so the members who were then on the Council resigned and Edward C. Swift, E'76, Vojta F. Mashek, Paul S. Warner, I'00, Clarence B. Piper, Ψ'05, and Guy S. Greene, E'08, were elected to the Council. In order to adhere to the idea that the entire Council should not go out of office at once, Brothers Swift and Warner were chosen for three-year terms, Green and Piper for two-year terms, and Mashek for one year. In 1920 Edwin W. Lee, Θ'97, was elected for a three-year term succeeding V. F. Mashek. In 1921 Howell W. Murray, EA'14, and Lawrence R. Roehm, E'16, were elected for three-year terms to the Council.

Prior to the convention of 1922 Brother Swift had been forced to resign on account of ill-health and the Council had chosen Clifford H. Williams, Θ'02, to serve until the convention. Lawrence S. Roehm also found it necessary to retire and the convention elected Clifford H. Williams and E. P. Allen, N'90, for full terms, and E. C. Eppley, ΓΔ'05, to complete the unfinished term of L. S. Roehm. In 1923 Edwin W. Lee was re-elected for a full term. In 1924 Howell W. Murray was re-elected for a full term to succeed himself and Herman A. Uihlein, Ψ'08, was elected for a full term. The latter finding it impossible to serve, the Council chose as his successor, Harold S. Falk, I'06.

In 1925 Clifford H. Williams and Harold S. Falk were re-elected to succeed themselves and Sam P. Blagden, Θ'96, was elected for a full term. In 1926 Edwin W. Lee was re-elected to succeed himself. In 1927 Harold S. Falk and Howell W. Murray were re-elected to succeed themselves. In 1928 Clifford H. Williams was re-elected to succeed himself and Charles Watson, 3rd, KΔ'27, to succeed Sam P. Blagden. In December, 1928, Howell W. Murray resigned and the Council chose as his successor John P. Mentzer, EA'98. In 1929 Edwin W. Lee resigned and George A. Kelly, E'08, was elected to succeed him. The next changes in the personnel of the Council were the election in 1934 of Crawford T. Johnson, I'90, to succeed Charles Watson, resigned, and the election of Theodore B. Brown, II'98. Brother Brown retired from the Council in 1935, and Brother Johnson was succeeded in 1937 by Kennett W. Hinks, N'19.

At the 1936 convention the Council was increased to seven members, and W. J. Chaille, ΔΔ'29, and J. Truman Bidwell, BΔ'25, were elected. In 1939 Clark L. Keator, I'07, was elected to succeed Harold S. Falk, I'06.

At the 1940 convention the Council was increased to nine members, and John L. Goodbody, Θ'08, and Alexander E. Walker, E'10, were elected.

By amendment to the constitution and convention action the president, treasurer and auditor are ex-officio members of the Executive Council, and past presidents life members thereof.

VISITOR. Chi Psi is credited with being the originator of the paid traveling fraternity secretary. The office of "Visitor," as it is known in our Fraternity, was provided for

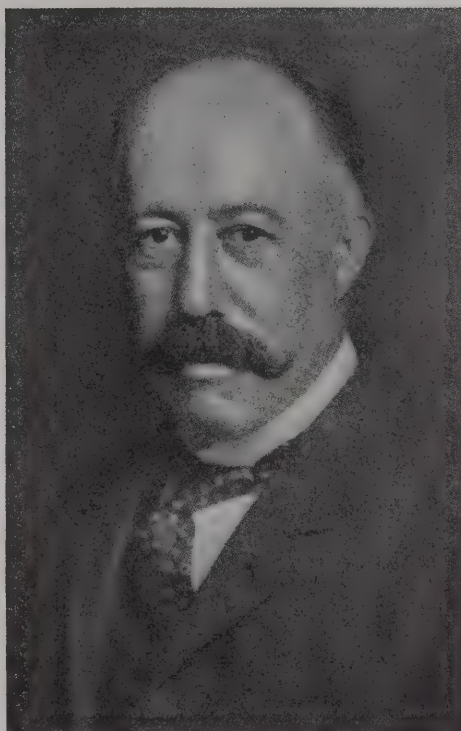

ELBRIDGE T. GERRY, Z'57. The silver cup by Tiffany here pictured was presented to the President of Chi Psi, as he neared fifty years within the Bonds, at the convention in 1903. The cup was inscribed: "Presented to Elbridge T. Gerry, Alpha Zeta, 1857, by the Chi Psi Fraternity, in grateful appreciation of his loyalty and devotion to the Fraternity."

as early as the convention of 1889, when it was voted that the Fraternity should have such an officer and that his expenses should be paid by a per capita tax.

Frederic A. Pike, I'85, was elected as the first Visitor. In 1890 he was succeeded by John H. Green, B'89, who in turn was succeeded in 1891 by John S. DeHart, E'90, who served until 1893. At that convention Frederick W. Kelley, I'88, was elected to the position. The convention minutes fail to disclose anything further regarding the Visitor until in 1897 Edward G. Wyckoff, F'89, was elected. The records show that he served during the years 1897 to 1901, when he resigned and Osgood Smith, X'83, was appointed as his successor. But Brother Brown, later the first incumbent of the paid Visitorship, distinctly recalls an official visit by Brother Wyckoff to Alpha Pi during Brother Brown's freshman year (the college year 1894-95), so his incumbency evidently goes back of the convention record. In 1902 Frank E. Whitman, X'85, was elected by the convention as Visitor.

But the above system was obviously more or less of a hit and miss affair, with a tendency to be perfunctory, or to rely for results on the good will, energy and leisure of the incumbent. In 1905 Chi Psi took the first real step in advance when, on March 28, Theodore B. Brown, II'98, was chosen as a paid Visitor to devote his full time to the activities of the Fraternity.

This step was well considered and had the approval of educators. The initiative was taken by Clarence F. Birdseye, X'74, who consulted with Dean Fine of Princeton, Dean Woolson of the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, then United States Commissioner of Education, later Chancellor of New York University.

Upon receiving their approval of the idea as a desirable educational experiment, he interested a group of Alpha Chi alumni, among them Charles H. Allen, Lawrence F. Abbott, Frank H. Parsons, Ralph S. Rounds, Clarence S. Houghton and others. The position was offered to Henry H. Titsworth, X'97, who was not able to serve. Then Brother "Dode" Brown was chosen. He served until June 1, 1909, during that time accomplishing much for the Fraternity and establishing methods of work for his successors. On July 23, John K. MacDonald, AA'07, began service as Brother Brown's successor and continued as such until August, 1911. After these nearly seven full years came eight lean years, during which the Fraternity was without a full-time Visitor, though Edward G. Wyckoff was again elected in 1918 on a volunteer basis.

After his return from the World War, Walter Budd Champlin, AA'18, served for approximately two years, from September 1, 1919, until July, 1921. The appointment of his successor was delayed until February, 1922, when Burton E. Forster, N'20, was chosen. He served until July, 1923. Lawrence W. Cramer, I'23, succeeded to the office in September, 1923, and served until June 30, 1925, when he was succeeded by J. Truman Bidwell, BA'25, who served until August 1, 1927. Since then the Visitors have included: William P. Rock, FAD'27, 1927-1930; W. Jackson Chaille, AA'29, 1929-1934; Roger E. Griffith, II'30, 1930-1931; W. Harry Bradbury, P'30, 1931-1933; Josiah R. Bartlett, X'34, 1934-1936; Cass W. Kemp, E'34, 1934-1937; C. Edgar Phreaner, X'36, 1936; Robert A. Potter, A'37, 1937-1939; Carroll J. Atwood, S'38, 1938-1940, and Keith E. Osborne, HA'39, 1939—.

ALPHA FINANCIAL ADVISER. The foundation of the work which the general Fraternity was to do in connection with the finances of the alphas was laid in the Efficiency Committee appointed at the convention in 1917. However, as early as 1914 the Executive Council had proposed a uniform accounting system. This did not take root until 1919, when with the transfer of the Executive Council to the Middle West came the inauguration of this system. Discussions prior to and at the convention in 1921 led to the establishment of the office of Auditor with Clarence B. Piper, F'05, elected to it.

His first year of work was largely one of survey, finding out what were the needs of the alphas, and if we were to have a uniform accounting system, what system would be best suited to our needs. In 1922 he established a new system of bookkeeping, which as a result of his experience has been twice revised, once in 1925 and again in 1928.

During his occupancy of this office Brother Piper was indefatigable in his work in connection with the alpha finances, instilling in the individual members a sense of financial responsibility and constantly translating this into a more acute financial consciousness within the alpha as an organization. In 1929 business affairs required Brother Piper to become inactive as Auditor and H. Seger Slifer, E'12, was appointed Acting Auditor in 1929 and elected Auditor in 1930. Brother Piper afterwards served as Pacific Coast Adviser and then in 1938-1940 as Director of Scholarship.

Through this office the general Fraternity is constantly advised of the financial situation and the resultant problems in the alphas.

DIRECTOR OF SCHOLARSHIP. After the election of John W. Anderson, E'90, to the presidency of the Fraternity in 1923, one of the first problems to which he addressed himself was that of the scholarship of the active members of the Fraternity. He called upon H. Kirke White, O'92, to assume a work as Director of Scholarship which would assist the members and the alphas and furnish them with concrete comparisons of scholastic results and ranking in different colleges. From that time and until the illness which resulted in his lamented death in 1937, Brother White devoted himself to this particular field and strove to instill the thought in the minds of all actives that their first duty in college was to pass all subjects taken. This volunteer work on the part of Brother White produced an improvement in the scholarship in the alphas and contributed in great measure to lessening the number of men who drop out of college on account of scholastic failure. The work was continued by H. Seger Slifer, E'12, as Acting Director of Scholarship. An analysis of the problem and further proposals for its solution were in January, 1938, presented to the Council by Clarence B. Piper, F'05, in person, and at the 97th Convention in the following November Brother Piper was elected as Scholarship Director. He retired at the 99th Convention and was succeeded by the Rev. Josiah R. Bartlett, X'34, formerly Visitor.

CENTRAL OFFICE. For many years the Executive Council advocated the creation of a Central Office which should undertake the details of Fraternity administration. At the 1911 convention in a report on future Fraternity policy the Executive Council recommended a Central Office from which to conduct the Fraternity's business, where the Fraternity records might be kept, where a resident secretary might conduct the business under the direction of the various officers, and from which office The Purple and Gold and the "Catalogue" should be published, and funds collected for general expense. The suggestion was approved and the convention recommended that the Fraternity take definite action in regard to the establishment of a Central Office.

The 1913 convention took that definite action with the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Executive Council be authorized and empowered to provide for and maintain a Central Office for the Fraternity and to incur an annual expense therefor not to exceed $2,500; that the office be used for the collection and care of the Fraternity records, and for all general Fraternity purposes, and be the principal office of a general alumni corporation when formed; that the 'Seventh Decennial Catalogue' of the Fraternity be published from the said office, and that the catalogue fund be placed at the disposal of the Executive Council for this purpose."

So it was that in June, 1913, a Central Office of the Chi Psi Fraternity was established in connection with the office of H. G. Aron, F'09, secretary of the Executive Council, at 50 Pine St., New York, N.Y. The initial work of this office was the making of general files of the membership of the Fraternity and the publication of the "Catalogue," which appeared in 1915. Later the office was moved to 505 Fifth Ave., just about 42nd St., and during the World War it was located here and served as a general meeting place for many of the Chi Pisis in the service, in addition to taking care of routine work. The Central Office remained in New York City until 1919, when the Executive Council was transferred to the Middle West. From 1913 until 1919 the Fraternity did not have a Visitor and this office did much to make up for the contacts which would have been made had there been a Visitor.

In 1919 the Central Office was established at Madison, Wis., under the direction of Paul S. Warner, I'00, a member of the Executive Council, who was then also serving as treasurer of the Fraternity. At this time the Council again provided a Visitor and the work of the Central Office was widened in scope. In the summer of 1921 the Central Office was moved to Ann Arbor, Mich., to come under the charge of H. Seger Slifer, E'12, who then became treasurer of the Fraternity.

With the growth of the Fraternity, the work of the Central Office has likewise grown and today it is the chief administrative force of the Fraternity, through which most of its business is handled.

Permanence of the Central Office and its location was assured when in 1940 certain interested alumni purchased a beautiful residential property at 1705 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, just at the edge of the university district and on one of the principal "fraternity" streets, and deeded it to the Fraternity for use as the Central Office of Chi Psi.

At last, in its hundredth year, the Fraternity may be said to have its roots in the ground.

Wrote Frederick W. Kelly, I'88, in 1940: "Among the 'oldsters' at Hotel Willard in Washington, D. C., helping our delegates run the 47th Convention, there was no more honored and loyal brother than Judge Patrick Upshaw Major, II'42, one of the illustrious founders of Chi Psi. A circuit judge of his native state, Kentucky, and a true 'Kentucky colonel' if ever there was one. For some unaccountable reason he missed the appointment for our convention group photograph, so the writer, as convention secretary, and George B. Turner, P'73, and Rev. Edwin A. White, A'79, promptly 'got after him for his photograph' and the judge then insisted that 'we stand up with him' while it was taken. (See the picture in Alpha Pi section.) Many were the anecdotes told by him of the early founding days, way back in 1841, of our Fraternity, and through them all ran the golden cord of eternal loyalty of the Chi Psis of those times, for, as Judge Major insisted, 'Every Chi Psi is a true brother and a gentleman.' Others of the 'oldsters' present at that convention were, Hon. James Ausburn Towner, F'58, Judge Harry White, A'54, and Gen. Frederick D. Sewall, H'46, and to hear their reminiscences of the early days at Hamilton, at Princeton and at Bowdoin was a treat in itself. Of course our national delegates were duly accorded an audience at the White House and were individually presented to President Grover Cleveland, who was then in his first term as President of the United States; and later on we visited the U. S. Treasury, and the Senate and the House of Representatives, in both of which were distinguished members of Chi Psi, not forgetting Hon. Don M. Dickinson, E'67, the Postmaster General. As the writer looks back upon those April days of 1888 from the expanse of over half a century, he cannot but recall that stirring slogan of our beloved Fraternity, 'Once a Chi Psi, always a Chi Psi!'"

LONG-AGO CONVENTIONS

At the Central Office recently Brother Slifer had occasion to go through the minutes of long-ago conventions. (We have there a nearly complete file of them.) While so doing he picked out some interesting passages here and there. Those having to do with social habits of the times are particularly illuminating. That intoxicants could be "joked about" in convention minutes in the early days, is in sharp contrast with convention attitude in recent years. Excerpts follow:

1858. After some trouble, "It was moved by the delegate from North Carolina that the Hamilton, Wesleyan, Williams and Michigan fellows shake hands, make friends and take a drink, but that Wesleyan be excused from drinking anything but lemonade."

1860. After adjournment, the secretary entered the following: "Nunc ad poculas pergamus et bibamus, bibamus, bibamus, donec, etc."

1865. "The convention headed by the orator and presiding officer marched to the supper room. A splendid brass band from Albany occupied a small gallery at the rear of the hall and gave forth exquisite music. Notwithstanding the presence of the two reverend gentlemen, and after being assured that if drank in moderation it would not be offensive to them, champagne was introduced. The stormy debates of the day were soon forgotten. At a late hour the company rose from the table and quite a number of Chi Psis, including many resident in Troy, serenaded many of the Chi Psi families of Troy with the Albany band.

"The members assembled next morning in the parlor of the Troy House at about 10 o'clock, many with aching heads and bloodshot eyes, proving conclusively that too much lemonade is too much, and proceeded to discuss a resolution reported by the committee to suggest and prepare business, to the effect that the fraternity condemned intemperance and directing each alpha and the presiding officer to see to its suppression. It was introduced at a very strategic moment, as most of the members had that morning sworn off for the rest of their natural or artificial lives. Rev. L. A. Austin took the floor and made a long and excellent speech in favor of the resolution, and was only interrupted by Terry of Williams falling backward off his chair. Nims of Middlebury orated to the same effect, and it was carried by a unanimous hiccough."

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONVENTION. From his home in Swarthmore, Pa., in 1936 George W. Casey, S'87, sent in a banquet card, beautifully designed and picturing the facade of a Grecian temple. Unfortunately it was too faint in its colors to be reproduced, but is kept with other treasures of memorabilia in the vaults of the Central Office at Ann Arbor. About this Brother Casey wrote:

"It was designed by your humble servant for the Fifty-Seventh Convention of the Fraternity, which was held in Philadelphia, at the Hotel Walton, on April 13, 1898. At this convention a petition towards the establishment of an alpha was presented but not granted. Our dear brother, Milton Smith, S'87, was present but he did not stay for the dinner. On the back of another copy of the banquet card, which I am keeping, are the autographs of twenty-six of those who were present. Among them are the names of three of the older members: Elbridge T. Gerry, Z'57, A.M., Rear-Admiral Edwin Stewart, '62, and L. P. Bissell, '63. President Gerry presided and made a speech at the dinner, or banquet as it was called in those days. The delegate from Alpha Psi was Theodore Dimon, S'98. I have been living in Swarthmore for thirty years and was the only Chi Psi here until David C. Prince, ZA'12, arrived two years ago. He is an official in Philadelphia of the General Electric Co. Brother Prince was a charter member of Alpha Zeta Delta."

"WORLD'S FAIR CONVENTION." "A Chi Psi National Convention that has its stirring memories is that of 1893, our 52nd or World's Fair Convention, held in our own club-house at Chicago, Ill.

"It was at this historic gathering of Chi Psis that our present form of fraternity government, namely, by Executive Council, with its quota of officers, including a Fraternity Visitor, was evolved into its stabilized form, and the writer was honored by being chosen as a member thereof and the first Fraternity Visitor, he being the official delegate of the then recently organized Milwaukee Alumni Association of Chi Psi. The presiding officer of that convention was John Clark McMynn, S'91, then the engineer in charge of and a co-builder of the famous 'Ferris Observation Wheel' from whose great height many a fine view of the fair and of Chicago was obtained.

"Another loyal Chi Psi then present was our beloved Vojta, Frank Mashek, S'89, who was even then a tower of strength in our Fraternity.

"That Fifty-second Convention, with its convenient club-house as a rendezvous, brought a large gathering of brothers from all parts of the nation together and was prolific in reunions of many long separated Chi Psis; while of course it duly emphasized the importance of our Fraternity's lodge and chapter house system to all of us delegates as well as to all those alumni who were fortunate enough to be in attendance. Again was illustrated the close and ever-enduring Bonds of Chi Psi existing at all times and everywhere between undergraduates and between them and the alumni both young and old of our beloved Fraternity—may it ever be thus as the centuries pass onward."—FREDERICK W. KELLY, I'88.

SOME BEGINNINGS

The following excerpts from old convention minutes deal with the beginnings of some of Chi Psi's institutions:

1858. The chant prior to the initiation services was first introduced at this time.

1866. Several delegates expressed a desire for extension into the University of Chicago, and a committee was appointed to examine the situation and report at the next convention.

1869. This convention adopted a resolution that the colors of the Chi Psi Fraternity be gold over purple.

1878. A resolution was adopted for the formation of an alumni association in Detroit.

1889. "Voted that for the coming year the Fraternity have a Visitor. Brother F. A. Pike elected Visitor for the coming year. Voted that the expenses of the Visitor be defrayed by tax per capita.

"Voted that for the coming year an Historian be elected to act and co-operate with the permanent selected Historian. Brother John W. Anderson elected Historian for the coming year."

1882. "Resolved that it is the sentiment of this convention that the tendency toward the unwise and indiscriminate establishment of new alphas be severely deprecated and censured and that the utmost diligence should be exercised in investigating the standing and condition of the proposed alpha and the institution with which it is connected."

43RD CONVENTION, APRIL 9-10, 1884, FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, New York, N. Y. Upper left in the picture is Herbert V. Abbott, X'85; below Abbott is Adrian Vermeule, Jr., P'85; to right of Abbott, with hand on Abbott's shoulder, is Henry T. Hotchkiss, Φ'84, member of first editorial board of The Purple and Gold; with light coat and muffler is Clyde Fitch, X'86, destined to become one of America's greatest playwrights; to right and slightly above Fitch is Barton H. Coffey, Ξ'85; to right and slightly above Coffey is John A. Thomson, P'84; to right of Thomson the third man is William H. Boocock, P'85, and the fourth George E. Talmage, P'86; in the center foreground is George A. Viehmann, P'86; to right above Viehmann are Frank E. Whitman, X'85 and (with moustache) William R. Kennard, Φ'71; from left of picture above Viehmann first three are Vermeule, Charles W. Thomas, Ξ'84, and Frank Van Vleck, Ξ'84, founder of Alpha Xi and founder of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society. (Identification by Charles W. Thomas, Ξ'84, with some assistance from Frank E. Whitman, X'85, Albert S. Bard, X'88, and William E. Lockner, Ω'86.)

Herbert V. Abbott, X'85, was son of the famous Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, and brother of the well-known Lawrence F. Abbott, X'81, for many years an editor of The Outlook. These brothers were second cousins of Willis Abbot, E'84, noted editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

1883. "Moved that Chi Psi establish and maintain a fraternity paper. We recommend that it be published in pamphlet form, cost to be limited to $75 an issue of 250 copies and proportional increase to be paid by subscriptions at $1 per annum. We advise that the journal be called The Purple and Gold."

1892. Voted to revive Alpha Pi. Letter presented from Elbridge T. Gerry regarding establishment of an alpha at Yale.

1893. "Resolved that Brothers J. M. Richmond, James A. Walker and Philip Verner be constituted a committee to look into the condition of the University of North Carolina with a view to the re-establishment of Alpha Sigma."

1898. "The convention suggests to the Executive Council that they further correspond with Brother Milton Smith and thank him for his interest and efforts and encourage him in working up information in regard to the conditions now existing at the University of Colorado for an alpha."

1909. Uniform Chi Psi Whistle adopted to follow the music which accompanies the words, "Fair Chi Psi Can We E'er Leave Thee," from the song.

HONOR SOCIETY KEYS

Since 1937 the Chi Psi Educational Trust has annually purchased the honor society keys for those Chi Psis newly elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi and Tau Beta Pi. Yearly an average of about twenty Chi Psis have been winning the coveted keys, comprising approximately ten per cent of our graduates. Since the beginning, over four hundred Chi Psis have been members of Phi Beta Kappa.

FINANCIAL POLICY

For the greater part of its existence the Fraternity had no established financial policy for the reason that there was no apparent necessity for it. Until the establishment of the salaried Visitor the demands of the general Fraternity were small. After the creation of the Executive Council there was a small tax upon the undergraduates to finance the meagre activities of the Council. For a long period The Purple and Gold was more or less of a privately run enterprise without expense to the general Fraternity. The "Catalogue" was financed by a small annual charge to the undergraduates and by subscriptions.

Our first real call for funds came with the creation of the salaried Visitor and this office was financed by alumni subscriptions to a Visitor's Fund. With the increase of general fraternity functions came the realization of our need for permanent funds, although long before this there had been discussion of a Grand Alpha and an endowment fund.

Voluntary subscriptions financed the work of the Visitor until the summer of 1911, while the other activities of the general Fraternity were taken care of by taxes paid by undergraduates and by dues paid by participating alumni associations.

For a few years prior to 1911 there had been moves made for the incorporation of the Fraternity, but without success. The Executive Council laid this together with the question of a Central Office and necessary funds, before the 1911 Convention, where this resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That in our opinion the only method of insuring the continuance of the office of Visitor, the creation of a Central Office, and the avoidance of an annual waste of money, time and energy in the collection of money, is the establishment of an endowment fund of sufficient size to provide an income adequate to the annual need and,

"Be It Further Resolved, That the Executive Council be authorized and empowered to bring this subject and this resolution to the attention of the alumni in such manner and at such time as it shall deem advisable."

Here was laid the ground work for our present financial structure.

The 1913 Convention adopted the following resolution:

"Be It Further Resolved, That the Executive Council be instructed to proceed to the proper incorporation of a general alumni body to be constituted to include all alumni of the Fraternity, with a board of governors to be selected in accordance with a plan for geographical representation; that the Executive Council have full power to carry out the foregoing resolution and to raise the necessary funds therefor by endorsement or subscription among the general alumni of the fraternity."

Despite these resolutions no active work was done toward the accumulation of an endowment fund until after the election of E. C. Swift, E'76, to the presidency of the Fraternity in 1914. Immediately thereafter Brother Swift of his own volition started a campaign for permanent funds and to the 1915 convention reported subscriptions of $5,644. On the recommendation of the Executive Council this convention amended the constitution so that each initiate would contribute to this fund, requiring an endowment fund fee of $10 to be added to his initiation fee and paid the general alumni of the Fraternity."

Brother Swift continued his volunteer work toward this fund with some success. On April 27, 1916, the Chi Psi Fraternity Corporation was organized under the educational laws of the State of New York, thus establishing a permanent corporation to hold money collected for the endowment fund. Realizing that the accumulation of a fund sufficient in size to meet our needs required more effort than could be put upon it at this time, Brother Swift and the Executive Council suspended efforts.

With the removal of the Executive Council to the Middle West in 1919 the new officers immediately saw the need for funds to finance the activities which they wished Chi Psi to undertake and organized a campaign for contributions from the alumni, covering a three-year period, to tide over until a definite financial policy could be adopted.

The convention in 1921 took the first step toward a definite program with the following resolution:

"Be It Resolved, That the Central Office be and hereby is authorized, empowered and directed to levy an annual assessment on each alumnus of the Fraternity of $5 to be collected through the Central Office and to be used in defraying the expenses of the general Fraternity. Should any alumnus desire to make payment in gross, all obligations under this resolution shall cease upon the payment by him of $100. The details of levying and collecting said assessments are hereby vested in the Executive Council. Nothing herein contained shall be considered to affect in any way any obligation of any alumnus heretofore assumed toward the Fraternity or the endowment fund."

The money received from the alumni dues and the undergraduate taxes provided the Executive Council with enough income to give it a breathing spell until formal plans could be laid for the prosecution of an active campaign for an endowment fund.

In 1926 under the insistence and guidance of Howell W. Murray, EA'14, chairman of the Executive Council, definite plans were laid for a campaign for an endowment fund of $500,000. Through the generosity of Frank Matthiessen, Ψ'95, a preliminary survey was made by the John Price Jones organization, professional counsel for endowment campaigns. The 1926 convention authorized the formation of the Chi Psi Educational Trust and immediately thereafter intensive work was commenced for the accumulation of funds. The active personal solicitation was carried on by Charles L. Durham, Y'91, J. Truman Bidwell, BA'25, Bard Priddy, I'14, and William P. Rock, ΨΔ'27. Valuable counsel was given by John P. Mentzer, EA'98, and Thomas F. Wallace, N'93, who had been intimately acquainted with endowment drives for the Universities of Chicago and Minnesota, respectively. The publicity was under the direction of Hiram L. Kennicott, EΔ'13, and Bard Priddy, P'14. The mechanics of the work were carried out by the Central Office under the direction of the Executive Council.

Two years after the inception of this campaign, the Executive Council was able to report that approximately $512,000 had been raised in subscriptions payable over a period of years from approximately 1,500 subscribers, and that the Chi Psi Educational Trust had approximately $240,000 in cash and securities on deposit with the Illinois Merchants Trust Company of Chicago, Ill., custodian of the fund. As of April, 1940, the Trustees were able to report on hand cash and securities with a book value of $355,141.

The Trust is a great achievement for Chi Psi, since it is the largest endowment ever raised among alumni of any college fraternity regardless of size. Its success is a testimonial to Chi Psi spirit and demonstrates that loyalty and love for Chi Psi continue throughout life.

So it is that after the long period of years from the inception of the idea of an endowment fund, we now find ourselves with one in reality, with an assured income and an organization able and competent to make the Chi Psi Fraternity a real force in supplementing the work of the colleges in developing character and a real interest in education among the student body.

In January, 1934, October, 1936, and May, 1940, there was mailed to all of the contributors a short review of the history, purposes, organization and operation of the Chi Psi Educational Trust.

After careful study of our present and future needs the financial policy of the Chi Psi Fraternity has now been definitely determined as follows:

1. Annual Dues of $5 are to be collected from all alumni who have not contributed a minimum of $100 to the Educational Trust.

2. Chi Psi Educational Trust, the principal of which is properly protected in trust, the interest only to be used for proper educational purposes.

PHILIP SPENCER MEMORIAL TRUST. With the acquisition of the new Central Office property, the first real estate which the general or national Fraternity has owned, we had to provide a legal entity for the convenience of holding title, since the Fraternity itself is a voluntary and unincorporated association. Accordingly there has been organized under the laws of the State of Michigan the Philip Spencer Memorial Trust. We have thus avoided incorporation of the Fraternity itself, yet required that the Trustees of this Trust be always the same persons as the members of the Executive Council of Chi Psi Fraternity.

The powers of the Philip Spencer Memorial Trust are broad enough that it can receive gifts and expend both principal and income for the benefit of the Fraternity.

PUBLICATIONS

CATALOGUE. The Chi Psi "Catalogue" was provided for by the first constitution of the Fraternity. It was to be a triennial catalogue and to contain "A list of the alphas in the order of their establishment; second, a list of the members in each, their officers, times of initiation in each year; third, an alphabetical list of the members preceded by the time of the graduation of the class to which they belonged or belong, and followed by the letter denoting the alpha to which they belong."

The first issue of the "Catalogue" was in 1849, and its publication was carried on with more or less regularity until the action of the convention of 1872, which changed the constitution in this regard and provided for a decennial catalogue to begin in 1881. Between the publication of the "Catalogue" of 1871 and that ordered for 1881, which did not appear until 1883, the Fraternity in convention assembled in 1876 ordered the publication in 1877 of a supplement to the "Catalogue" of 1871 under the direction of Alpha Chi. This did not appear until 1878, when the convention ordered 300 copies printed.

The catalogues up until that published in 1883 were little more than address lists. The one of 1883 began the biographical catalogue as we now have it. In each succeeding "Catalogue" the material has been revised and enlarged.

It may also be noted in connection with the "Catalogue" that the Fraternity through the convention of 1877 voted to publish a guide book, containing an alphabetical and geographical list of the membership of the Fraternity, Kenneth Clark, Π'69, volunteering to pay half the cost. This work was entrusted to Alpha Phi, and for two succeeding conventions her delegates made reports on the matter, but for some unknown reason the book was never published, so far as ascertained.

Following we have a list of the catalogues published, together with the little in-

To supplement the regular "Catalogue" the Executive Council published in 1920 in the place of one of the regular issues of The Purple and Gold a geographical and alphabetical indexed address book of the membership of the Fraternity. This practice was again followed in the years 1923, 1925, 1932, 1935 and 1938.

In January, 1937, the Council approved plans for the publication in 1941 of a profusely illustrated "Chi Psi Centennial History and Biographical Directory."

SONG BOOK. A song book for the Chi Psi Fraternity was spoken of so early as the convention of 1862, when songs were ordered to be collected under the auspices of Alpha Phi. Long before this time—yea, so early as 1850—the Fraternity had its
"Philip Spencer Waltz," and "The Chi Psi Polka," ("Dedicated to the members of the XΨ Society." Composed by C. H. L. Published by Oliver Ditson, Boston.) Following the direction of the 1862 convention, Phi began the collection of songs. A few years later the work was transferred to Epsilon, who continued the collection, but with not sufficient success to warrant publication of a book.

Again was the work transferred, this time to Theta, who, using the previous materials and those of her own, was enabled to publish in 1878 a book four and one-half inches by seven inches, containing in all 24 songs divided as follows: 17 fraternity songs, 2 alumni songs and 5 chapter songs, all without music. This book was from the press of the Globe Stationery & Printing Co., 89 Liberty St., New York, N.Y.

The next publication of the "Song Book" was in 1893, under the direction of Alpha Alpha. This book was ten inches by seven inches, containing eighty pages of songs and music. It was from the press of Tuttle, Morehouse & Taylor, of New Haven, Conn., and published by Thomas D. Shepard, of New Haven.

The third "Song Book" of the Fraternity was again issued under the direction of Alpha Alpha, this time in the year 1915.

This book was ten and one-half inches by seven inches, and contained ninety-seven pages of songs and music. It was from the press of G. Schirmer (Inc.), of New York City. It was copyrighted by the Executive Council of Chi Psi, and was dedicated by Alpha Alpha to Edward C. Swift, E'76, the president of the Fraternity.

In 1927 a thirty-six page paper pamphlet of Chi Psi songs was published by the Executive Council under the direction of John B. Archer, Θ'93, as editor. It was from the press of F. H. Gilson Co., Boston.

In 1936 the present “Song Book” was issued under the direction of Josiah R. Bartlett, X’34. It contains 128 pages and includes 101 songs. The music is expertly arranged for male voices.

“Particular thanks,” says Brother Bartlett in the preface, “are due J. Gregg Paine, A’09, whose position of influence in the musical world smoothed the path to publication of this book and who enlisted for it expert assistance; to William R. Teller, Jr., @’24, whose company printed the ‘Song Book’; to A. Sears Pruden, A’14, co-editor of our 1915 ‘Chi Psi Song Book,’ whose suggestions and contributions enliven the pages of this one; to Frederick S. Randall, E’22; to John B. Archer, @’93, editor of our 1927 ‘Song Book’; to H. Seger Slifer, E’12, and to the Brothers of the Executive Council.”

Copies of the 1936 “Song Book” may be secured from the Central Office at $1 each. Also available for banquets and other Chi Psi gatherings are 16-page pamphlets, including our favorite songs and printed from the same plates as the large book.

MAGAZINE. The Purple and Gold first appeared in November, 1883. Its genesis was so early as 1846, with the following proposal from Alpha Alpha in that year:

“Wesleyan University, Oct. 28, 1846.
“To the Brothers of the Alpha of Bowdoin, Greetings:

“Gents: The existing state of our secret societies here and the rivalry which exists to bear off the meed of honor has led our fellows to consider upon a plan for the promotion of our interests and the establishment of our society upon a high basis in the literary world. There is now strong probability that a periodical of original matter will be started here by the union of two local societies who are our rivals. It will then not only be an advantage to us, but in a measure it is rendered necessary for us in order to sustain our reputation and influence, to anticipate their movements and start a paper of our own.

“For some time our fellows have thought upon the matter, and with zeal and earnestness are determined that no exertion of sacrifice shall be wanting on our part to make the Chi Psi what it is, the first. We had thought of basing it alone upon our alpha and sustaining it by our efforts and the assistance of our graduates, conscious that we could sustain a paper that would fully compete with the best that can be started here. But upon more mature consideration, we have thought that we might establish it upon more permanent basis, secure to it a more able support and give it a wider circulation, while it would at the same time give to all our chapters, to the whole brotherhood, a greater reputation and influence by associating in its support the members, both acting and graduate, of the whole Fraternity.

“The plan we propose is the following, viz.: To publish a monthly paper, entitled the Chi Psi Review (or some other name hereafter to be chosen), of sixty pages octavo. To support it, we propose to unite all the A’s by the following plan: Each A shall choose an editor to receive and correct the communications from the members of his A. The editor of our A shall be the publisher if it is published here (for which we have great facilities); if not the editor of the publishing A. Each editor shall choose from the communications of his A sufficient to fill the number of pages allotted to each A, which shall be published without a note or comment by the publisher to whom they shall be sent.

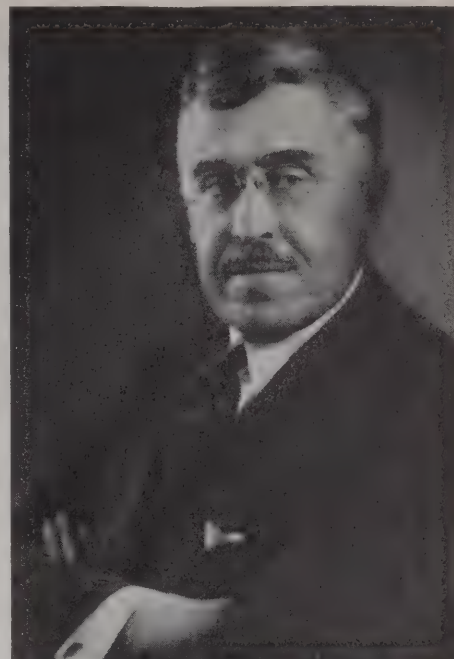

“The A’s shall take turns in furnishing the leading article of the Review. Believing such a scheme feasible, and that the small amount monthly due from each A with the emulation which would exist would give it a high literary character and a permanent support, our fellows appointed a committee of three to write to the other alphas and make such other arrangements as might be necessary. We can get an edition of 500 or 600 printed, so as to put the subscription price at $2 per year. This is but an outline of the plan. Please give it an early consideration and an early reply.

“Yours in behalf of the committee,

“E. S. LIPPITT,
“Chairman.”

Letters similar to the above were sent to each of the alphas, but the response was not encouraging enough to warrant action.

The next that we hear officially of such a proposal was in the convention of 1882.

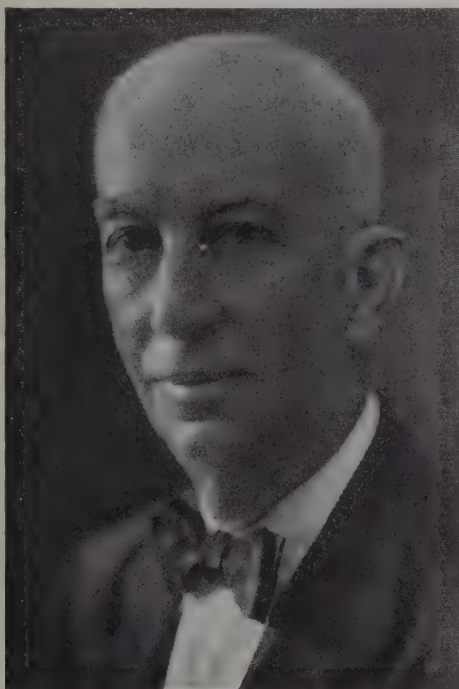

WILLIAM H. HOTCHKISS, Φ’86, was reading law at Auburn, N. Y., when in 1886 he became the first editor-in-chief of The Purple and Gold, following the first three years in which the magazine was in charge of an editorial board of six undergraduates. He was an able editor and made a permanent record in the magazine of much of the early history of the Fraternity.

Frank E. Whitman, X’85, has sent us the letter Brother Hotchkiss wrote him on April 24, 1887, enclosing for criticism Mss. of editorials for the next issue of The Purple and Gold, including the following:

“One of the after-dinner speakers at the banquet touched upon a sentiment new to the Fraternity, ‘our modesty.’ And this paradoxical expression,—for a modest Greek-letter fraternity is unknown,—was interpreted by the brother to mean, that we do not advertise ourselves, our conventions and our great names, as do some of our ‘immodest’ neighbors. In this much the speaker spoke truly. Chi Psi is modest. Her conventions are held without parade; she does not court, rather shuns newspaper notice; her great names are for herself, and her great men do her more good in their active loyalty than do the often exhibited figure-heads of other fraternities. Grant that these figure-heads become sometimes irresistible arguments to guileless sub-freshmen, and that our modesty may perhaps cost us some desirable men. Yet the freshman, who wiser than his fellow, delays his decision, soon enough detects the tinsel and the sham of our advertising neighbors. We have heard a Chi Psi boast that his alpha never lost a man, after a long campaign. We can, then, afford to be modest. Let others exhibit their honorables and their ‘honoraries,’ without a thought of our emulating them; for we feel the influence of our prominent men working quietly but powerfully in our behalf, nor should we ever suffer that influence to be wasted as a catch-penny to the sub-freshman. Thus far are we modest, and this was the meaning of our brother.

“But what really is our modesty? It is only human to boast a little of that of which we are proud. Fraternity men are but human; they are not modest. Neither can they ever be. Nor is Chi Psi in the sense that it will refuse to speak well and proudly of itself. We are not then, modest, in the common acceptance of the word. The brother said, ‘our modesty.’ Has he not heard of an old principle of Chi Psi, a principle born with her, and always recognized through these years. That principle enjoins those modest customs and practices of which our brother spoke. Need we be more plain? that principle is ‘our ancestral virtue’—secrecy. And our modesty then, becomes nothing save our secrecy.”

DR. HENRY T. HOTCHKISS, Φ’84, looking back in 1933 said of the first issue of The Purple and Gold, of whose editorial board he was senior member:

“There are sixty-seven pages, compact, portions of rather fine type, no illustrations, and on good paper. A criticism is not the object of this note. After fifty years the first issue is of quite as much interest as when printed. The subject matter embraced in the table of contents of No. 1, Vol. 1, has yet to be surpassed in merit. The Mss. were solicited from our alumni. Prof. Henry A. Frink, ’70, the faculty member of Phi, was of great assistance in this way. Alumni of Chi and Rho did yeoman service.”

The table of contents reads:

“A Plea for College Fraternities”—Hon. Elbridge T. Gerry, Z’57.

Poem—“When Chi Psi Was Born”—Clinton Scollard, Φ’81.

Reminiscences—“Two Antiques”—Ausburn Townner, Φ’58.

Editorial—“Our Greeting”—“The Purple

This convention appointed a committee to canvass the Fraternity and to report to the convention of 1883 as to the advisability of the establishment of a magazine by the Fraternity. Today it is interesting to note the attitude which the various alphas took toward the proposition. Mu was "decidedly in favor of starting a paper"; Phi—"in favor and ready to give her assistance"; Epsilon—"most emphatically against it"; Beta—"favorable"; Gamma—"strongly in favor"; Chi—"decidedly against"; Tau—"favors the idea"; Iota—"very much in favor"; Nu—"ready and willing to aid the project"; and Theta—"decidedly opposed."

A report based upon the above was made to the convention of 1883, and therein it was moved, "That Chi Psi establish and maintain a fraternity paper." This motion was carried and the matter was referred to a committee which reported—"We recommend that it be published in pamphlet form, cost to be limited to $75 an issue of 250 copies, and to be paid by subscriptions of one dollar per annum. We advise that the journal be called The Purple and Gold and be issued on the first day of the months of October, February and June of each year." This report was adopted, and so it was that The Purple and Gold first appeared in the Fall of 1883, from the press of Weed, Parsons & Co., Albany, N. Y.

In 1932-1933 The Purple and Gold celebrated its fiftieth year. The issue of November, 1933, had as its cover a facsimile of the first cover, that of the issue of November, 1883. Said the Editor in November, 1933:

"This is an historic occasion. It is the fiftieth 'birthday' of The Purple and Gold. Few publications live that long. The life of our magazine is convincing proof of the vitality of our Fraternity."

The first volume appeared under the direction of Phi, Chi and Rho, the second and third volumes under Chi, Phi and Theta. For these three years an editorial board composed of six undergraduates conducted the fortunes of The Purple and Gold. With volume four The Purple and Gold passed into the hands of its first alumnus editor, William Horace Hotchkiss, Φ'86. He edited volumes four, five, six, seven and one issue of volume eight. He was succeeded by William Miller Collier, Φ'80, who edited volumes eight and nine.

To the untiring labor and devotion of these two men is due much of the credit for the success of The Purple and Gold as a magazine, and much further credit as the collectors of a vast amount of source material of Chi Psi history.

Volume ten appeared under the direction of Harry T. Dayton, P'92. With the beginning of volume eleven the magazine entered upon a troubled career for the next four years. Owing to unfortunate incidents, mainly the sickness of the editor and lack of a successor, one number only was published in each of volumes eleven and ALUMNI AT ALBANY DINNER. This picture from a typical alumni gathering shows the head table at the dinner in Albany, N. twelve, in June of 1894 and in June of 1895. Volume thirteen again assumed the dignity of three numbers under the same editor. One number only, that of November, 1896, appeared in volume fourteen.

With volume fifteen the magazine again went under the control of Phi and undergraduates—E. R. Wright, Φ'98, S. W. Hildreth, Φ'99, and A. R. Warner, Φ'99. The next year The Purple and Gold was taken over by A. R. Warner, Φ'99, and I. W. Henderson, Φ'00. These men jointly managed the magazine through volume twenty-five. With volume twenty-six Brother Henderson assumed sole charge, and continued the publication through volume thirty-one. At the conclusion of this editorship the magazine was brought directly under the control of the Executive Council of the Fraternity, and H. Seger Slifer, E'12, was chosen as editor. Hiram L. Kennicott, EΔ'13, succeeded to this office in 1929.

Assuming direct control of the magazine with Volume 32 in November, 1914, the Executive Council has continued in charge, and constantly has endeavored to make this publication of interest to all members of Chi Psi. Since 1920 the magazine has been distributed to all members of the Fraternity.

The magazine has always maintained a more conservative policy than most of the other fraternity papers. It is published for members only, is not open to outside subscription, and exchanges with no other publications. Its purpose is to make everlasting that sentiment of the fraternity, "Once a Chi Psi, Always a Chi Psi."

ALPHA NEWSPAPERS. The periodical news-letters from the alphas to their alumni have in many cases evolved into printed and illustrated newspapers, some of which have been short-lived or infrequently issued because of the expense, others of which are flourishing.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS

REGIONAL. During the formative years of Chi Psi's existence there was little organized contact or association between the active and graduate members of the Fraternity. Occasional correspondence and the attendance of a few loyal alumni at conventions were the only links between undergraduate and alumnus. It was not until the 20th Convention in 1861 that the desirability of organizing the graduate members was first called to the attention of the Fraternity. This convention approved the establishment of a Chi Psi Association of graduates in New York City, but a similar recommendation, made four years later, indicates that little was immediately accomplished. There is no further mention of alumni until the convention of 1871 when the Chi Psi Association of New York volunteered to print the "Catalogue" which the actives were having difficulty financing.

Alumni reference to association reunions in the early Purple and Gold suggests that the Chi Psi Association of the Northwest was established in 1876 and that the Michigan Association arrived on the scene a year later. No mention, however, is made of these two organizations in the convention minutes of this time. In fact, the Convention of 1878 recommended that "alumni associations be formed in order to make for a more vigorous fraternity life," and the chairman of the convention was instructed to establish associations in Chicago and Detroit.

Inadequate and conflicting accounts of the establishment and activity of these earliest alumni associations make an exact accounting of their founding impossible. All that can be ascertained from existing memorabilia is that the first Chi Psi Association of alumni was organized in New York City between 1865 and 1871, followed shortly by associations in Minneapolis and Detroit.

With the permanent establishment of the Chicago Association in 1885 and the Milwaukee group five years later, the alumni began to play an increasingly important part as is evidenced by the appearance, for the first time, of an association delegate to the 51st Convention. The following year, 1893, there first appeared alumni association reports in the minutes of the convention. It was also at this convention that each association was instructed to appoint a historian, whose duty it was to keep The Purple and Gold informed of the association's activity.

In 1897 The Purple and Gold adopted the policy of publishing the names and addresses of the association secretaries. At this time eleven associations were listed, including besides those already mentioned, associations in New England, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Georgia.

Before the turn of the century, the Fraternity was fully aware of the necessity for well-organized and active alumni groups. Committees were appointed by the conventions to further the establishment of alumni associations and encourage the individual associations to form rushing and sub-freshman committees. For a number of years the various alumni organizations were represented at the annual conventions, and regular reports were presented along with those of the alphas. It was during this period, the late 80's and early 90's, that a large number of our present alumni associations were formed.

As the alphas founded since 1900 have tended to complete the geographical links between those already established, so the alumni associations founded since that date have tended to round out the organization of our alumni from coast to coast. Today Chi Psi has forty-three alumni associations representing all the major cities in the United States. Unfortunately, a few of these associations live at present in name only, but on the other hand many are active in the affairs of nearby alphas and the general Fraternity.

In some cities there are separate alumni clubs of certain alphas, such as the Alfalfa Club in New York City and the Iota group in Chicago.

ALPHA. Each alpha has some sort of an alpha alumni association or corporation. Responsibility for the ownership and maintenance of the lodge property is an essential raison d'être for such an organization, but elder-brotherly watchfulness over scholarship and co-operation with the undergraduates in rushing and many other matters are some other functions equally important.

Many of the existing alpha associations, or building corporations, by whatever name, are already operating with efficiency and great usefulness. Others are in need of rehabilitation and revitalization, for the following reason that has been pointed out by the Visitor:

"A good alpha without a good and active group of alumni is rare indeed. On the other hand, it is the usual thing to find, when an alpha goes into a tailspin, that the alumni have not done their part. Where the alumni have come forward, the alphas have promptly recovered. However, no recovery was effected until they did. The national Fraternity can never become a proper substitute for the local alumni support."

The trustees of the Chi Psi Educational Trust are counseling alpha building corporation officers concerned to campaign actively for the reduction of their debts while times are good and before another depression should be encountered.

NATIONAL. A National Chi Psi Alumni Association came into being in 1934 at the 93rd Convention in Chicago as a result of the expressed desire of the Fraternity alumni attending the convention for some method or vehicle to bring them into closer contact with the Fraternity. This fitted in with a need long expressed in the Executive Council for organized alumni interest and action of national scope outside the confines of the Council.

George E. Haskins, E'06, was active in the promotion of the National Association and became its first president. He immediately wrote to many alumni for ideas and suggestions, and nation-wide correspondence ensued that promised fine results. Downtown office quarters in Chicago were made available through the kindness of G. P. Rock, ZΔ'22. K. E. Hellstrom, ZΔ'08, W. P. Rock, ΨΔ'27, and W. J.

Chaille, AΔ'29, co-operated actively there. L. B. McBride, X'32, outlined plans for national co-operation in rushing. Upon Brother Haskins' removal to Florida in 1935 the presidency was assumed by Brother Hellstrom. He in turn was succeeded in 1938 by Frae S. Wilson, ZΔ'28. Florida in 1939 also claimed him, since when the organization as such has been in abeyance awaiting new leadership, though its activities have been carried forward by Brother Chaille, who is not available for the presidency of the National Association due to his membership on the Executive Council.

As President of Chi Psi, Frank Matthiesen, Ψ'95, was greatly interested in promoting a service to assist Chi Psis, particularly recent graduates, in securing employment. Were it not that he became stricken with illness, this project of his already being explored by the National Association probably would have been put into execution in some form.

BIRTHDAY DINNERS. But the crowning achievement of the National Chi Psi Alumni Association, many times over justifying its existence, was the inauguration of the Birthday Dinners. Conceived in the mind of Brother Haskins, the idea of a nationwide series of dinners each May 20 to celebrate the founding of the Fraternity, was and has continued to be what the boys of today call it, "a natural."

The institution sprang into being full-fledged in 1935. Spontaneous enthusiasm was aroused, and fifty-five dinners, large and small, attended by a total of over one thousand Chi Psis, were held simultaneously in all sections of the country. This success has been repeated each year since and bids fair to go on and on indefinitely.

The pivotal dinner, for exchange of greetings between all the gatherings, was held in 1940 in New York City. Previously it had been at Chicago, where it became the custom for President Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, to deliver an address, copies of which were sent out in advance to be read at the dinners elsewhere. It is fitting to close this account by quoting his posthumous message of May 20, 1940:

"Today we celebrate the birthday of our Fraternity and at midnight Chi Psi will enter its one-hundredth year.

"In this era of questionnaires, of analysis carried to extremes, of seeking the whys and wherefores, nothing escapes scrutiny, not even the family. So there are those who will be prompted by this occasion to wonder how our Fraternity has lived for a century, whether it will survive another, and if so why.

"I am not one of those who 'would peep and botanize upon his mother's grave.' Family, friendship and fraternity defy investigation. I for one will take them as they are and treasure them while I live. So I fancy will most others of the elders of Chi Psi. So more and more will you younger men as the years pass on.

"Nor am I one who views with undue alarm the increase in dormitories and this change or that change in the conditions surrounding our alphas.

"Many have been the changes in the colleges and in the nation since 1841, and adaptability to external change has only proved the internal changelessness of true brotherhood. Civil War, World War, anti-fraternity laws—we have lived through them all. So long as we are steadfast in our ideals we need not fear change.

"In the last issue of our magazine a Chi Psi initiated in 1877 wrote concerning two of his contemporaries: 'In their time both had not been lax in their loyalty to Chi Psi. I have been in close touch with both for about fifty years. Of seven Chi Psis in my class I am the only survivor. I have always rejoiced that the best fraternity took a chance on me.'

"Last month some of us wrote to a Chi Psi on his seventy-fifth birthday, and he replied: 'My heart has been warmed by these evidences of affection and the binding ties of our fraternity. Who can evaluate such ties! How empty life would be without them!'

"Ours are Bonds forged in the heat of youth, of metal free from the dross so hard to escape in the world outside of college gates. Our Bonds are friendships, begun when life is young and not broken in old age. Cherish them, for they are priceless.

*'Can you number the gems on that Chi of gold,
Or fathom the secrets those gems unfold?
Then count them—though strange, you will find it true,*

Two meanings in one, and one in two!"

"Brothers, on your feet, a toast to Philip Spencer, to the founding of our Fraternity ninety-nine years ago today, and to all who wear upon their bosoms the badge of the Chi Psi!"

CHICAGO CHI PSI CLUB-HOUSE. When the 92nd Convention was held in Chicago in 1933, Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, produced from his memorabilia the booklet of which the title page is reproduced here, dated March 23, 1893. It sets forth in part that "at its last annual Dinner, the Chicago Alumni Association of Chi Psi instructed its Executive Committee to devise and put into execution some plan for entertaining the Chi Psi brethren visiting the World's Fair this summer, and, if possible, some scheme for reserving accommodations for them and ensuring them while here every comfort and convenience." Accordingly:

"A lease has been secured of an elegant three-story house, surrounded by a large lot, on the corner of 39th Street and Michigan Avenue. The house itself is all that could be desired; a large three-story residence, which is now being placed in thorough repair. The first floor contains a comfortable parlor, a large smoking room and a dining room, which are being furnished with elegant club room furniture. On the upper floors are the sleeping rooms, most of them large and all of them airy and comfortable. These are being furnished very neatly with a special view to cleanliness and comfort.

"The Committee wish to call attention to the fact that the above prices (for rooms) are far lower for the superior location and conveniences than the exorbitant rates the hotels and boarding houses are preparing to charge. They are able to offer these low terms only through the generosity of Mr. Matthiessen (Frank Matthiessen, Ψ'95) in obtaining a lease on such easy terms, and because the services of the committee are entirely gratuitous and because this is not a money making scheme, but is presented by the Chicago Alumni Association of Chi Psi as a means of entertaining and meeting members who visit the Fair."

The 52nd Chi Psi Convention was held in this club-house that year.

The Chicago Alumni Association had been established on a permanent basis in 1885, but had been projected some years earlier. In May of 1871, Alfred B. Sager, E'71, was No. 6 at the convention in Ann Arbor, Mich., and he was editor of the "Catalogue" of that year, printed in New York, N. Y. In our archives in Ann Arbor, the following letters to him from George M. Gage, X'69, of Chicago, Ill., throw light on the earlier attempt at establishment of the Chicago Chi Psi Alumni Association:

"Winnetka, Oct. 30th, '70.

"Your kind letter of the 21st came duly to hand and lack of time must be my apology for its not having received a more prompt reply.

"The establishment of an Alumni Association, which you urge upon me, I assure you none would more gladly see realized than myself.

"Nevertheless, I should be unwilling to incur any great expense, or assume any great responsibility, without the express authority of the alumni. Especially so, since there seems to be a difference of opinion among those whom I have consulted as to the nature of the organization. I therefore think that the better way will be to issue a call for an informal meeting of the alumni and lay the matter before them, for such action as they may see fit to take.

"I will endeavor to hold the meeting this week, and will inform you of their action as soon thereafter as may be.

"Living out of the city as I do, a matter of this character cannot receive from me as prompt attention as it deserves. And I shall endeavor when a meeting is held to have the business placed in the hands of someone who can push it through.

"I have received yours of the 1st with Lambert's (J. H. Lambert, Ψ'46) enclosed, which please find enclosed herewith.

"By all means send it ('Catalogue') to New York. We were somewhat anxious to have it printed in Chicago, but only that it might be under direct supervision of alumni, who could and would secure a good job and fulfillment of contract.

"My college experience has taught me that all men consider it fair and honorable to cheat college students. The experience at Hamilton last year did not tend to weaken my convictions.

"But while anxious to see the work done and done well, I am not anxious to have it done in Chicago. On the contrary as the New York alumni are not only willing, but desirous, of having it done in that city, my only object in having it sent to Chicago is done away with.

"Your letter was received on Thursday, the evening of that day having been appointed for the informal meeting. All had been notified, but only nine, of the younger men, came together. Officers were elected, Dr. Maynard (William J. Maynard, E'65) Pres., Yours Truly, Scribe and Banker, and a committee appointed to wait on the non-present alumni and test their feelings (and pockets) in regard to establishing a permanent organization, with furnished lodge, etc.

"If the absentees agreed to help support such a lodge, it was the vote of those present that one be established. Otherwise, we will attempt merely the annual meeting, or meet at the office of some of the members.

"The committee reports at the same place Dec. 1st, I believe. These things cannot be rushed, because we can't find a committee who can spare time to rush things. Maynard, MacHarg (William S. MacHarg, E'68) and Waterman (probably Richard Waterman, A'62) are the committee.

Ordinary service over long periods and extraordinary service in sudden and short times of need, are not uncommon, but seldom does a volunteer serve continuously through a lifetime, diligent alike in uneventful monotony and in exciting crises.

Such an exceptional one is Vojta Frank Mashek, Psi '89.

Over a half-century he rose from the neophyte ranks to the presidency of his fraternity. In his youth he was endowed with inborn sagacity. With years there was added the knowledge of men and affairs that comes with successful business achievement.

These talents that gained him among his Chi Psi associates the affectionate sobriquet of "Little Napoleon" have been expended for us quietly and modestly but with unexampled generosity, and now bring to him the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

D. S. A.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Ninety-eighth Convention:

Whereas, many Chi Psis have been loyal and devoted to our Fraternity throughout its long history, occasionally there appears a brother who, through the years after college, has rendered conspicuously distinguished service to Chi Psi and whom we believe it fitting and proper to recognize and honor.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the Ninety-eighth Convention create a Distinguished Service Award to be conferred on these outstanding alumni from time to time as they are deemed deserving of such an award.

Be It Further Resolved, that we now recognize the life-long service and devotion to Chi Psi of Albert S. Bard, X'88, Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, and John W. Anderson, E'90, and we hereby confer on them the Chi Psi Distinguished Service Award.

Whereas, the Chi Psi Distinguished Service Award has been created by this convention,

Be It Resolved, that further awards from time to time shall be made in accordance with the procedure outlined: 1. The first three recipients, Brothers Bard, Mashek, and Anderson, are hereby elected to be the committee on awards and shall serve until their successors are elected by themselves. The successors shall themselves be holders of the award. 2. The committee shall have sole discretion in the matter of selection of additional men to receive the Award, the manner of procedure and the rules of eligibility. 3. The Award carries with it a citation setting forth the character of the service rendered, suitably engrossed, together with an emblem for wear on a watch-chain, suitably engraved. The Award should be made at an appropriate Chi Psi function. 4. The facilities of the Central Office shall be at the disposal of the committee and any expense of the committee shall be assumed by the Fraternity. 5. Each year the committee on awards shall report to the convention the names of the recipients of the year preceding and their citations shall be read to the convention and be made a part of its minutes. The Purple and Gold shall also make proper record of this high honor.

At Chicago on November 17, 1939, alumni under the leadership of Howell W. Murray, EA'14, who conceived the idea of the Award, tendered a dinner at the Chicago Club to Brother Mashek, at which the citation illustrated here was presented. The excitement of the occasion obliged Brother Mashek, who is not in robust health, to retire, and the Award was accepted in his behalf by Vojta Frank Mashek, Jr., Ψ'28.

Brother Anderson, who had come from Detroit to the dinner, accepted his Award on this occasion also. A dinner in his home city had been planned, but Brother Anderson preferred to have it this way.

In New York City at the Ninety-ninth Birthday Dinner on May 20, 1940, the D.S.A. was made to Brother Bard.

Charles Love Durham, Y'91, was the next one honored, the D.S.A. being given him at an Alpha Zeta Delta dinner, at which he was a speaker, in Champaign, Ill., on June 1, 1940.

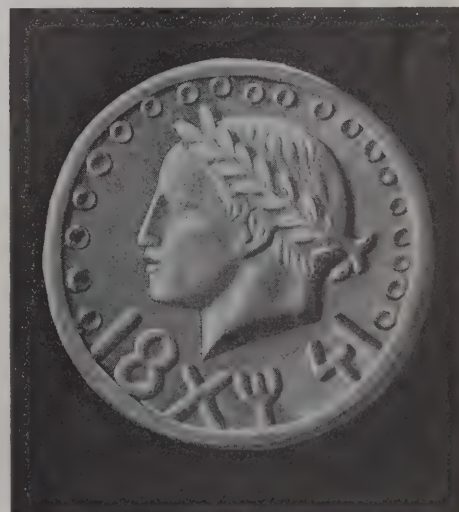

Howard Greene, I'86, No. 6 of the Ninety-ninth Convention, received the Award at the convention banquet, in Madison, Wis., on September 7, 1940.

The emblem is of gold, designed like an ancient Greek coin, with a head crowned with laurel—symbolic of achievement—and with the Greek letters "Chi Psi" and the figures "1841." The reverse is suitably engraved to identify the Award and the recipient.

Each citation is engrossed in the manner of Brother Mashek's illustrated here and the wording of the others follows:

No greater tribute to the worthiness of our Fraternity has been paid, than the willingness of

ALBERT SPRAGUE BARD, CHI '88, to serve Chi Psi through all his years in the ranks, as a member of the Executive Council and as president.

Always a crusader in good causes, uncompromising in devotion to good taste and right conduct, his influence among us has been ever beneficent.

In deeds for the Fraternity his contributions have included many a thankless and inconspicuous task of research and legal counsel, as well as notable participation in the Interfraternity Conference. His leadership has ever been along paths of exactitude in business as well as rectitude of purpose. In recognition of it is made to him this Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

CHARLES LOVE DURHAM, UPSILON '91, Southern gentleman and classical scholar, gave richly to the Fraternity in the gift of his own personality. But added to this has been a half-century of substantial and devoted service to Chi Psi.

At Cornell University, where his academic career has been crowned by the first incumbency of the Distinguished Service Professorship endowed by John Wendell Anderson, Epsilon '90, Brother Durham has been ever a bulwark of strength to Alpha Psi.

When this Fraternity established the Chi Psi Educational Trust, he spent much of a Sabbatical year in the successful campaign for the fund.

In expressing the ideals of Chi Psi, he has been an inspiring speaker at countless of our gatherings, always contributing to our counsels both enthusiasm and wisdom.

For all of which he is now made the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

Nomination of HOWARD GREENE, IOTA '86, to preside at the 99th Chi Psi Convention at Madison, Wisconsin, under the auspices of Alpha Iota was a natural choice. In Wisconsin he is renowned for business leadership, financial stewardship, and volunteer service in the army of his country in two wars.

Father and grandfather of Chi Psis, his half-century and more in the Bonds have found him ever loyal to Chi Psi, to Alpha Iota, and to our alumni association in his native city of Milwaukee.

Thus it is particularly fitting at this time and place to honor him with the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

Others selected by the Committee up to the date of this writing to receive the D. S. A. on subsequent occasions include: Frank Cooper, Π'93, Thomas Freeman Wallace, Jr., N'93, Charles Francis Craig, ΔΔ'97, and Howell Worth Murray, EA'14. (See also P. 203.)

RHODES SCHOLARS

Chi Psi's Rhodes Scholars have been ten:

ROBERT L. HENRY, EA'02, is a Judge of the Mixed Courts, of Alexandria, Egypt.

HENRY S. MITCHELL, N'05, is an attorney, in Minneapolis, Minn.

DR. JOHN L. HYDRICK, T'08, of Batavia, Java, is doing notable work on the field staff of the International Health Board under the Rockefeller Foundation, in Netherlands India.

RUSSELL HOLT PETERS, Ψ' 20, is managing editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

DR. JOHN N. FULTON, N'21, is Sterling Professor of Physiology in Yale University.

W. D. P. CAREY, Ψ'23, is an attorney in Hutchinson, Kan.

DR. HERVEY M. CLECKLEY, AΔ'25, is professor of neuro-psychiatry at the University of Georgia school of medicine, Augusta, Ga.

HUDSON MOORE, JR., ΨΔ'27, is on the engineering staff of the Public Service Co. of Colorado, at Denver.

EDWARD F. DRAKE, P'32, is with the Bankers Trust Co., 57th St. and Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

SHERMAN L. PEASE, N'36, is with United British Oil Fields of Trinidad, Ltd., Point Fortin, Trinidad, B. W. I.

LEGACIES

Chi Psi prides itself on being a "family fraternity," and owes much of its strength to the realization of that claim. This began in the earliest days; for instance, the first son of an Epsilon man to be initiated was Dr. E. A. Christian, E'79, son of E. P. Christian, E'47.

W. D. P. CAREY, Ψ'23, Rhodes Scholar

ROBERT L. HENRY, EA'02, Rhodes Scholar

RUSSELL HOLT PETERS, Ψ'20, Rhodes Scholar

In recent years, third generation Chi Psis are appearing in pleasing numbers. Waldo Mack Abbot, Jr., E'39, is the son of Waldo Mack Abbot, E'11, and grandson of Willis J. Abbot, E'84. George Woodruff Perrett, E'30, is the grandson of Montgomery Schuyler Woodruff, E'67.

And a fourth generation Chi Psi is Alester Garden Furman, III, X'39, the son of Alester G. Furman, Jr., Σ'40, grandson of Alester G. Furman, Y'86, and great-grandson of Charles M. Furman, Y'59; (also grandson of Joseph B. Earle, Y'82, and related to a host of other Chi Psis.)

"Chi Psi families" of six to a dozen or more are now numerous, as in the case of the Ross family of Alpha Mu, the Goodbody family, the Uihleins, the Falks, and many others. But without doubt Hugh C. Haynsworth, Y'95, would win the prize for the most Chi Psi kinsmen—forty-nine by blood and marriage, and probably the Alester G. Furmans would tie for runner-up. (See Alpha Upsilon section.)

After the Ninety-eighth Convention, John P. Montrose, Φ'87, wrote:

"I should like to add another Chi Psi maxim, 'We Never Lose a Heritage,' to rank with the one in existence since the founders' days, 'No Dividing Line Between College and After Life!'

"I believe that our training and spirit are such that they insure good blood and desirable material in our heritages for the Fraternity. It is a high ideal. We should feel there is a distinct guarantee. I feel that the importance of this should be strongly emphasized.

"It has been vividly forced on my attention that Chi Psi sons or other heritages have been the outstanding leaders in every alpha blessed with them. Look over the records and you cannot but be surprised and impressed. There must be something in Chi Psi training. It adds glory to the Fraternity. Protect it. At Alpha Phi, my own alpha, ever since the 1880's when I was there, and when Phi first began regularly to inherit heritages, for over fifty years her leaders have been almost continuously her sons or other relations. Phi was represented at the last convention by one of her sons, H. Allen Carroll, '38, son of James F. Carroll, '06. There were other heritages, also, whom I have picked out in the list of delegates, such as R. D. Sherer, X'38, nephew of H. W. Murray, EA'14; L. L. McArthur, ΔΔ'38, son of L. A. McArthur, ΔΔ'08; C. H. Winkler, I'38, son of W. K. Winkler, I'07, and, last but not least, J. W. Anderson, E'90, son of W. A. Anderson, H'61. There may have been others. Our California alphas are now running strong competition to some of our older eastern alphas in their record as to number of sons."

W. Jackson Chaille, AA'29, when he was a Visitor, epitomized the Fraternity's feeling as to legacies, or heritages, as follows:

"It would be hard to list specifically the numerous assets and advantages gained from being a Chi Psi, but it is safe to say that one of our proudest claims is in our many 'Chi Psi Families.' Naturally these families do not just 'happen' to be Chi Psi; but such a pride and love for the Fraternity has been instilled into each new generation or members of the same generation that an inherent right is given and handed down as a legacy to become a member also and through association gain the same advantages afforded the legators.

"What right has an alpha to turn down a legacy? What right has a Chi Psi to expect that his son or close relative be accepted as a member? These questions are asked over and over every year by alumni and undergraduates and unfortunately are not always answered to the satisfaction of everyone. If they were, the problem would be solved and this article wouldn't be written. When an alpha loses what it considers a good legacy the Chi Psi relatives are criticized for not using their influence. On the other hand, when it refuses what is considered an undesirable legacy, the relatives will probably condemn the alpha, and the alpha criticize them for doing so. It is all very inconsistent. Thank goodness there is a happy medium wherein the legacy is taken. There are many of these and few of the others, so our present problem is with the few.

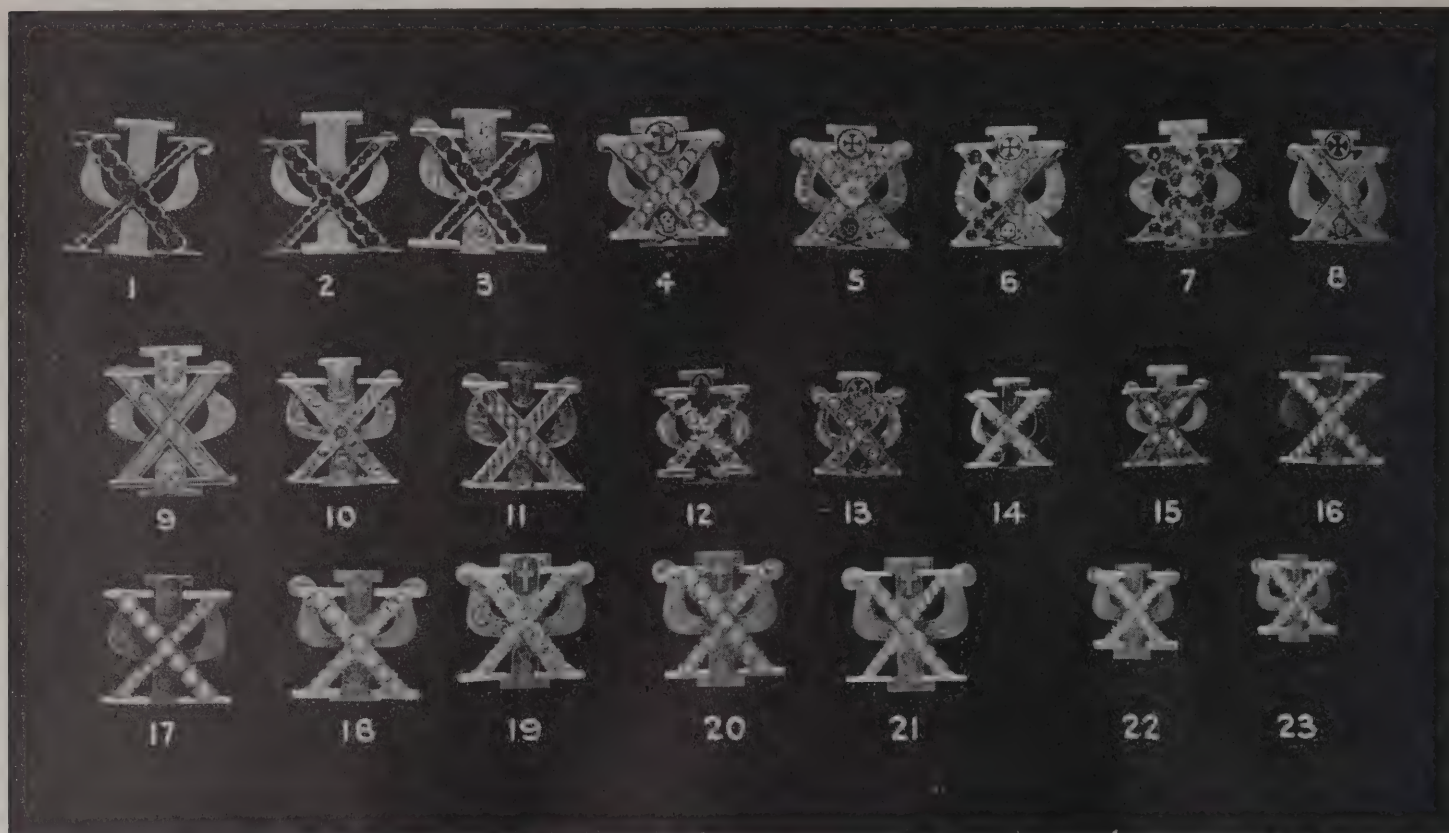

"A legacy is an obligation on the part of an alpha to give special consideration to the man who comes under that category. An alpha would be unwise to pass an iron-bound rule requiring itself to take all legacies, and yet the obligation is so strong that it is almost an iron-bound rule in itself. From the standpoint of what a man will mean to the alpha in a material way we realize that a chance is taken on every man initiated, legacy or not. Only time will prove his being an asset or liability to the Fraternity, if such can be definitely determined. Our alphas have not all realized that there is an obligation to take the chance on the legacy, and give him, if anyone, the opportunity of proving his mettle. To take in the son or close relative of a Chi Psi is to increase his interest. Legacies come from good substantial backgrounds. Alphas which turn them down or let them go to other fraternities gain absolutely nothing and lose plenty."

HUDSON MOORE, JR., ΨΔ'27, Rhodes Scholar

LODGE LIBRARIES

In The Purple and Gold for January, 1936, appeared a symposium on "Better Lodge Libraries for Chi Psi Alphas," promoted by Jackson E. Towne, EA'16, librarian of Michigan State College. In addition to Brother Towne, Chi Psi college librarians joining in the symposium were J. D. Ibbotson, Φ'90 (Hamilton College), Robert S. Fletcher, X'97 (Amherst College), L. T. Ibbotson, Φ'22 (University of Maine), and J. S. Ibbotson, Φ'29 (Colby College).

As a result of the interest thus aroused, the Trustees of the Chi Psi Educational Trust in October, 1936, voted a subsidy up to $50 to match cash appropriated in equal amount by any alpha for its lodge library.

This has been continued from year to year, and for the college year 1937-38 John Wendell Anderson, E'90, also personally matched each alpha's appropriation, making a total of $150 for each alpha taking full advantage of the opportunity to build up its lodge library.

Alphas availing themselves of the offer during the three college years ended in June, 1940, included Pi (twice), Theta, Eta, Sigma, Chi (twice), Psi, Nu, Gamma Delta, Epsilon Delta, Psi Delta, Theta Delta. Others are expected to follow.

Bookplates have been provided, showing the source of additions to lodge libraries made in this way, and suggestions for the care and use of the books have been furnished to the alphas.

THE BADGE

Following are the notes of H. Seger Slifer, E'12, on the collection of badges at the Central Office from which the accompanying plate was made, illustrating the evolution of the Chi Psi Badge by period specimens:

1. Badge of George Jackson, II'45, set with jets, 8 large ones on one arm of the X and 12 small ones on the other. Cross within the circle at the top and the skull and daggers at the bottom of the middle arm of the Ψ are just stamped in the gold. The photograph shows the actual height of the badge and it is very thin; the thickness of the entire badge hardly extends one-eighth of an inch, meaning that the Ψ and the X are each about one-sixteenth of an inch thick. Badge now owned by Alpha Pi.

2. Badge of Abraham Avery, Jr., A'48. Its general description is practically identical to the Jackson badge. It is now owned by the Central Office.

3. Badge of Asahel Clark, II'51. It is quite similar to the first two except that all portions of the Ψ are engraved. The other two are plain. All three of these badges are set with jets. Badge now owned by Alpha Pi.

4. Badge of Henry V. Pelton, X'66, one of the founders of Alpha Chi. It is his original badge, secured in 1864. This is set with pearls, 7 large ones and 8 small ones. The arms and standard of the Ψ are engraved and the cross and circle at the top of the middle bar of the Ψ and the skull and cross bones at the bottom are stamped in black. This badge is considerably shorter than the earlier ones and also considerably thicker. Lent by Ernest W. Pelton, X'01, of New Britain, Conn.

5. Badge of Edward C. Swift, E'76. The Ψ is engraved and the cross within the circle and the skull and cross bones are in black, as in the Pelton badge. The center stone is a diamond, the other sets are turquoise.

6. This badge is of the same period. The treatment of the Ψ is the same as that of the two prior badges. The center stone is a diamond. Those stones above and below the center on the left side, facing the badge, are rubies; the ones on the right side are pearls. Badge of Charles R. Wells, E'73.

7. This badge is of about the same period. The Ψ is chased but the emblems at the top and bottom of the middle arm of the Ψ are engraved and not in black. The center gem is a diamond and the others are rubies.

8. This badge is of about the same period, the Ψ being chased, with the emblems stamped in black, and all sets are diamonds.

9. Badge of Alfred D. Pace, I'75. This badge is again larger than the last five in the upper row, and no doubt illustrates that there were different styles manufactured by different jewelers. There was, at that time, no sole official jeweler. The Ψ is chased, with the emblems being engraved, and all the sets are pearls.

10. Exact period unknown. Arms of Ψ chased, with emblems engraved. Sets are diamonds.

11. Same description except sets are pearls.

12. Badge of Samuel T. Douglas, E'73. Somewhat smaller in size than others. Arms of the Ψ are chased, with the emblems stamped in black. There are only 9 jewels in this badge. The two at the top and at the bottom of the X are emeralds, the one at the middle of the X a diamond, and those immediately next, pearls.

13. Badge of Ford DeCamp Hinchman, E'69. Arms of the Ψ are chased, with emblems stamped in black, with 15 jewels, all being diamonds. Only slightly different in size from the Douglas badge.

14. Bright gold badge with no chasing on the Ψ, emblems stamped in black and set with 15 diamonds. Probably of somewhat nearly the same time as the former two badges.

15. Badge of John S. Delavan, II'62. Arms of the Ψ are chased, with the emblems engraved. The center stone is a ruby as are also those at the top of each arm of the X, the intervening stones being pearls. Badge now owned by Alpha Pi.

16. A badge of later manufacture. The arms of the Ψ are plain, with the emblems engraved, the center stone is a diamond, with the others being pearls.

17. Badge of the style manufactured in 1900. The Ψ has practically the same treatment as badges of today. Set with 17 pearls.

18. Full pearl crown set badge of about 1915.

19. Crown set diamond badge of 1930.

20. Crown set pearl badge of 1930.

21. Half crown set pearl badge of 1936, the official badge in use today.

22. Crown set full pearl one-quarter size badge in use today, with 17 pearls.

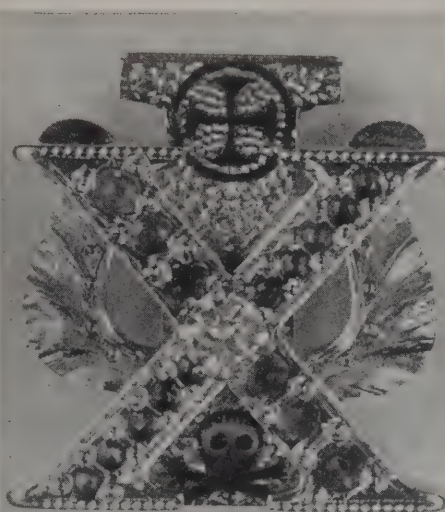

23. Crown set full pearl one-eighth size badge, containing 15 pearls, smallest size official badge today.

BADGE OF R. T. WYCKOFF, Ψ '88. On April 24, 1885, a Chi Psi badge was pinned on the waistcoat of Richard Tuttle Wyckoff, Ψ '88, one of the little group of eleven who revived Alpha Psi at Cornell. Today, just about fifty-five years later, the badge reposes in the safe of the Central Office and with it comes quite an interesting story.

Richard Tuttle Wyckoff died in Springfield, Mass., February 19, 1926. The badge was purchased in a Boston pawnshop by Dr. Roy W. Franklin, Σ '31, while he was attending Harvard Medical School. He kept it for a time but turned it over to Alpha Psi in 1936. In December, 1939, Professor C. L. Durham, Υ '91, of Cornell University, while in Detroit calling upon John W. Anderson, Υ '90 (who was initiated at Cornell in October, 1885), showed him the old Wyckoff badge, since he knew that Brothers Anderson and Wyckoff had been students together in Ithaca. That brought back many memories to John W. Anderson.

In the summer of 1885 one Richard T. Wyckoff was visiting friends in LaCrosse, Wis., and while there became acquainted with John W. Anderson, who had been graduated that spring from the local high school. In the fall of that year Anderson landed in Ithaca, N. Y., to attend Cornell, knowing but one living soul within its borders, Wyckoff. He called to see Anderson at his hotel, the old Tompkins House, and then for the first time Anderson noted on his vest a replica of a badge he had seen many times in his father's old bureau top drawer. Anderson was invited to meet some of Wyckoff's friends, who lived over the Sage Block, and imagine his astonishment to note that each of Wyckoff's friends bore upon his vest front the replica of his father's badge. Finally he screwed up his courage to the point of telling this fact to one of them. Whisperings took place! Anderson was questioned and cross-questioned. A "catalogue" was produced and pored over. A telegram was sent his father that night, and the result was that some weeks later he was initiated into Chi Psi at Alpha Psi, just as his father, Dr. Wendell A. Anderson, Υ '61, had been initiated into Chi Psi at Alpha Eta at Bowdoin College some twenty-eight years earlier. So it is that the badge mentioned here probably had much to do with bringing John W. Anderson into Chi Psi and thus indirectly has had a profound influence on the life and history of the Fraternity.

Some days after this visit by Professor Durham, H. Seger Slifer, Υ '11, was spending the afternoon with Brother Anderson and during the conversation Brother Anderson said, "I want to show you an old badge, the like of which you may not have seen, and tell you an interesting story in connection with it," and so produced the badge which Brother Durham had left with him. Whereupon Slifer replied, "That particular badge is well known to me. I first saw it in Springfield, Mass., in November, 1910, almost thirty years ago, upon the dress of a young lady at a dancing party, and upon inquiry from her learned that her father was a Chi Psi, Richard T. Wyckoff." That badge and that episode served as an introduction for many Chi Psis from Wesleyan and Amherst through the next few years to the generous hospitality of the Wyckoff family at 145 Harvard Street.

Quite a chain of events—first in 1885, then a quarter of a century later, 1910—and now 1939-40, more than another quarter century later. In truth, Chi Psi Marches On!

BADGE OF W. A. WOOSTER, Σ '60. "The lettering on the reverse of the badge is as follows—only a part of which is readable on the photo:

W. A. Wooster
X Mo

"This badge, which is set with black stones, belonged to W. A. Wooster of the class of 1860 at the University of North Carolina. He was valedictorian of his class. According to the date on the badge he was probably initiated into Alpha Sigma in 1857. He was killed in the Battle of Malvern Hill in 1861 or 1862. The badge became the property of Brother Wooster's sister and was in time inherited by her grandson, the late Swift M. Boatwright of this city. It was presented to me by Mrs. Boatwright. She had the badge with a lot of old jewelry and had not attached any significance to it until a time about three years ago when her son was about to enter the University of North Carolina and I went to talk with her about Chi Psi. Brother Wooster was a resident of Wilmington and the Boatwright family now occupies the old Wooster home at the corner of Third and Dock Streets. Of the same period there were other members of Alpha Sigma from Wilmington. One was J. Alves Walker of the class of '58, who never married. He spent the greater part of his life in Wilmington and died here only a few years ago. I have also a badge which belonged to him, which was given to me by his niece, Miss Hannah P. Bolles, not his original badge but a small size badge, set with pearls, which Brother Slifer told me he thought had been manufactured about 1880. Another was Josh G. Wright of '61 whose son still lives here. I have inquired about his badge but have not located it. The present Mrs. Wright has a nephew, William G. Wood, who is a Chi Psi active at Beta Delta.

"Thomas Cowan, of the class of '61, was another brother from Wilmington, and he was killed at the fighting at Fort Fisher. There are a good many of his relatives living here now but I have not made any effort to locate his badge. Brother Walker was, I think, one of the founders of Alpha Sigma and also had an active BADGE FOUND IN SHANGHAI. "The subject of 'Lost, Strayed or Stolen Chi Psi Badges,'" wrote H. Joseph Swazey, Π '15, in 1935, "reminds me of an incident that occurred about ten or eleven years ago when I was living in Shanghai, China.

"I happened one day to be looking over some articles in the display window of a small Chinese curio and jewelry shop on Nanking Road—one of the principal thoroughfares of the International Settlement—when I noted a Chi Psi badge nestling among a tray of miscellaneous ornaments. Upon questioning the proprietor as to where he had obtained it, he gave me a highly fictitious—and, to me, very amusing—story, the sum and substance of which was that he had ordered two of the 'brooches' from a Paris firm for the account of a lady client, but upon arrival she had decided to take only one and he accordingly had the other left on his hands.

"After the usual amount of dickering I purchased the badge for a relatively nominal sum. Although I mentioned the incident to one or two Chi Psis living in Shanghai at the time, I was never able to trace the original owner, as all engraving had been removed. I still have the badge in my possession and would be glad to hear from any brother who believes it may have belonged to him."

BADGE OF M. B. RICHARDSON, Π '58. "One of my clients (investment counsel), Mrs. Norman L. Bates, of Oswego, N. Y., lives in a large house that is over 100 years old. It took three years to complete the wood-carving in the den and the dining room. On the lintel of one 16-foot high window is carved the badge of Chi Psi and on another that of Psi U. The house was owned first by Maxwell B. Richardson, Π '58, and then by his nephew, a Psi U. at Union. When Mrs. Bates found I was a Chi Psi, she opened a jewel box in which were a Chi Psi badge and six Psi U. badges, all of which had belonged to deceased relatives. She gave me the Chi Psi badge, which had belonged to Brother Richardson."—RALPH J. DALBY, Υ '26, 183 E. Main St., Rochester, N. Y., February 2, 1940.

"LOST STRAYED OR STOLEN." Richard J. Donovan, Π '19, of New York, N. Y., for the benefit of the Fraternity, has the unique hobby of recovering lost Chi Psi badges for their rightful owners or arranging for the badges to be purchased by other Chi Psis if the rightful owners cannot be reached or do not reclaim the badges from the dealer holding them. He works largely through the Koplick concern, in New York City, which acts as an outlet for pawnshops throughout the country that have come into possession of missing Fraternity pins.

ALLIES

PARENTS. In the last several decades colleges have sought for more integration of parents with the college life of their children. Witness the "Dad's Day" as an annual event on many a campus. Co-operation in the housekeeping that is now a large scale responsibility of fraternities has been an incentive to Greek letter societies, Chi Psi among them, to follow suit. A particularly helpful aspect of this situation is found in the Mothers' Clubs. These flourish particularly at universities with many boys living in nearby big cities, and our California, Colorado, Minnesota, Illinois and Chicago lodges among others have benefitted materially from motherly interest in lodge housekeeping, not to mention motherly ability at furniture-fund raising through rummage sales and bridge parties.

With the November, 1936, issue of The Purple and Gold, at the suggestion of L. F. Freer, EΔ'08, Chi Psi inaugurated circulation of its magazine among the mothers and fathers of its undergraduate members and pledges, saying: "Thus the family circle receives further deserved recognition as the source of most good things in life. Colleges have long recognized the importance of home influences in education. Equally, the fraternity needs the co-operation of the parents in making its influence one for greatest good in the life of their boy." So far as known, we were the first fraternity to do this. And, incidentally, this is the only exception to our historic rule of circulating our magazine only among members. A page especially for the parents, "Behind the Scene," appears in each of our issues.

RESIDENT COUNSELLORS. An innovation on the fraternity scene in the last ten years is the "resident counsellor." Typically, he is a youngish graduate student. He may or may not have done his undergraduate work on the campus where he is now engaged. He may or may not belong to the fraternity he serves. His function is to be guide, mentor and friend to the younger and less experienced boys in

MRS. MAGGIE RODENSCHMITT came to Alpha Iota in 1891 and stayed until she died in her apartment in the lodge on May 12, 1936, at the age of 83. For some years she had been relieved of any duties except such small tasks as she enjoyed doing. Upon the shoulders of six Iota seniors she was borne to her last resting place in the peaceful little Wisconsin village of Cross Plains. While she lived, in later years every evening at dinner the boys would sing, "That Little Old Red Shawl that Maggie Wore." This would be her signal to appear for a few words of friendly greeting.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES B. DOANE prepared the first meal in the then new Alpha Phi lodge at Hamilton College on April 21, 1907, and finally rounded out some twenty-five years of service. Hundreds of boys have spent happy years at the Chi Psi lodge in their care, including their sons, J. Philip Doane, Φ'23, and Robert G. Doane, Φ'26.

MISS MINNIE MACDONALD. On the evening of March 11, 1939, forty active members of Alpha Mu and approximately twenty alumni gathered at the Middlebury Inn for a farewell banquet for "Minnie" McDonald, devoted house-mother of Alpha Mu since 1910. Minnie was serving her thirtieth year when failing health made it advisable for her to retire. Her record is enviable; she has served faithfully, experiencing with us the ups and downs of Alpha Mu during those thirty years of growth and development. Minnie has become an integral part of Chi Psi. During her many years as house-mother she was a guiding influence in the lives of many youths who spent four years as members of Alpha Mu. Her motherly influence has been spread throughout the world by the men who have scattered far and wide with the memory of her in their minds.—T.N.M.

SOPHIE AND HENRY HELDMAN. When the brothers returned in the fall of 1935 they found the Alpha Psi kitchen under what might be termed an entirely new management. Henry Heldman was the new chef, and his wife Sophie was his most able and efficient assistant.

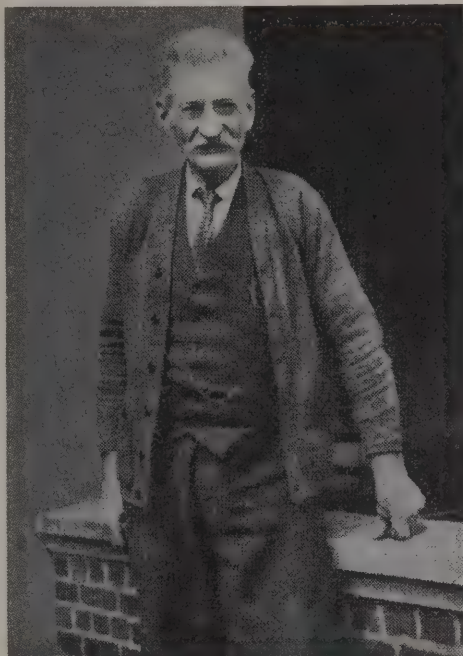

Henry served four years in the front lines with the German army during the World War. Some years after the war he and his wife moved to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Some five years later they moved to the United States. Now they are both naturalized citizens, Sophie getting her papers several months ago.

Henry and Sophie are held in highest esteem by all the brothers and as Henry puts it, "We like to work here, we like all the boys." It is certainly true that both of them are always doing or thinking of something to do for the brothers.

Besides being of invaluable service in the kitchen, Henry has done much other work around the house on his own time. Last summer he painted the walls in the hall in the basement! They were in such bad shape that Henry had to replaster them before painting. One proof of his interest in the brothers is his ability to spot whose plate comes out from the food left on it.—Alpha Psi Lights.

"UNCLE BILL" HOLLEY retired as houseman at Alpha Chi at the end of August, 1939, after twenty-two years of service. Actives and alumni combined in voting him a pension for three years.

"Uncle Bill," who came to the lodge back in 1917 primarily through the efforts of Robe-

Flecher, '97, has seen twenty-two delegations enter the lodge. He has seen the alpha grow from 17 to 58, and was with us during the construction of the new lodge. His list of anecdotes concerning many of the brothers is only exceeded in number by his fascinating stories of alpha and Amherst history. For more than two decades "Neighbor" not only looked after the lodge from top to bottom, but was a real friend to all the brothers. He took a personal interest in the activities of the alpha, and was always pleased when "his boys" won on the playing field or received college honors and recognition. "Uncle Bill's" cheery greeting and helping hand will always be an integral part of the alpha to those of you who know him. We are sorry that the end has come to the long "active" term of one of Chi's truest friends and most beloved figures.—Alpha Chi Chronicle.

BURTON L. SCANDLEBURG (pictured at the buffet table on the day of the Harvard game) is the major domo par excellence of Alpha Kappa Delta of Chi Psi. A born manager, Burt keeps everything under complete control and in perfect running order at all times. This paragon of all stewards is a jack of all trades, besides being a chef and caterer beyond compare. He is something of a sculptor and painter, who hopes some day to be recognized in art circles. A master electrician, he has built an amplifier and loudspeaker for the lodge victrola and radio that is the envy of all fraternity row.

On initiation weekends, we find the rugs rolled up, the pool tables covered and the trophies on the wall protected before the ceremonies begin, all without being reminded. In fact, it is Burt who keeps each delegation in line, and makes traditions last from year to year at Kappa Delta.

It is rumored that he has been offered fabulous wages to leave us and manage for hotels, boats and millionaires, but Burt is too strongly attached to us to leave us unprotected from the mercenary world of merchants that would beset us if not kept under a ruling thumb.

All the help in the lodge is ably led, and no bad moments are ever noticed by the brothers.

How a person, with such a controlled temper, and pleasing personality can put up with so many boys for so long under all conditions, is a mystery to us all, but it would be a bad day for Kappa Delta if such a one as Burt Scandleburg were to leave us.—T.D.D.

the chapter that employs him, with especial emphasis on scholarship.

Valid objections to this plan are chiefly two. The chapter may be retarded in developing the self-discipline and sense of responsibility that are properly fruits of fraternity life, by leaning too heavily on the counsellor. College authorities may be abetted in placing on the fraternities more responsibility for the academic progress of members than should be shouldered upon primarily social organizations.

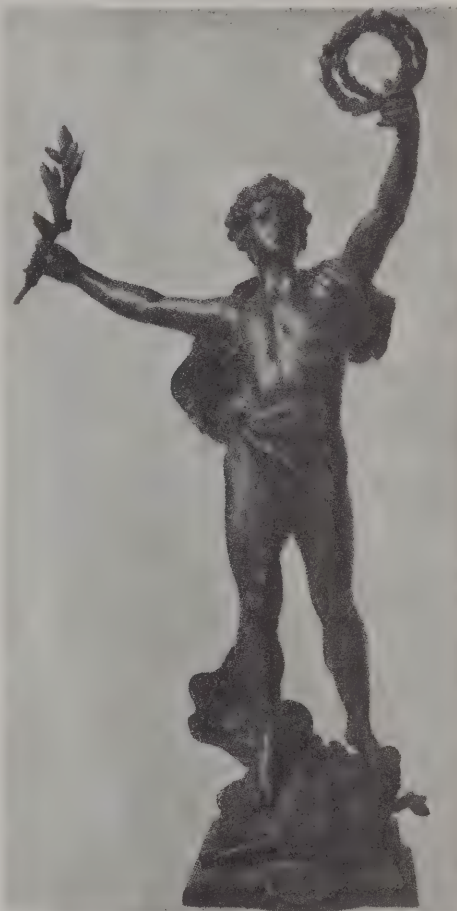

The answer is that the resident counsellor should be engaged only at times of special need; that the resident counsellor should be recognized as a supplementary and voluntary influence for scholastic and social good in the fraternity chapter—not as a substitute for parent or teacher, or a crutch for son.

Resident counsellors have from time to time been employed at numerous alphas of Chi Psi, including Alpha, Epsilon, Sigma, Nu, Iota, Rho, Delta Delta and Epsilon Delta. The 95th Convention passed a resolution approving the plan, following an exhaustive report on the subject by Josiah R. Bartlett, X'34.

FRIENDS IN THE HOUSE. One of the pleasant features of fraternity life is the occasional instance when housekeeper, houseman or cook over a long period transcends the ordinary bounds of a useful and honorable position and becomes also fast friend of succeeding generations of undergraduates. It has been Chi Psi's good fortune to have many of these instances, and the Fraternity's history would be incomplete without recording some and acknowledging all such cases, whether or not now specifically mentioned. Why, at Michigan returning Epsilon alumni often rush down to the kitchen to chat with "Doc" Rasmussen before doing more than saying "hello" upstairs, and for years to greet "Maggie of Iota" was first order of business at Wisconsin. Of many of these "friends in the house" now and in bygone years a few are gratefully named and pictured here.

THAYER TROPHY

In 1922 Philip H. Thayer, BA'10, presented to the Fraternity this bronze figure symbolic of Chi Psi achievement, to be held annually by that alpha having made the best showing in the preceding college year, with emphasis on progress and improvement. Zeal to win the trophy has exceeded expectations and has grown with

PHILIP SPENCER

The story of Philip Spencer's tragic execution at the age of nineteen, is one which never grows old to the members who have since passed the mystic veil of the Fraternity which he helped to found. From the numerous times that his case has been reviewed in periodicals, as fact and near-fiction, it has likewise become a tale of American naval history which seems always to catch the interest of the reading public. Even in these times, there are writers who, unfortunately, for the sake of what they consider a better narrative, stray far from the truth and present a distorted and unfair picture of the whole tragic affair.

It is significant and fitting that the Fraternity once again review his brief life, his untimely death, and the subsequent proceedings and opinions related thereto, in this one-hundredth year of Chi Psi.

Philip Spencer was born in 1823 in Canandaigua, N. Y. He was the youngest of three sons born to *John C. Spencer, an eminent lawyer and Whig politician in New York State, who later became Secretary of War and Secretary of the Treasury in President Tyler's cabinet. Young Philip attended Canandaigua Academy in preparation for Hobart College. He was in later years remembered by one of his classmates as "a sprightly, delicate, lad who was quite a favorite with many of his schoolmates, though his queer stories and sharp tricks made him unpopular with others." He was also remembered for a certain amusing incident at the academy, a significant incident in that it portrays the probable beginning of an addiction which played a large part in his undoing. He sought amusement in compiling both a Latin and Greek catalog of the teachers and students at Canandaigua Academy. His Latin list led off with the name of the Principal of the school, Mr. Henry Howe. Spencer had no difficulty with the name Henry, which became "Henricus," but the Howe proved more difficult. He finally resorted to the adverb for "how," and the Principal became, "Henricus Quomodo."

Philip entered Hobart College in Geneva, N. Y., in 1838. One of his classmates, Mr. I. H. McCollum, wrote of him as follows:

"Philip Spencer, for a part of two years, was a classmate of mine at Geneva College (now Hobart). My class—of '42—dwindled from about twenty freshmen to seven seniors at commencement. Spencer was one of those who dropped out by the way. He was a talented young man, very quick to learn, pleasant and companionable, and to those whose kindness justified it, confiding. He seldom mingled with the students in their sports and games on the campus, and I do not now remember if he was a member of either of the literary societies. The ease with which he mastered the Greek and Latin was remarkable. Frequently he would be applied to for assistance by other members of the class, some, in fact whose standing was higher than his. This remarkable talent proved a source of weakness to him, for it led him to neglect the proper preparation of his lessons, giving them only a few minutes' attention before time for recitation, the time which should have been given to his lessons being devoted to light reading. I do not remember Spencer as a vicious or reckless or mischief-making young man. Whilst his habits were inclined to indolence he had great self-will and firmness when occasion called it out. While at Geneva he was operated upon for strabismus and refused to be bound or held during the operation. He had an ear for music and played fairly well on the violin and cornopaeon."

*Born at Hudson, N. Y., January 1, 1788, entered Williams College in 1803, but was graduated from Union in 1806. Ambrose Spencer, grandfather of Philip, was born in Connecticut, December 13, 1765; entered Yale, but later attended and graduated from Harvard; became Chief Justice of New York State; died March 13, 1848.

Another Hobart College classmate of Spencer's, Mr. Paul F. Cooper, remembered that:

"His manner was remarkably good, quiet, courteous, and self-possessed. His voice was very low and pleasant. My recollection is that he had a decided cast in his eyes and that otherwise he would have been thought good-looking, if not handsome. He seemed to live very much by himself and to mingle little with the other students. If he had any intimates I do not know who they were, and my belief is that he had none. His class standing for scholarship and attendance was very low, but it was generally thought that he had ability enough had he chosen to exert it in the direction of his studies. Though this is often said of young fellows in college merely because they neglect their studies, I am inclined to think it was true in his case. In one thing he excelled the whole college. He was by far the best declaimer in it. Unless my youthful impressions have misled me, he was, indeed, the best declaimer I have ever heard with the exception of one or two men whose reputation is national. His speaking of one piece in particular keeps its place in my memory vividly even to this day. I think Spencer's manner must have been really remarkable or it would not have made the lasting impression that it has upon my memory. I recall it as more like that of a high bred man of the world than a boy's just growing into manhood."

The following account was contributed in 1884 by Charles D. Vail, a professor at Hobart College who was asked to investigate the college records for any account of Spencer's attendance there. The record he found showed:

"February 21, 1840: Philip Spencer for negligence and going to Canandaigua without permission was formally sent to Greene to remain for a time under the care of the Rev. I. V. Van Iryen." "On November 23, 1840, Philip Spencer was a participant in the cider disturbance so-called, but does not appear to have been regarded as a leading spirit." On April 21, 1841: "Philip Spencer, at the request of his father received a dismission from college. The request was made in consequence of his continued neglect of college exercises and this neglect stated in the letter of dismission; but inasmuch as a change of association might prove favorable, it was also stated that the faculty of this college would make no objection on account of his deficient standing here, to his immediate reception at any other college. He was subject to college censure on no other account but neglect of exercises." Prof. Vail further reports: "Mr. E. J. Burrall of this place tells the story that on the occasion of a commencement procession of the college, Spencer brought up the rear wearing a lofty conical hat elaborately decorated, with a streamer showing the legend, 'Patriarch of the Freshman Class!' The President and Faculty were walking at the head quite unaware of this characteristic demonstration in their rear. I understand that Spencer was a great reader of sea stories, particularly those about pirates."*

Leaving Hobart College on April 21, 1841, Spencer must have been directly admitted to Union College, for just one month later he banded together with our other founders to startle the college with a new secret society, Chi Psi. Concerning this important event, another of our founders, James Lafayette Witherspoon, II'44, wrote as follows:

"In the year 1841, Robert H. McFaddin of Greensboro, Ala., and myself went on to Schenectady, N. Y., and entered Union College, . . . occupying a room together in West College. Soon after entering college, we became acquainted with Philip Spencer, Wm. F. Terhune, Samuel T. Taber and four or five other students whose names have become familiar to Chi Psi. Phil Spencer, who did not like the kind of men who composed the other secret societies then in college, conferred with us and the others above mentioned, about forming a new society, to be composed of kindred spirits. We readily agreed to the proposition. After canvassing the matter, we decided to organize a new society, and call it Chi Psi. William F. Terhune was our poet and writer, and he wrote out the ceremony of initiation. Spencer, who gave most of his time to the business of organization, devised the signs, grips and pass words, and made arrangements for the badge of Chi Psi to be worn by the members. The men who founded the Chi Psi Fraternity were high-minded, whole-souled, honorable men, kind and sociable; and in our intercourse we became very much attached to one another. The spirit of earnest brotherhood was carefully cultivated, and others, seeing how we loved each other, were anxious to join us. We never lacked applications for membership; and many were rejected, because we were very careful, in taking in new members, to satisfy ourselves that they were the right kind of men. I recall Philip Spencer as a tall man of dark complexion, with black hair and eyes, and noble-hearted and generous to a fault. He always took great delight in the initiations, grips, signs and pass words, and studied how to make them more mysterious and impressive. I attribute the success of the Society in Union College, and its spread to other colleges in the United States, to the principle on which its founders acted in receiving new members. This was, 'that we would receive no man as a member, unless we were fully satisfied that he was a gentleman'; and as long as this principle is adhered to, the Society will continue to flourish."

The Fraternity is indebted for the various observations as quoted above, to William W. Gay, M'76, who committed himself to the special task of collecting reminiscences from many who knew Spencer. His findings were published in The Purple and Gold for April, 1885, and to use Gay's own words: "The result of my interviewing is not large but if it shows anything, it proves the baselessness of the many serious accusations which have been made against one of the founders of our Fraternity." Gay concludes as follows:

*Max Zinkeisen, E'80, expressed a belief that Smollet's "Roderick Random" must have been one of Spencer's favorite sea stories. This novel was the prototype of sea stories in English literature and was published in 1748. In the novel, Roderick used Greek letters for ciphers, but unlike Spencer he escaped with his life to tell the world his story.

"It is not hard with the aid of these reminiscences told by men who knew him well, to picture Spencer in one's imagination. First of all he was no dullard. On the contrary the ordinary mountains of boyhood were easily scaled by him—too easily; for we are all apt to hold in contempt those enemies whom we know we can crush with little effort. He was emotional and imaginative. Music was a favorite pastime and the fiery passage of an oration sank into his heart and transformed him. The poetry of the epoch just then yielding to that which is now in turn surrendering to the pretty piping of a false and imitative school, as well as the novel of the day, dealt of chivalric love and exciting adventure, the outgrowth of a new bursting forth of the flame of romance in the heart of man. This spirit captivated his mind and misled it. Such a mind, properly trained, is capable of doing great things in life; left to itself it runs to a tangle of rose briars—a waste all the same even if it does smell sweet in June."

"Spencer was reserved and disinclined to indulge in boyish sports. He had few friends such as Polonius would have one grapple to the soul with hooks of steel—quite likely not one. He was precocious in mind and dignified and manly in bearing beyond his years, for he could not have been more than fourteen or fifteen when he entered Geneva. He was high strung, as the phrase goes. His pride would not suffer a suspicion that he could not endure one of the most painful operations on a most sensitive organ without a tremor, in his right senses and unbound. In advance intellectually of his companions is it not possible that he had outrun them and reached that age when high-tempered youth looking out into the life before it sees only the cold pitiless selfishness of the world deriding and railing at the chivalry which has become to it a religion? Such minds turn in upon themselves to see there the picture of the new regeneration. They become morbidly sensitive; renounce allegiance to a false order of things; are commonly misunderstood, or, whether misunderstood or not, imagine themselves to be so. Such a young fellow I believe Spencer was. Such a 'fiery particle' as his is of the divine principle which permeates life. Had it been understood and wisely directed, after the jaundice of Byronism had been healed, it would have asserted itself in a noble, soberer struggle with the evils of life. But Spencer was misunderstood. His follies must, of course, lie heavily upon himself; but the stupidity of his governors must take some of the blame for his untimely fate."

At this point in young Philip's turbulent college life his love of adventure must have exerted itself too strongly to be denied and he left to join the United States Navy. Our meager records show that he received a warrant as acting Midshipman in November, 1841.

On the 14th of December, 1842, the United States brig Somers arrived at New York from a cruise to the coast of Africa. She anchored in the navy-yard, held little communication with the shore and was surrounded with mystery for several days. Such peculiar conduct was not without good reason. Commander Mackenzie announced through the authorities at Washington that Philip Spencer, son of the Secretary of War, had been hanged at sea for mutiny. Two others, the acting boatswain and a seaman, had been hanged at the same time. Imagine the reaction to such news on the part of the nation, not to mention a small group of loyal Chi Psis who were only in their second year of Fraternity life! It was not unnatural at first for public opinion in majority, and most of the newspapers, to take the side of the commander. This young America of the forties was proud of its navy and its officers, and mutiny was a bitter word. Newspapers were greatly influenced by the

TO PHILIP SPENCER

Oh, speak, ye sighing wind and moaning wave;

*Your secret hid in gloomy ocean cave
Reveal to me! The answering billows weep,
But will not break the silence of the deep.*

Our patron saint, we love your memory still,

Our souls recall your name with vibrant thrill,

*Your work endures, the brothers' mystic tie
Unites in fellowship that will not die.*

No kindly voice was there your cause to plead,

No hand to stay the murderer's law-clad deed.

*It was your bitter destiny to face
Your sentence unbefriended—in disgrace!*

Although the world in part approved the doom

That sent you thus to your unhonored tomb—

Accused of treason—yet each brother knew,

Assured by tested worth, that you were true.

No mausoleum guards your nameless grave—

*But granite epitaphed by etching wave,
Yet we who live will never see you die,
Whose name is linked with that of loved Chi Psi.*

Your dust denied a place in hallowed shrine

*Is tossed about beneath the crested brine,
And yet your memory has its peaceful part—*

Inurned within each loyal brother's heart.

mercantile trade, a most important and influential business on the Atlantic seaboard at that period of American history. They exaggerated and falsified the early accounts, quickly attempting to vindicate and dismiss the act, rather than investigating and seeking justice for all involved. It mattered little that Spencer had committed no overt act of mutiny; and the only real and positive evidence which was offered on board the Somers or in the investigations back in New York, in the way of damaging testimony, was that given by the purser's steward to the effect that

Spencer had privately told him of his plans to take over the ship! There were no other witnesses to that alleged confession. The only available source of information, concerning the whole scandalous procedure which followed, is in the United States Naval records of the Court of Inquiry and the further testimony and conclusions given in the Court Martial of Commander Mackenzie. We would at least have had a final written statement from Philip before he was executed, but even though Mackenzie testified that he took such a statement at the request of Spencer and talked with him at the last for more than an hour, the records show that the commander did not bother with such trivialities as having a witness present, or preserving such a document written in the first person to bring home to all those interested! Mackenzie merely repeated a few confessions in the third person, ridiculous remarks which he claimed Spencer made to him.

An attempt was made, by those who felt a great injustice was done, to have Commander Mackenzie arrested and tried in a civil court of law, but too much important influence was brought to bear. The case was refused for lack of jurisdiction.

We need to cite only one instance to show the preposterousness of the whole method of procedure of the Court of Inquiry. Mackenzie suspected and accused several members of his crew as being involved in the suspected mutiny. Some were arrested and put in irons immediately after the execution on the Somers, and still more were arrested and interned on board the guard-ship North Carolina after arrival in New York. Why were these men set free after the vindication of Mackenzie? If these men were guilty of mutinous intentions on the same evidence that made it necessary to execute Spencer and two others without a trial before their officers on board the Somers, from what method of reasoning could they be set free after adjournment of the Court of Inquiry, without even so much as routine questioning? Two of these accused were examined as picked witnesses before the Court. No one was on trial, so why should not all of the accused have been questioned in this hearing, which pretended to be in quest of the truth?

We will not go into further detail here concerning the facts which led up to the execution nor the proceeding which followed later. We have studied all available material with an open mind and with painstaking care, and we urge all Chi Psis interested in drawing their own conclusions to do the same. We do believe it both interesting and worthy of record, however, to repeat the conclusions drawn by prominent writers both in and out of the Fraternity.

James Fenimore Cooper, one of the most noted writers of his time, has given us the most complete review and commentary which was made on the proceedings of the Court Martial of Captain Mackenzie. Although Cooper was accused by his enemies of being motivated by a personal jealousy and dislike for Mackenzie no one can deny that his review is quite logically drawn and fairly presented. He concludes:

"Many imagine that Captain Mackenzie's report betrays the evidence of a disposition to glean personal renown, from the manner in which it is pretended he saved his own life and those of his associates. The feebleness of this extraordinary document renders its writer subject to very injurious suspicions certainly, and this among the number; but the mental obliquity, so very obvious throughout the whole affair, renders any ordinary analysis of human motives exceedingly precarious. God alone can say how far any selfish feeling was mixed up with the mistakes of this terrible transaction. The act was, unquestionably, one of high moral courage, one of the basest cowardice, one of deep guilt, or one of lamentable deficiency of judgment."

The third issue of The Purple and Gold, June of 1884, carried a review of "The Hanging of Philip Spencer," written most ably by William W. Gay, M76. Brother Gay concludes as follows:

"There can be little doubt but that Spencer, at the time he was arrested, had some boyish scheme or other in his mind, as there is that he never contemplated the crimes of mutiny and murder. The exact nature of that scheme will never be clearly known. It has been fondly believed by many 'Sikes' that Spencer had the notion of extending Chi Psi or establishing a similar organization in the navy; but this, though pleasant to the thought of an undergraduate, is untenable. Others think, and with more reason, that, fascinated with the wild, roving life of a seaman, he boyishly hoped that his indulgent father would put him in possession of some vessel with which he might sail the seas at will. This is Benton's (Thomas H. Benton's 'Thirty Years View') belief, who says that Spencer's real design was clearly deducible even from the error of the vile swearing against him. He meant to quit the navy when he returned to New York, obtain a vessel in some way and go to the northwest coast of America to lead some wild life there; but not piratical, as there is neither prey nor shelter for pirates in that quarter. This he was often saying to the crew—and to this his list of names referred—mixed up with foolish and even vicious talk about piracy. His first and his last answer was the same—that it was all a joke. The answer of Small was the same when he was arrested; and it was well brought out by the judge advocate in incessant questions during the two months' trial, that there was not a single soul of the crew except Wales that ever heard Spencer mention one word about mutiny!"

Frank Leslie's Budget, a monthly magazine, in the October, 1890, issue published an interview with one John W. Davis, who as a youngster had been one of the crew on the Somers at the time Philip Spencer was hanged. Mr. Davis concluded his story of the well-remembered incident with the statement: "In looking back over these events, I have not revised my temper of that day, and I do not believe any man who witnessed the execution has. My opinion is, that the hanging of those men was nothing more nor less than murder."

There have been some people who, from lack of fair research in the case, have realistically questioned the traditional position of the Fraternity in condemning the hanging of Philip Spencer. They have said that we differ from military men,

*"Oh, here's to Philip Spencer,
Who when about to die,
When sinking down beneath the wave,
Loud shouted out Chi Psi!"*

*"So fill your glasses to the brim
And drink with manly pride;
Humanity received a blow
When Philip Spencer died!"*

who are not influenced by sentiment, and who justify the behaviour of Mackenzie as the proper course under the circumstances. We will grant that conditions in the Navy were different then, and that discipline was made of less wise and necessarily sterner stuff than now; but as for Mackenzie's course of action our answer, to those who question, has at least been given by a prominent military man of our time. We refer to an article by Rear Admiral Livingston Hunt, United States Navy Retired, published in "United States Naval Institute Proceedings," November, 1925. Admiral Hunt calls his story the "Attempted Mutiny on the U. S. Brig Somers" and he quite thoroughly covers the opinions of all military and civilian writers up to that time. He concludes:

"But there is no article or review called forth by this remarkable trial more analytical, more illuminating as to technicalities, than the eighty-page review of it by James Fenimore Cooper, published in New York in 1844. It is masterly in its keenness of observation of the motives behind the various acts of the chief persons in the drama. Even a psychoanalyst would be satisfied with it. The literary powers of the author are conspicuous, and those admirers of Cooper who collect his works are not unaware that their collections are seriously incomplete if lacking the rare volume known as 'The Mackenzie Case,' with a review by J. F. Cooper. There is no incident of importance in the whole six days' story which he does not examine and interpret. The proved courage of Commander Mackenzie is a matter of history, but we cannot disagree with the general statement of Cooper when he remarks that, 'Brave men, those who are ready to risk their lives on all suitable occasions, often see danger where there is truly none.' The substance of all of Mr. Cooper's reasoning and arguments is to be found in the last four words of his review which attribute the tragedy, among other causes, to a 'lamentable deficiency of judgment.'"

"The naval histories have dealt with the mutiny on the Somers either scantily, though favorably to Mackenzie, or else not at all. Fenimore Cooper's third volume of his naval history, coming down to 1852, was written by another hand than his own, and its account of the mutiny, mildly favorably to Mackenzie, does not reflect the opinion of Cooper himself. In 1900 Mr. Park Benjamin in his 'History of the U. S. Naval Academy' gives an account of the mutiny, quotes with approval Charles Sumner on it, and vehemently decries the efforts of those mistaken people who desire the 'canonization' of the 'three miscreants' who had been, in his opinion, rightly hanged. A similar view, though less pronounced in its partiality to Mackenzie, is expressed in the history of the Navy by G. Ramsay Clark and others, but its account of the occurrence is neither full nor very accurate."

"But, let us get back to 1843 and the last chapter of this sad story. There is no tragedy complete without women, and there were three of them to suffer when the Somers dropped anchor off Brooklyn. The mother of Spencer, shocked beyond relief, was to die not long afterwards, believing sacredly in the innocence of her son to the last. Even the rude Cromwell had a wife who cared for him, and she tried, though in vain, to bring punishment through the civil courts on the one she held responsible for her bereavement. I find no record of the humble mother of the weak hard-drinking Small, but we know that she sent him to sea with a Bible, and that a letter of affection from her aged hand was found in it on the day that he was strung up."

"As for the chief actor in this tragedy, there can be no better description of his plight, even after acquittal by his brother officers, than the words which Mr. Sumner applied to him, quoting from Plato: 'He who has slain a man, however justly, is not to be envied.' Commander Mackenzie was not happy in his remaining years. How could he be, for the attacks upon him for his conduct in the mutiny never wholly ceased? In less than six years, during which period he distinguished himself in the land attack on Vera Cruz in the war with Mexico, he died at the comparatively early age of forty-five. The brig Somers herself passed out of existence in 1846, going down in a gale off Vera Cruz and carrying three midshipmen and thirty-seven of her crew with her."

"In writing of this painful event in our naval history the author has been moved more by a desire to explain than to condemn. Our judgment of the occurrence should include a knowledge of the times as well as of the individuals."

In concluding the brief story of our Philip Spencer we can find no more fitting words than those written in an editorial for the fourth issue of The Purple and Gold. Though written in 1884 we find them just as appropriate now as we approach the one-hundredth year since his death:

"The execution of Henry in the Arctic regions, as the only instance of the use of martial law on the high seas since the hanging of Spencer, has recently drawn public opinion to the latter event. The tragic story has been told again, and all its sad incidents once more made the subject of discussion. This, Chi Psis are glad to note; and especially so, as they now see former errors in connection with the report of the event corrected, and all blame lifted from the memory of Spencer to rest where it belongs, upon that of Mackenzie. The universal judgment now, is that expressed by Prof. Lounsbury of Yale, who in his recently published biography of the novelist Cooper, having occasion to refer to the hanging of a son of a cabinet officer at command of Mackenzie, says: 'It was an act of manslaughter, not committed from any feeling of malice, but merely from the same lack of judgment that he (Mackenzie) had displayed in the literary controversy in which he had been engaged.' There was a time when the memory of Philip Spencer had to look for its defenders almost solely among Chi Psis. But for nearly half a century, evidence has been accumulating that now puts the circumstances of his death in so clear a light, as to leave no cause for word of defence from any source. Yet this now accepted exoneration of Spencer in no way changes the feelings of Chi Psis. By them, his memory has always been fondly cherished. Other fraternities have never made a greater mistake than when they supposed that to mention the name of Philip Spencer was to point to the skeleton in the household of Chi Psi. On the contrary, it has been the special pride of the Fraternity to reverence his name and champion his memory. To Chi Psis, the great wrongs that he suffered silenced all criticism; and while the early imagination of the Fraternity may perhaps have been too strongly impressed with the vision of his brilliant gifts and audacious spirit; yet it was a vision not without power for good. The possible mistakes wrought by the glamour have passed away; but the warmth and strength of fraternal feeling characteristic of Chi Psi, and that are so largely owing to the early impressions made by the unjust fate of Philip Spencer, still remain."

—W. JACKSON CHAILLE, AD'29.

THE U. S. BRIG-OF-WAR SOMERS.

A mutiny was discovered on board this vessel Nov. 26th 1842, while on her homeward voyage from the coast of Africa, and the three ringleaders, Philip Spencer, midshipman, Samuel A. Cromwell, boatswain's mate and Elijah H. Small, seaman, were hung at the yard arm, Dec. 1st 1842, which completely suppressed the mutiny.

ALPHA PI, founded on May 20, 1841, at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., by Alexander Peter Berthoud, John Brush, Jr., James Chatham Duane, Jacob Henry Farrell, Patrick Upshaw Major, Robert Heyward McFaddin, Philip Spencer, Samuel Titus Taber, William Force Terhune and James Lafayette Witherspoon.

IN THE early days of this republic there were few institutions of higher learning, exactly nine in 1775. As settlements along the Hudson and in northern New York became numerous, it seemed strange to the residents of this vast area that no college had spread its roots in that region. Here was the scene of the first comprehensive British campaign to separate New England from the South by winning and holding New York. These upstate pioneers were principally settlers from Holland, distinguished for their devotion to education. Owing to the fact that it was customary for colleges to be affiliated with a church, these settlers were thwarted in their attempts to get educational recognition, for the Dutch Church had founded Queens College (Rutgers), which fully met its requirements.

Nevertheless the war changed the needs of the people. The need of the church was no longer the only incentive to foster learning—the need of the state appealed to progressive spirits. Signatures of 975 residents of all counties in the northern part of the state were on petitions to the legislature demanding a college for all of the people. The fact that Schenectady was suggested as the site was not fully explained; possibly those Dutch settlers visioned its future importance on a busy trade route and its natural beauty when making such a request. Frustrated in their first attempt, these hardy pioneers continued their campaign. Union, the college for men of all religious beliefs, finally was established in 1795 as successor to an academy founded by the Reformed Dutch Church in Schenectady.

Little did the residents of what was then the frontier of New York State, nor the small body of students, alumni and faculty dream that after a decade of uncertainty a new leader, Eliphalet Nott, would guide the course of Union's destiny within the next sixty-two years to a place alongside of America's greatest universities, Harvard, Yale and Columbia! History records that Dr. Nott was an indefatigable, shrewd, conscientious and able worker, ever with the best interests of his beloved Union at heart. No task was too great, no assignment too small for this pilot of Union's ship over stormy seas. From lobbying before the state legislature to personal proctorship over the obstreperous John Howard Payne (author of "Home, Sweet Home"), Nott never flinched in the line of duty. During his sixty-two year administration, this great educator guided Union to a place in the sky.

To the customary classical curriculum, he added a scientific course in 1828. Later Dr. Nott introduced civil engineering and technical chemistry. It was his aim to have Union known as a leader. Actually, for a brief period during his presidency, Union was the largest American college.

In so great a body of students the problems of American college life, the questions of association, and of the formation and perpetuation of friendships, became of serious importance. Any view of life at "Old Union," at the time of the founding of Chi Psi, which should fail to take notice of the literary societies then existing would be sadly defective. The Philomathean, the Adelpic and the Delphic Union were prominent factors.

Here, as in nearly all colleges, the literary societies were commended by the faculty and on their several rolls of membership were included nearly all the students. The rivalry between them was great and each vied for pre-eminence in debate and general literary work. But at the time of which we write these societies in all colleges were losing much of their worth and prestige.

As the trustees of colleges began to recognize the importance of literary studies sonal bitterness engendered between individual members. The college body was rent into warring factions, while, from the seeds of discord, there often sprang up jealousy, suspicion and hatred.

Hence it was in this period that the older of the Greek letter fraternities were founded for the purpose of fulfilling the social needs of the students. The societies existing at Union at the time of the founding of Chi Psi were Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi, Delta Phi, and Psi Upsilon.

In the spring of 1841 Alexander Peter Berthoud, John Brush, Jr., James Chatham Duane, Jacob Henry Farrell, Patrick Upshaw Major, Robert Heyward McFaddin, Philip Spencer, Samuel Titus Taber, William Force Terhune and James Lafayette Witherspoon conceived a higher ideal than any of these societies had announced, and banded together, not as associates, but as brethren, and formed not a society, but a fraternity, on the 20th of May. But one spirit pervaded the new organization, the spirit of brotherhood, while all the qualifications for membership were embodied in one word, gentlemen. Writing of those far-off days, a brother who was contemporaneous with the younger of the founders says:

"When Chi Psi was ushered into being, it was seen at once that the Fates had given birth to a portentous mystery. The character of its founders was such as to place it immediately in the forefront of candidates for college favor. Social, political and scholarly distinction was represented among them. But while these, as in other societies, were regarded as valuable links in the common bond of union, good fellowship allied to a manly spirit was the trait and especially of systematic instruction in declamation and oratory and made provision for them in the curricula, the literary societies were deprived of their function of greatest usefulness and gradually became mere cliques in which ambitious students schemed and caucused for honors. The intense rivalry between the organizations was frequently surpassed by the per-more distinctly illustrated and sought. Shams and pretensions and shoddy never found much favor with Chi Psi. She aimed in welcoming her neophytes, to receive those only who had the making of men. How far she was guided by the spirit of true prophesy is witnessed by the roll of honorable names that adorn her catalogue."

One of the founders says:

"The Birth of Chi Psi, though not exactly enshrouded with mystery, is enveloped in a halo

UNION COLLEGE, SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (View of John Howard Payne Memorial Gate, in memory of the author of "Home, Sweet Home"; college library in the background.) Founded in 1795. The first college chartered by the New York state board of regents was Union College, on February 25, 1795. Citizens on the then New York frontier disregarded religious and political differences to build a college to train their boys to play a worthy part in the young nation. They wished it to be Christian but not controlled by any one church, so they called it Union. This liberal spirit made Union a pioneer in educational reform. Early it assumed a position of leadership and was for a time the largest American college. However, its rôle today is that of a small college, where academic and technical work are carried on with an intimate relationship between students and faculty.

Despite small size, among all colleges Union is fourteenth in number of alumni in "Who's Who" and eighth in "Dictionary of American Biography," which includes those who have "made some contribution to American civilization." Union is known as "the mother of fraternities." Here were founded in 1825 the first and afterwards six others, including Chi Psi. The campus of 98 acres is on a hill-top park in the residential section of Schenectady. Although in a city of 95,000 and only 16 miles from Albany, Union has the advantages of surrounding country of beauty and historic interest. Lake George and Saratoga Springs on the north are easily accessible. The Helderberg and Princeton Hills mark the skyline west and south. While the college lies in the main stream of present day American life, its campus and the beautiful countryside provide that element of beauty and sense of the past so desirable in college atmosphere.—WILLIAM D. O'CONNOR, II³⁹.

of glory, that like the distance 'lends enchantment to the view,' but somehow serves to render the minuter incidents obscure. To be very candid, the founders of Chi Psi built better than they planned; we never dreamed of such extension as has been witnessed, nor had we at first full faith in the eternal permanence of our organization. Friendship's ties bound us together and to promote that intimacy we started our fraternity, from the beginning choosing none but gentlemen. All of the early Chi Psis, with perhaps one or two exceptions, had been invited to join existing societies. Though we differed much in our appearances, traits, and tastes (some being studious; others, like Terhune, poets; some, like Duane, intensely practical; others, like Spencer, imaginative), still all were generous, noble-hearted youths, full of life and mirth and gayety. Of course there were the other usual causes to prompt us to the establishment of a new society. We thought it would startle the college world to see a new badge and rejoiced in the sensation that would be caused by the creation of a new organization to break in upon the routine of college life. Some joined because I did, others because Terhune did, and still others because of their friends. We grew, and when I graduated in 1844 the Sigma Phi and our own society were at the head.

"We used to meet down town, my recollection being that there was little of the literary about our meetings, but that the program consisted of laughter, song and story. As to the ritual, it was brought to light by Terhune, who had a decided literary bent, communed somewhat with the muses and was, withal, a man of high ideals. Many a solemn seance was held before the adoption of the badge. Upon this subject each had an opinion. I confess that the first thought was the best, and that the badge I wore at the last convention banquet at the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York City, was the first one ever worn. I am glad to see that generation after generation of Chi Psi has worn the same style of a badge. May its gems gleam on the bosom of none but the worthy! May it ever be, as it always has been, the badge of honor!"

"The founders of Chi Psi were not a solemn crowd. Greek, Latin, Lane's Elements, Conic Sections and Calculus were never strong favorites. Some of us had too much of them, others not enough. In scholarship we prided ourselves on two things: First, that we always kept some one at the head of the merit roll, and unfortunately I was the one upon whom the fates imposed that laborious task; secondly, we also had a laudable ambition to keep up the other end and in this we had equal success, for some of our number went to the rear with the same precision, and possibly with as much ease, as others of us forged to the head. General Duane was one of the studious class. It was his habit to study on an average of twelve hours a day. Judge Witherspoon and his cousin from Alabama (McFaddin) kept up with the procession."

Another Chi Psi writes:

"I received your cheering epistle yesterday. It does our souls good to feel that we have united another band of brothers, so friendly, so persevering and enterprising for our common interests. You 'work while the day lasts, and spend the night with freshmen.' Good! Good! You 'glory in the task' which you 'will carry through,' etc. Good! This is a true Chi Psi spirit and with it you will be up and dressed, will 'wragg' anything, will 'quilt' anything. Keep doing so and the Chi Psis are number one at Bowdoin, as at Union."

"You ask information about the origin of the Chi Psi society and the connection with Spencer with it. In the month of June,* year of Our Lord, '41, the following gentlemen, viz.: Brush, Duane, Farrell, Berthoud, McFaddin, Witherspoon, Major, Spencer, Taber, Terhune, first discovered to the world the existence of the 'indomitable Chi Psi,' by wearing the badge. These persons were all gentlemen, scholars and friends—men of talent and influence. Moreover, they had other advantages in founding a new institution. The other societies stood low at the time, their secrets were divulged, and their principles exposed by seceders from them, so that our founders, having a knowledge of other secret societies, without borrowing or imitating yet received some useful hints and at least assured themselves that they had founded an institution superior to any extant here. Our founders left college with credit. Most of them are studying professions and bid fair to do honor to themselves and us.

*The Fraternity was founded May 20, 1841. The date here referred to is evidently the time when the founders first "swung" their badges.

"Our society has advanced successfully and rapidly. In three years we have established four flourishing branches, thereby fulfilling Scripture, in which is written: 'They shall increase and multiply.' We flourish in union. As to talent, the faculty have admitted us number one, and one reverend doctor went so far as to advise us about certain neophytes. In 'victimizing,' when we get our heads up the other societies 'cave.' Said a Kappa Alpha a short time since, speaking of one of their intended, 'the Chi Psis are after ——. We will withdraw.'

"Here, as at our branches, we excel other societies in strength. May we prosper! Vive la Chi Psi."

"About Spencer: I was not personally acquainted with Spencer, yet I think from what I know it is creditable to the Chi Psis that he is one of their founders. Coming from one of the best families of the nation, he was esteemed at college and elsewhere among his acquaintances as a gentleman of splendid talents. Any society in college would have taken him. I have never heard him spoken ill of, and I have seen many that knew him. If he had not been murdered he would do us honor still."

"The Chi Psis of Union send you greeting. Please write again."

Almost at the outset of the Fraternity's career the reputation of Chi Psi was dealt a severe blow. Philip Spencer, one of her charter members, was hung from the yard-arm of the United States brig Somers, on the charge of mutiny, on December 1, 1842. Happily everyone now knows of the unfounded character of the charges brought against Philip Spencer.

"The death of Spencer was the crucial test of the coherence of the Chi Psi Fraternity. Here was a young man put to death for piracy. The press of the day was outspoken in upholding the justice of the sentence and popular prejudice sided with the press. But two ways were open for his brethren of the Fraternity: Either to repudiate their lost associate or defend his memory. What a trial they were subjected to! To express sympathy for him was to bring upon them public censure and derision."

"But Philip Spencer was their brother. Silent mute appeal demanded a response and they responded as none others could or did respond. Boldly and manfully they stood side by side to defend his memory. They denounced his murder as barbarous, his taking off as damnable. They showed to the world that the cohesion of Chi Psi embraced both the quick and the dead and that the voice of the living protected the memory of the immortal. They had everything to lose and no personal advantage to gain by the position they took, but they stood on a foundation of adamant, built in the secret shrine of their good Fraternity. In the battle that ensued their armor proved itself without a flaw and they conquered."

During the first days of the existence of the alpha, the meetings were held at the rooms of the various members. Later, however, a permanent meeting place was established at Livingston's Temperance House. And of this another Chi Psi of the '40's writes:

"The society esprit de-corps and rivalry were very keen and the contention and manœuvres to secure the cream of the newcomers could not be surpassed now. Not only the president but the faculty generally were at least neutral in their attitude toward the Greek-letter societies, many of the earliest of which originated at Union. Our own Fraternity had the reputation of securing 'the most wide-awake, and I fear also the wildest, constituency. We certainly had the reputation of being mixed up in all the mischief that was rife. There were in those primitive times no chapter houses, and our society met at the hostelry of Captain Livingston on Main Street. The paraphernalia of emblem and mystery, when not in use, were packed away in strong chests. There was a certain freshness and novelty in thus preparing for the initiation of novitiates, perhaps more piquant than the sumptuous rites in the fine modern chapter houses, and certainly the banquets spread there cannot be more heartily enjoyed or be enlivened by more boisterous fun than the suppers provided for us by our genial host. Captain Livingston was as thorough a Chi Psi in spirit and devotion as if he had passed through our baptism of fire. On these occasions we often had with us brethren from Hamilton and Williams chapters, and these latter we often met at Troy, as a halfway rendezvous for the celebration of our mystic rites."

The meetings were held here early in the evening and after adjournment the members would partake of a supper and enjoy a pleasant social time. During these years the policy of the alpha was that of conservatism; although frequent initiations were held, sometimes three or four in a college year, the number of members was kept small. By this judicious selection of its members the alpha maintained the highest character both scholastically and socially.

The fortunes of Pi kept pace with the condition of the college. In ante bellum days it was uniformly prosperous. With the outbreak of the War of the Rebellion, however, there came a crisis. The opening of the war in the spring of 1861 found Union with an enrollment of about three-hundred students. Many of these left in the summer of 1861, but with Lincoln's call for three-hundred thousand men in the summer of 1862 the time had come when every man who could possibly do so should join the ranks, and as a result the enrollment of the college was reduced to a mere handful. There were but two active members of Pi in 1862, and for a period of two years there was but one Chi Psi in the college. With the help of the alumni several new members were initiated and the alpha for a time continued to prosper although limited in numbers. The sad state in which the college was left in those dark years which followed the war made it exceedingly difficult for the alpha to continue to exist and at the same time preserve those high standards and ideals of membership which were set by its founders. The membership for the following years shows the true condition: 1868, five; 1869, two; 1870, one; 1872, two; 1877, four. In a letter regarding the condition of the alpha at this time, F. S. Davenport, II'80, says:

"During the year 1877-78 the college was passing through a period of dire distress. These unfavorable conditions affected all the societies of the 'Hill.' Small entering classes and the high standard the alpha required precluded many additions to our chapter, which therefore, like the others, suffered."

This up-hill fight continued into the late seventies, when it was decided to disband temporarily rather than take inferior men into the alpha for the purpose of merely keeping it in existence. Therefore in 1879

we find the charter in the hands of Alpha Theta.

It should be understood that Union College suffered more from the Civil War than almost any other northern college. This was due to two important factors. First, a large percentage of the students at Union prior to the Civil War were from the South. The Civil War left the South crushed and broken and the Southern young men had little means or opportunity to go north to college or to go to college at all. Second, Union never was as strong financially as its northern rivals, and its great prominence before the Civil War was largely due to the name and fame of its great president, Eliphalet Nott.

President Nott died shortly after the Civil War and his death left the affairs of the college in a relative state of chaos. All of the fraternities were greatly reduced in numbers and several became dormant. The outlook brightened a number of years after Dr. Nott's death with the election of Dr. Eliphalet Nott Potter, brother of the late Bishop Potter of New York, as president, and for a time the affairs of the college strengthened materially. During this time two of the leading western fraternities established chapters here. One or more local groups petitioned Chi Psi for the revival of its alpha, but in vain.

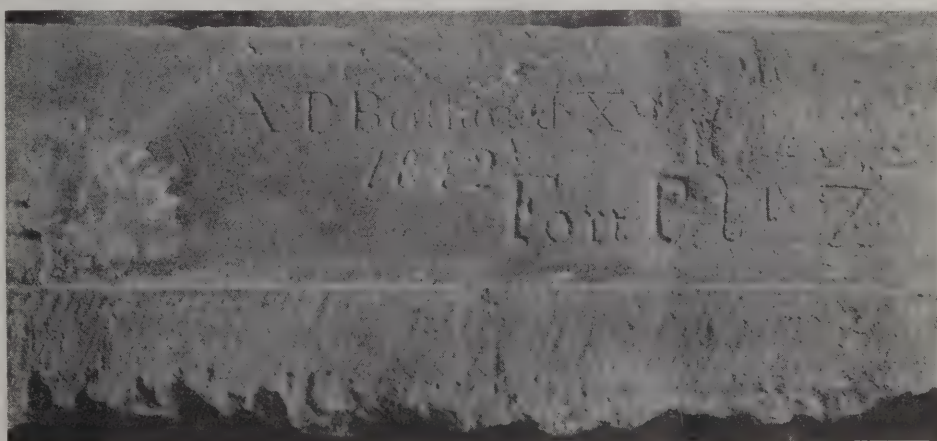

In the early '80's the college seemed on the way to regaining its former strength, but after a time factional troubles arose, resulting in the resignation of Dr. Potter. A period of discouragement followed. After a few years the friends of the college rallied and affairs began to improve. The improvement continued and the college became much stronger. The entering classes had so increased that the Chi Psi Fraternity received a petition from another group of petitioners at Union College in 1892. Delegates from the northern and eastern alphas, with but two exceptions, visited Schenectady and interviewed the petitioners before the convention met in Detroit. As there were no adverse criticisms either as to the men or the college, and the need of the revival of the mother alpha was manifest, the petition was unanimously granted.

So it was that Alpha Pi on the 22nd of April, 1892, in Good Templars Hall at Schenectady, N. Y., was brought into active being once more. A letter from A.

PHOTOGRAPH OF A FOUNDER. Seated in this picture, taken at the 47th Convention at Washington, D. C., in April, 1888, is Patrick Upshaw Major, II'42, one of the founders of Chi Psi. This picture was among the memorabilia presented by Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, and exhibited at the 97th Convention, where it was the subject of an interesting talk by the delegate from Brother Mashek's alpha, Dickson Fairback, Ψ'39. In the background, left to right, are George B. Turner, Ψ'73, long revered as a veritable Nestor of his alpha; Frederick W. Kelley, I'88, honored as a distinguished alumnus of the University of Wisconsin, and the Rev. Edwin A. White, A'79.

AN HISTORIC WINDOW SILL. The name of one of Chi Psi's founders, Alexander P. Berthoud, II'44, was discovered on the window sill of a dormitory in "North College" at Union College several years ago by Richard Passenger, II'37. The alpha had a stone mason remove the sill, with the permission of the college authorities, and the stone is now kept in the Philip Spencer Memorial Lodge of Alpha Pi. On the extreme right of the stone (and not included in our picture, which is from a photograph taken by T. W. Whipple, II'35) are the initials "R. H. McF.," believed to have been inscribed there almost a century ago by another of the founders, Robert H. McFaddin, II'44. (Contributed by C. F. Hathaway, II'35.)

L. Peckham, the first man initiated by the revived alpha in 1892, gives a very good idea of the affairs of the alpha at that time. A quotation from the letter is: "It had a steady up-hill fight to get the right men and the right place in college life, but it was fairly well done during those early years of reorganization."

The alpha was somewhat handicapped by not being located on the college grounds as were some of the other fraternities. At this time the alpha rented four rooms in the Myers Block on lower State Street, quite some distance from the campus.

It was the fond dream of every member that the alpha should have a lodge of its own to be located on the college campus. At the centennial commencement held in 1895, Pi held a reunion at which a great deal of enthusiasm was aroused. Plans were discussed and made for the building of the Philip Spencer Memorial Lodge and a substantial sum of money was subscribed for the purpose. The other alphas, too, responded and contributed generously. At about this time the alpha rented a lodge near the campus, which served temporarily to supply its needs and in a measure removed the difficulties under which the alpha had been handicapped by reason of the fact that its quarters were in a business block some distance from the college grounds.

Finally the day came when a sufficient amount of capital had been raised and in the summer of 1901 ground was broken and the lodge was completed in 1902, just ten years after the revival of the alpha. But the Philip Spencer Memorial Lodge built to house the alpha of that day proved wholly inadequate for the alpha of later years, with its larger membership and greater needs. So it was that in the summer of 1928 alteration and enlargement of the old lodge took place and a new home arose, fitted for the needs of the alpha for years to come.

Since the beginning of the twentieth century Union has progressed steadily, never encroaching upon the ranks of America's greatest universities, but earning itself a very important niche in society as a college of moderate size for men of average means. It is not a "country club" type of institution, nor is it a "grind." Able leadership has made it a respected and honored college.

Some eighteen national fraternities now have chapters at Union; their members representing nearly two-thirds of the undergraduate body. Spirited competition in athletics and scholarship makes the fraternity the basic unit of student life. Union's historic buildings and beautiful grounds form an appropriate setting for an institution of higher learning. With a student body limited to 1,000 and entering classes more recently limited to 250, Union cannot compete with larger universities on equal terms on the athletic field, but it can proudly boast of being a champion of true amateurism in intercollegiate sports.

Chi Psi is firmly entrenched on the Union campus. The physical proximity to the college buildings of the Philip Spencer Memorial Lodge is a distinct advantage in this small college. With loyal alumni guidance the Chi Psi spirit of the founders is kept ever alive. In the strength of its active personnel the alpha at times has tended to swing backward and forward like a pendulum, but as this is written the fortunes of Pi are near the crest.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON WATERMAN

Lawyer, Little Falls, N. Y.

A.B. Union. U.S. consul at Curacao, W.I. d Oct. 8, 1856.

EDWARD L. BERTHOUD, II'49. One day in 1830 there came sailing into New York harbor a ship bearing a Swiss family by the name of Berthoud. The family had left their home in Geneva, Switzerland, to seek their fortune in the new world, and one can easily imagine eager eyes of Alexander Peter Berthoud, II'44, then six, and his brother, Edward, II'49, only two years old, picking out every detail of the harbor as they reached their new home.

All Chi Psis know of the older brother, Alexander Peter Berthoud, one of the founders of our Fraternity, but few realize that his younger brother was also a Chi Psi, and was of even greater service to his country than his brother.

Edward L. Berthoud in his maturity won recognition as an able civil engineer and after service in Panama as engineer for the Panama Railroad, which was then building its line across the Isthmus, followed his profession in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kansas. While in Leavenworth City, Kan., where he had lived for five years, Brother Berthoud became attracted toward Colorado by the glowing accounts of the gold of Pikes Peak, packed his lares and penates on a four-mule wagon, and with his wife crossed the plains to Golden City, Colorado Territory. Here he followed mining until the first year of the Civil War, when he turned again to civil engineering.

Golden City is at the base of the Rocky Mountains and settlers, in their westward pioneering, were constantly seeking a lower and more direct route across the mountains to the far west, to eliminate the longer trip southward into what is now New Mexico. Brother Berthoud was employed by the Central Overland and California Express Co. to survey a route over the mountains to the Great Salt Lake. This meant finding the lowest and shortest route over the Rockies, and in 1861 Brother Berthoud discovered Berthoud Pass, still the most direct route across the Rocky Mountains from Denver, and a beautiful scenic drive in either summer or winter.

Captain Berthoud became the chief engineer and secretary of the Colorado Central Railroad (since absorbed by the Union Pacific System), and the Golden and La Platte Railroad and Telegraph Co., and finished the railroad to Cheyenne, Wyo., Denver, Blackhawk, Central City and Georgetown. He engineered the Georgetown Loop, a marvel of railroad engineering in the mountains.

The year after Colorado's admission to the Union the town of Berthoud was named for Captain Berthoud because of his completion of the Colorado Central Railroad through the richest farming section of Colorado.

Captain Berthoud devoted a great deal of his time to the advancement of higher education in Colorado. He was a member of the first faculty of the Colorado School of Mines, located at Golden, and now the largest school of mines in the United States, and as professor of civil and mining engineering he maintained signal office meteorological observations for many years in order to ascertain the climatic peculiarities and the rainfall of Colorado. From 1899 until his death, Captain Berthoud was a director of the School of Mines and professor emeritus.

Captain Berthoud is remembered by all of those who knew him not only for his notable professional achievements but also because of the humorous aspect of some of his idiosyncracies, such as his refusal to tip his hat to a passing lady. He had a peculiar way of lifting his hand which dispensed with the necessity for the courtesy. Also, during his many years of attendance at the Episcopal Church in Golden, of which he was a vestryman, every member of the congregation could tell when Captain Berthoud was bored with the sermon, for he would take out his enormous Swiss watch and the ensuing winding would resound throughout the entire church.

Brother Berthoud died in 1908 in Golden, at the age of 80, as a result of an accident at his home, an historic house once a hotel, built in 1859 and still standing. With a lighted lamp in hand he was attacked with a fainting spell while climbing the stairs to his room, and was fatally burned and injured in his fall to the floor below.

CAPT. JOHN H. GARDNER, JR., II'13, writes: "My experience during the World War in meeting members of our Fraternity under rather odd circumstances bore out the words of that old song which ran, 'There were Chi Psi everywhere,' and the following incidents may be of interest as an indication of the wide participation of the brothers in that conflict.

"Early in the spring of 1917 I was living in Chicago with A. E. (Pete) Kriegsmann, II'10. When war was declared early in April I entered the first training camp at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., and Pete left at the same time for Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., to take a commission in the Corps of Engineers. We wished each other good luck and parted.

"The training camp at Ft. Sheridan was full of Chi Psis. In fact the very first night I arrived I looked around the wooden barracks in which we were quartered on the shore of Lake Michigan and saw three familiar badges in my immediate vicinity. I discovered the brothers were G. and R. L. Grant and Paul Behrens, all three I'16. A few days later I ran into F. L. Smith, II'15, with whom I had roomed at Alpha Pi and who was a member of an adjacent company. As time went on I met a large number of other brothers who were in training at Ft. Sheridan.

"At the end of the camp I was commissioned in the Field Artillery and sent to Texas. Finally on February 26, 1918, I reached Hoboken and sailed overseas on the U. S. S. Agamemnon. The first night I was on deck as a lookout and in the semi-darkness suddenly I recognized L. W. Bissell, Φ'14, whom I had known as an undergraduate when he was at Hamilton.

"After a period of training in France the 18th Field Artillery to which I was assigned went into action at Chateau Thierry on the Marne. The commanding officer of headquarters company was gassed and I was put in command. It wasn't until we were pulled out of the line and established in rest billets that I had a chance to become acquainted with all my officers, and what was my surprise to find one of my lieutenants to be A. W. Fisher, BA'11, whom I had previously known in Chicago.

"After a brief rest we took part in the battle of St. Mihiel, but in a few days moved on to get ready for the opening bombardment of the Meuse-Argonne offensive. Meanwhile I was transferred to 3d battalion headquarters as adjutant to Lt. Col. R. D. Johnson, who commanded the battalion.

"A day or two after the big offensive got under way I was sent forward to reconnoiter the roads in preparation for a forward movement.

"I had advanced a couple of kilometers and was passing an engineer company busily engaged in repairing the shelled out road. The Germans were not kindly disposed to this activity and were dropping over artillery fire from time to time. Suddenly I heard a familiar voice sound out, 'What the hell,' and there beside me was Pete Kriegsmann. Pete was in command of the company at work on this particular stretch of road and doing a fine job. It was the first time we had met since parting in Chicago a year and a half before. We smoked a cigarette, asked about old friends and parted, to meet again just as casually a year later.

"Being the battalion adjutant I shared such shelter as was available with the battalion commander. Sometime after the middle of October we had advanced to a position near the village of Cunel, and battalion headquarters was at a place called Ville aux Bois Farm. The move had just been completed and everyone was busy improvising a shelter in one corner of the old farm building. At last we had a hole with a roof over it, and as we crowded in the limited space Col. Johnson said, 'This reminds me of the Goat in the old lodge at Stanford.' I looked at him in surprise; 'Are you a Chi Psi?' I asked. 'Why yes,' he answered, 'Gamma Delta, Nineteen Eight. What made you ask?' When I had told my story we both agreed that the world was small. It wasn't a great handicap to have the battalion commander a fraternity brother.

"When the war ended my regiment went into Germany as part of the Army of Occupation. I left the battalion and was transferred to regimental headquarters. Winter and spring passed rather quietly and one day in May, 1919, I was sent into Coblenz to get some supplies from the Army Engineers' Office. I entered the office and there behind a desk was Pete Kriegsmann again, a major now, and the very officer who had the yes or no on the supplies I wanted. I certainly fulfilled my mission on that trip.

"Later I was transferred to the staff of the American Forces in Germany and met several Chi Psis in Coblenz, whose names I cannot recall.

"My brother, H. B. Gardner, II'16, was a member of the 310th Regiment of Engineers. At one time we were in adjacent divisions in the Argonne but we never met while overseas. As soon as I could get leave I went from Germany back to France to see him, but he had returned to the United States. I saw him at a Chi Psi dinner, which was held at a country club near Ft. Sheridan, while I was there in training in the spring of 1917, and we did not meet again until I returned from Germany in June of 1921."

ALPHA THETA, established on July 16, 1842, at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., by William Allen, Henry Shaw Briggs, James Colt Clapp, Jonathan Hancock Douglas, Martin James Love, James M'Kown, Jr., and Horatio Nelson Wright. Gamma, Frederick Chollett Adams, II'43, and Zeta, William Force Terhune, II'44.

IN 1841 a society was formed in Williams College which took the name of Chi Omega. Jonathan H. Douglas, '43, was the most prominent in the organization of this society, and associated with him were Henry S. Briggs, James C. Clapp, William Allen and James M'Kown, Jr., of the class of '44, and Martin J. Love, William P. Seymour and George P. Hinsdale of the class of '45. While the preliminary steps were being taken, information about the proposed society reached Frederick C. Adams, II'43, a former student at Williams, but then an active Chi Psi at Union. He opened correspondence with Douglas and proposed the establishment of an alpha of Chi Psi at Williams. This proposal was accepted and the Chi Omega Society was abandoned. On July 12, 1842, the following letter of acceptance was received:—

"Union College,
July 14, 1842.

"Mr. J. Douglas,
"Sir:

"Your communication of July 2nd came duly to hand, and I hasten as speedily as possible to report to you the action which the Chi Psi have taken with regard to it.

"They wish your committee to meet at the Mansion House in Troy on Saturday, the 16th inst., where and when all the preliminaries will be settled without further delay, and, we hope, to the gratification of all.

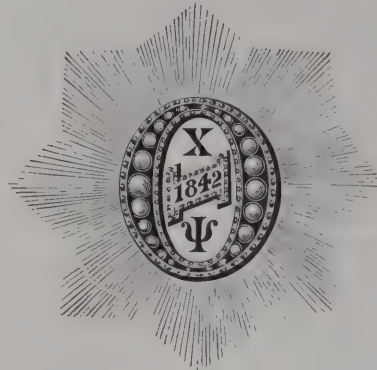

"Very respectfully,

"I remain,

"S. T. TABER,
"Alpha Pi'42."

The Williams delegation was composed of Jonathan Douglas, Horatio N. Wright, William Allen, Martin J. Love and James M'Kown, Jr. The committee was forced to move with circumspection. Leaving Williamstown in two wagons after prayers on Friday evening, they rode all night, reaching Troy early next morning, and met the delegation from Alpha Pi at the Mansion House. Here the ceremony took place which ushered Alpha Theta into being and made Chi Psi a national fraternity. Thus, Saturday, July 16, 1842, is one of the epoch-making days of Alpha Theta and Chi Psi history. Shortly after the return of the delegates to Williamstown, Henry S. Briggs and James C. Clapp were initiated. The badges were swung and Alpha Theta was announced to the world at Commencement, the last of August, 1842.

The first regular meeting was held on July 21, 1842, when Seymour (one of the original Chi Omegas) was initiated. Later the remaining member of Chi Omega, George P. Hinsdale, was initiated. These early meetings of Alpha Theta were conducted with great seriousness and order, and many of our present customs and ideals were formulated at this time. During these first years Theta, in consultation with Pi, did much work in revising and improving the constitution. Meetings were first held in the rooms of members of the Fraternity. Soon it became desirable to have quarters where privacy could be more assured. The members of the alpha entered into an understanding with a Mr. Hoxsey to the end that they could have lodge-rooms in his house. The Fraternity retained these rooms for a number of years, and it is a curious coincidence that the present lodge is built on the old Hoxsey farm and near the spot where stood the house in which the meetings were held for so many of the early years.

Williams College at that period, as at the present, ranked very high among the colleges of medium size. Neither its faculty nor its student body was large, but both commanded the respect and admiration of the college world. The average number of undergraduates was about one-hundred and fifty, while the faculty em-and development. Fraternity life at that period was very different from the life that later Chi Psis have been accustomed to. Meetings were held in the rooms of the various brothers and in the lodge-rooms, which consisted of two rooms, carefully battened down, in the Mansion House, the hotel of the town. The brothers took their meals at this hotel, and managed to have most of their rooms in the dormitory close to each other, thus endeavoring to secure the close association that conditions made difficult in those early days.

The alpha established Mu in 1843 and Eta in 1844, and assisted in the establishment of several other alphas. Chi Psi conventions were held about once a year, though the paucity of delegates made them rather conferences between the new members of this new Fraternity. But their purpose was served—they drew the alphas closer together and let each give to the other assurances that the responsibility of maintaining true Chi Psi standards was not being treated lightly. Those were golden years for Theta—for though she lacked in material prosperity, she made up for her comparative poverty by the excellence of personnel and the loyalty and height of her purposes.

The members of Chi Psi during the forties were not noted for their sober life or high scholarship—indeed, at times the administration had cause to complain that quite the contrary was true. In the early fifties, however, a new spirit crept into the braced the names of men who have won enduring fame. The numbers in the alpha varied from thirteen to twenty.

When Theta was founded there were two other societies in existence: Kappa Alpha and Sigma Phi—also the anti-secret society, Delta Upsilon. There was thus enough rivalry to call forth the activity that is essential to a beneficial fraternity life, and on the other hand, there was ample room for permanent growth crowd, new ideals were held up to the men. During the fifties we find the Fraternity rising rapidly to a leading place among the existing secret societies. High scholarship and prominence in the college were predominant characteristics in the men of this period.

Toward the end of the fifties there were a number of members who were rather well off, and when Mr. Harvey T. Cole built a brick block on Water Street, they arranged to have the third story finished especially for the Fraternity. This was done with considerable elegance for that time, and the alpha remained in these luxurious rooms for some years. This block, which was considered unusually fine in its day, now houses Stacey's store, and one can still trace faintly the insignia of Chi Psi on some of the doors on the upper floor. About this time the order of Chi Psi sisters was instituted, and for the first and only time representatives of the other sex were admitted to the mysteries of Chi Psi, the condition being that they would marry none but Chi Psis and bring none but good Chi Psis into the world.

After a period of comparative success and prosperity which had come in the fifties and had raised the alpha to a position of strength in the college, the next decade brought a series of depressions such as never occurred before nor since in the history of the alpha. With 1860 came the first war cloud, and the call for volunteers which soon followed drained the colleges of the country of the best of the undergraduates. Among the first to offer themselves were the men of Chi Psi and Theta. The record of the men from Theta during this period is one of which we should be most proud. In all, thirty-six men—over half the entire number of initiates—were enlisted in the service. Of these, five from Southern states marched under the Stars and Bars. Of the others, who were in Union service, four were generals, three were colonels, five lieutenant-colonels, two majors, six captains, one lieutenant, six privates, two surgeons, one brigade storagemaster and one paymaster. Yet, though as individuals these men brought aid to their country and honor to their Fraternity, their absence from the college weakened Chi Psi. As the years wore on we find the numbers in the alpha becoming smaller and smaller, more and more were leaving for the field without completing their courses. Moreover, the effect on those who did not enlist was such that they grew more and more indifferent as to graduation. In 1860 and 1861 only half of the delegations of six men each graduated; four of the six secured degrees in 1862, and only two of the five in 1863. The delegations of 1864 and 1865 consisted of three men, not one of whom graduated and all of whom left college before the end of their senior year.

The call to arms took away many of the finest men of the alpha and although some great and loyal Chi Psis remained—notably Samuel P. Blagden, '62, whose loyalty and love for Theta kept him close to the crowd in her worst moments of adversity—yet there was a very natural falling-off in the general standard. For a time, in 1866, came a ray of hope when the alpha graduated a strong senior delegation of six men. But the two great enemies of fraternity unity and prosperity were creeping into the crowd, and in the next three years were securely entrenched. These were indifference and fast living. Things went from bad to worse. Indifference led many to leave college before the end of their courses, indifference caused dissension in the ranks of alpha; indifference to the fate of the alpha and the fast life of its members actually made it impossible to secure new members. One man composed the delegation of 1869, 1871 and 1872. From 1868 to 1872 but two men stayed in college for four years. There was no organization, no responsibility, no desire to perpetuate the society. Finally, with the graduation of George H. Stever in 1872, the alpha became extinct. The little property of the alpha, which consisted mainly of the appurtenances to the hall, were taken by Alpha Chi to pay for the debts of Theta which she had settled.

For two years the alpha was dormant. During that time, however, there was an attempt being made on the part of the surrounding alphas and of New York alumni to reestablish the alpha. The actual accomplishment of this task must be credited to Stanley R. Kitchel, '76, who entered Williams in the fall of 1874 from Middlebury, where he had spent his freshman and sophomore years. After making a careful study of the non-fraternity element he took into his confidence Charles B. Gilbert, a classmate, and these two continued their labors until they had pledged Brothers Root, Lewis and Sibley of the class of 1876, Halsey and Hubbard of 1877, and Rockwell and Clark of 1878. A fund of $600 was raised by the New York alumni and the undergraduates, with which the Amherst alpha was reimbursed for what it had spent for this alpha, and a house which now forms part of the Walden Theater was leased on Spring Street. In the spring of 1874 Kitchel and Gilbert visited Alpha Chi,

WILLIAMS COLLEGE, WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS. (View of the President's House, "considered the most beautiful piece of architecture on the campus.") Founded in 1793. In a picturesque New England village, surrounded by the Berkshire Hills, lies Williams, a college of 825 men. Although the Latin requirement here was dropped some years ago, and applications for entrance have since doubled, the standards are high from entrance throughout. An innovation is the degree with honors, for which students top ranking at the end of their sophomore year may work. In 1937-38 for the first time seniors were required to take a comprehensive examination on all their work in their major subject. There is little post-graduate work at Williams, though now a student can take three years at Williams and two at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and get degrees from both. A gift of $2,400,000 enabled the administration to restore faculty salaries cut during the depression and to make valuable additions to the teaching staff, particularly in the social sciences. About 70 per cent of the students belong to fraternities and most of the balance to the Garfield Club. Practically all eat at fraternity or club houses. Juniors and seniors live in the fraternity houses. Thus the fraternity houses are the main social units rather than the freshman and sophomore dormitories. The Berkshires afford wonderful skiing. A new squash courts building was recently completed. Athletics are organized with a view to participation by a large number. Two-thirds of the undergraduates are on some squad or other in the course of a year.—PHILIP R. PETERS, JR., Θ'39.

where the latter was initiated, and these two on their return conducted the remaining seven within the portals.

The new members did not swing their badges until the following October. When they did, they were met with great opposition by both fraternity men and neutrals. But there was a stuff in these new founders of Theta that was not to be hindered by opposition. They were men of high caliber—Chi Psi captured very nearly two-thirds of all the college prizes that year, and produced two valedictorians and one salutatorian—proper men to whom to entrust the task of reestablishing the alpha.

It was no small task for the new members of Alpha Theta, who were serious-minded men with idealism and of studious habit. They were quite different from the men of Theta at the time of its downfall. As the pendulum had swung far in the days of the late sixties, so upon the reestablishment of the alpha it was not strange that the undergraduates put a great emphasis upon scholastic standing. Looking back on the catalogue of those days we find that many became Phi Beta Kappa men.

Some years later the Taft house on South Street (subsequently known as the Pilgrim Inn and now the home of Librarian Hurt) was rented, and a gradual change took place in the undergraduate membership, until by a process of evolution they conformed to the conventional fraternity type. In the late eighties they were strong upon the campus, although much of their scholastic distinction had been lost. The lodge which was rented on South Street soon became inadequate and in 1887, largely through the devotion of Sam P. Blagden, '62, a new fraternity house was built on the southeast corner of Main and Hoxsey Streets. This was heavily mortgaged. Some men of foresight, notably John S. Sheppard, Jr., of the class of '91, realized that it was only by incorporating that the finances of the alpha could be adequately handled. Brother Sheppard became the treasurer of this corporation and served in that capacity in a most faithful way for many years. After moving into the new lodge the Fraternity was in a flourishing condition, maintaining a decided character and an influential position on the campus.

During the latter part of the eighties and the early nineties, the alpha was well housed in its new lodge and, although its membership was small, the condition of the alpha was excellent. But fraternities have an easy way of outgrowing their houses and although it was only in 1887 that the alpha had moved into its new lodge, it was considered fortunate some twenty years later that the college needed it for the development of its campus and arranged so that an excellent lot just across Hoxsey Street was given in exchange.

A sturdy new building, of solid concrete with brick veneer and white trim, was completed in 1909. After over thirty years this lodge is still a very "modern" fire-proof fraternity house and stands as a monument to the generosity of the members of Alpha Theta. With the first occupation of the new lodge, a decided improvement in the general condition of the alpha was promptly manifest. Many delegations which were notable for their campus and scholastic honors were graduated, but the World War came and with the establishment of the Student Army Training Corps all fraternity life on the campus ceased. In November, 1918, after the disastrous fire in Jesup Hall, the lodge was placed at the disposal of the Red Triangle unit, for general Y.M.C.A. use by the members of the S.A.T.C. But of fraternity life there was no sign, and when the war was over for some time there were only two Chi Psi undergraduates on the campus. Thus a decided interruption in the growth and prosperity of the alpha occurred.

SAMUEL P. BLAGDEN, '62, for some thirty years after the turn of the century lived on his farm near Williamstown and was constantly helpful to Alpha Theta and always a friend of the boys at the lodge. In 1925-28 he was a member of the Executive Council. His Chi Psi loyalty carries on in the tradition of his father, S. P. Blagden, '62.

But a good organization cannot be kept down, and from year to year since the armistice in 1918, the alpha has grown in every respect. The mortgage on the lodge has been entirely liquidated, and the Corporation is the proud possessor of a small endowment fund of well-invested securities. Thanks to the continuing generosity and able guidance of a few loyal members, the alumni organization has cooperated splendidly with the active alpha, not only in financial matters, but also as to rushing, scholastic standing, and numerous other problems which the undergraduates have seen fit from time to time to bring to the attention of the elder statesmen.

While the past few years have not been productive of Theta's best scholastic records, a glance at the list of our members who swing the Phi Beta Kappa key or wear the Gargoyle pin, or indeed who have served as trustees of the college, proves conclusively how well Chi Psi has stood among the many fraternities in filling its important niche on the Williams campus. The undergraduate life is strong, healthful and one of which the alumni are proud.

REAR ADMIRAL EDWIN STEWART, U.S.N., O'62. "This picture is not perfectly satisfactory," wrote Brother Stewart in 1929, "but it looks like me in my ninety-third year. The ship in it is U.S.S. Lancaster, flagship of the European station, to which I was attached when I made my last cruise, in 1883-86." Brother Stewart, who died in 1933 when in his ninety-sixth year, was the oldest living graduate of Williams College and of Phillips (Andover) Academy. He was the last survivor of the 166 officers of the regular Navy who participated in the capture of Mobile Bay, with four ironclads and fourteen wooden vessels, under Admiral Farragut in 1864. In 1899 he was retired from the Navy as Paymaster-General on account of age.

Another Theta alumnus who had passed the half-century mark as a Chi Psi, William E. Roe, '78, wrote in 1929 from Jamestown, N.D., where he was professor in the department of Bible and history of Jamestown College: "We old fellows have not lost our memories of those blessed old times. Not many left now—Charley Bullard of '75, Pater Roote of '76, Waldo Pratt, Hen Clark and Billy Roe of '78. All of '77 and '79 gone. We are a small company but we are still 'going strong.' The boys doubtless have good times in the beautiful present-day lodge, but so did we in our dingy little brick house on Spring Street—good times in our formal meetings, where we had exercises, I think, of a pretty high literary order; in our many social gatherings there; in our glorious hikes to Greylock, etc., or after arbutus to send to our girls; in our 'bobbing' parties with Rock at the wheel, risking our lives up on Stone Hill; in the assembling of the sisters in Commencement week. No, we old boys have not forgotten our college days, and we can hope no more for the present generation than that, fifty years after, their memories may be as sweet as ours."

CALVIN BULLOCK, 0'92, shuns publicity but his originality of thought and action frequently make newspaper stories. In 1937-38 he inaugurated a series of lectures on "World Events," given in his offices by eminent commentators, before an invited audience, with reporters barred and discussion allowed. In 1940 he was pictured in the New York Times greeting "the former Empress Zita of Austria and her daughter, the Archduchess Elizabeth, on their arrival (as refugees from Europe at war) to be his guests at his estate in Royalston, Mass." (Picture from painting belonging to his son.)

H. KIRKE WHITE, 0'92

H. KIRKE WHITE lives in the hearts of literally hundreds of men who knew the kindness of his way, the warmth of his interest in all who came within his ken from near or far. The genius of friendship burnt bright within him. It made him as much beloved in the city of his most active associations—which was Detroit—as it did in the later years of his residence during semi-retirement, in Boston and Centerville. Everyone knew that a word from Kirke White would bring cheer, and everyone sought such sustenance with a result never failing.

Mr. White's distinguished learning in the French language and literature, together with useful services in the World War, brought him, unsought, the award of a chevalier's cross in the Legion of Honor. His work has gained high appreciation also from the members of a great collegiate fraternity, which he served in the most helpful way as director of scholarship, striving hard to lift undergraduate efforts to higher levels—for the student's sake, not his own.

A companion of rare worth, as he was also a husband and father of the most exceptional value, Kirke White moves one to say with Emerson, "Let the soul be assured that somewhere in the universe it should rejoin its friend, and it would be content and cheerful alone for a thousand years."—J. E. King, 0'12, Boston Transcript.

STEPHEN H. TYNG, JR., 6'58, First President of Chi Psi, 1879-1882. During all the years no picture had appeared in our publications of the first President of Chi Psi, Stephen Higginson Tyng, Jr., 6'58. Now has diligent, though admittedly tardy, effort on the part of the present editors been successful in producing his portrait for this book. (See page 13 for pictures of presidents.) His prominence and that of his family insured that the picture would be found, and fortunately it was in time for this book.

Brother Tyng's father, the senior Stephen Higginson Tyng, rector of St. George's Church in New York City, was undoubtedly the foremost Episcopalian of his day.

Stephen Higginson Tyng, Jr., followed in his father's footsteps, was ordained, and achieved eminence as rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, which he organized in New York City. His eminence rested in no small measure upon his ecclesiastical liberality. A cause celebre of the sixties was his ecclesiastical trial for having preached in a Methodist Church, the charges being brought by two New Jersey ministers with the incredible names of Drs. Stubbs and Boggs.

A severe illness in 1881 incapacitated Brother Tyng from further preaching. He retired from the ministry and thereafter lived in Paris, France, where he died in 1898. He became European manager of American life insurance companies and was strikingly successful.

SKETCH OF A FOUNDER OF CHI PSI.—“A pleasant task it is to write about this founder of our Fraternity, ROBERT HEYWARD McFADDIN, for the friendship between the McFaddin and Haynsworth families has lasted through many generations.

“The founder of this family in America was John McFaddin (originally spelled McPhaedein, later simplified as so often happened among our pioneer families). Born in 1708, he came to America in 1730 and settled on Black River. America owes much to the ‘Test Oath’ act of Queen Anne’s reign, for many Scotch-Irish left their homes rather than swear allegiance to the Church of England. John’s descendants are numbered by the thousands and are to be found in nearly every state of the Union. Hundreds of them have been ministers and ruling elders of the Presbyterian Church. In all that great number of descendants there must be a rascal somewhere, but I have never heard of him.

“John’s second son was Thomas, of Marion’s Brigade, a comrade in arms of my ancestor, Robert Lide. He was later a member of Congress. He married Hester Jane Witherspoon, sister of Dr. John Witherspoon, President of Princeton and signer of the Declaration of In-one time president of the American Bankers Association. The youngest son, named for his father, lived in Greensboro, where he was president of a cotton seed oil mill, and ran the plantation on which his father had lived.

“It is a pleasing coincidence that Robert’s first cousin, Capt. James D. McFaddin, of Sumter County, was the grandfather of three Chi Psis, A. L. and R. C. Blanding and James McFaddin Spann, all three college mates and chums of my brother Edgar.

“The eldest brother of the Blandings, Judge Jas. McF. Blanding, of Texas, has written a most interesting letter about his grandfather. Judge Blanding was not a Chi Psi; he attended Washington and Lee, and was one of the guard of honor that watched beside the bier of Gen. Lee. Judge Blanding has just died at the age of eighty-eight.

“The McFaddins have long been noted for their longevity. America could do with multiplied thousands of this kind of people. So when we toast Phillip Spencer let’s add another to Robert and all the McFaddins. May their clan increase!”—HUGH C. HAYNSWORTH, T'95, Sumter, S. C.

ALPHA MU, established on November 16, 1843, at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., by Jonathan Adams Allen, Henry Leonard Hodges, David John Lyons, Stephen Martindale, Edward Merrill, James Jewett Nash, Selah Gridley Perkins, Carlos Herman Samson, Rollin Chipman Smith, Peter Starr and John Wolcott Stewart. Gamma, Martin James Love, Θ'45, and Zeta, Silas Woodruff Sanderson, Π'46.

ALPHA MU OF CHI PSI was established in Middlebury College on November 16, 1843. From its establishment in 1800 Middlebury had maintained a vigorous growth under able leadership and compared favorably with other New England institutions such as Williams and Dartmouth. Vermont was then a pioneer state and men of high quality in character and enterprise from lower New England were among its settlers. In the '20's and '30's Middlebury was the largest town in the state. The leaders of the Vermont bar were citizens of the town and the pastor of the Congregational Church was a sort of bishop over the entire state. The high calibre of the early citizens of Middlebury, especially of those connected with the college, imparted qualities of dignity and worth to the institution which it has maintained through the years and which are reflected in the alumni roll of Alpha Mu.

At the time of the founding of the alpha, however, the college was suffering from depression. An evangelist named Buchard, a sort of Billy Sunday of his day, was stirring religious circles in Vermont, and the college became involved in the resulting controversies, which had unfortunate effects. When Alpha Mu was born the student body numbered only fifty-nine. The faculty consisted of a president, four professors and two tutors.

In 1843 there were two societies in college, the Philadelphian, a religious society, and the Philomathesian, a literary organization which dated back to the founding of the college. To this latter society all the students in college were supposed to belong, so naturally there was more or less trouble on account of numbers. Such was the situation which led to a growing desire for an organization, small, conservative and having as its foundation and object the fraternal idea. The opportunity once presented was eagerly grasped. Carlos Sampson and Henry Hodges had attended school at Castleton and Manchester, Vt. Some of their fellow students had gone to Williams College, where they had become Chi Psis. In correspondence with their old schoolmates, this Fraternity was mentioned and this led to the desire of establishing the Chi Psi Fraternity in Middlebury. This movement was encouraged by other Chi Psis at Williams and led to a meeting between Samson, Hodges and some Williams men at Manchester, Vt., where under the influence and enthusiasm of these men, it was decided to found an alpha of Chi Psi in Middlebury. Probably this decision was largely due to the enthusiasm and encouragement of the two Theta men, Martin J. Love and Silas W. Sanderson, the latter of whom had been initiated at Williams and later transferred to Union.

The delegates returned to Middlebury and there the chosen few assembled in a dwelling house on Seymour Street, the third north of the Congregational Church, where Samson boarded with the widow Simonds. There in the front chamber on the 16th of November, 1843, occurred the birth of Alpha Mu. At this time the two delegates initiated but seven of the original eleven. These were: Three juniors, J. Adams Allen, Edward Merrill and Carlos H. Samson; five sophomores, Henry S. Hodges, Selah G. Perkins, Rollin C. Smith, Peter Starr and John W. Stewart; three freshmen, David J. Lyon, Stephen Martindale and James J. Nash. Two debts and buying necessary articles. A paper was also read as to the advisability of establishing an alpha in Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., to which unanimous consent was given. On March 19 it was decided to elect a chaos editor to whom each member had to hand a copy of his chaos by at least the day preceding the regular meeting, at which they should read the same. Later a request of dismission of Martindale was read and after much discussion a committee was appointed to try and persuade him to remain, but to let him go if not. This committee succeeded in persuading him to remain.

In the meantime, how had the college town looked upon this new and mysterious event? Needless to say, a great tumult arose. The faculty and seniors (none were members of the Fraternity) arose in a body to protest the awful crime of having a secret society in their midst. Of course, the movement could not be kept silent and the records show that the founders made no attempt at silence, as they wore their badges on their coats. It happened, also, that at this time there was some trouble over the Masons, and the legislature had even taken up the matter, so the excitement can readily be imagined. The faculty and seniors issued a series of resolves in rooms were engaged on the third floor of the Hagar Building, or the Corinthian Hall, and there the meetings were held for some time at intervals of two weeks.

On the 22nd of November, at the regular meeting, Martindale and Smith were initiated, but nothing more was done until March 1, 1844, when a meeting was called by Merrill, at which it was voted to impose a tax of two dollars and twenty-five cents on each member for the purpose of paying which they accused, and perhaps unjustly, the society of many grave charges. In response to these the following resolves were presented by Starr and unanimously adopted on May 1, 1844:

"Preamble—

"WHEREAS, this society as a body has been unjustly assailed in some libelous resolutions drawn up by certain members of the senior class and offered for acceptance of the members of the college at a meeting of the same. And WHEREAS, we deem it our duty to defend the as yet untarnished honor of the society from any base attack, however degraded the source it may proceed from—therefore Resolved:

"1st. That we repel with contempt any such charges upon ourselves as a society, knowing them to be false.

"2nd. That we will treat those resolutions as we would treat their author—with mental indignity.

"3rd. That any means we may use in our defense shall be in every respect honorable and that we will not condescend to imitate our assailants so much as to use base intrigue and dirty blackguardism.

"4th. That standing upon our conscious rectitude, the privy efforts of a Conant and a Hitchcock—an ass in a lion's skin and an ass are impotent.

"5th. That the manner in which this conspiracy was discovered and the passage of the infamous resolutions checked by the vigilance and ability of certain members of this society, is worthy of all praise, and that by a union hereafter of feeling and action on the part of every member we may render abortive every effort to stigmatize or destroy us."

At the next meeting a letter from Williams was read exhorting the alpha to live even more closely to their constitution than before because of their troubles, and they passed some resolutions pertaining to same. These things caused more discussion, jealousy and ill-feeling about the college, so they brought in another set of resolutions in which the causes were stated and the following resolutions made:

"1st. That, believing as we do that our cause is just, nay glorious, its promotion shall be our chief aim and the efforts of each and every one of us shall be centering.

"2nd. That the partnership of friendship, envy, and distrust heretofore existing in our hearts towards each other, be, and hereby is, internally dissolved, and that friendship true, lasting and eternal, friendship alone, dwell among us.

"3rd. That we will meet every duty devolving upon us promptly and with that spirit of enthusiasm which our cause so nobly deserves.

"4th. That we use every means in our power which is honorable to make our society popular among our fellow students, the faculty and the people in town."

These resolutions were accepted, then adopted by a unanimous vote.

About this time there was trouble on account of the absence of members, so a committee was appointed to warn members absent without good excuses. There had been some interviews between the faculty and members of the society from which the following resolutions arose September 27, 1844:

"WHEREAS, The faculty have taken it upon themselves to solicit a law for our annihilation and have determined on our dissolution,

"Resolved, that showing our chamomile qualities 'to spread as much as we are trampled on' we will demonstrate our speedy dissolution by a rapid and unbounded increase."

October 25 came the following:

"WHEREAS, The faculty of Middlebury College have long been bound and oppressed by the cruel servitude of suspicion; WHEREAS they have voluntarily tormented themselves with groundless suspicion in relation to this noble and envied Fraternity; WHEREAS they have applied to their own backs the scourge of distrust on account of ignorance and fear,

"Resolved, That we, the confederate members of this society, tender to them our hearty commiserations for their sufferings, pity them for their ignorance, and make all possible endeavors to enlighten them on this all important subject, to the end that the shackles of their ignorance may be so firmly riveted that naught till doomsday shall break them asunder."

A letter was then read considering the founding of an alpha at Hamilton and also concerning data and funds for a Fraternity "Catalogue."

From then on for a few months there seems to have been considerable trouble in college in general, as it was mentioned in connection with an attempt to secure several men who had refused to join the Fraternity because of the strong popular feeling. The crisis was reached on July 9, 1845, when part of the alpha assembled to decide whether or not the society should continue. There was much discussion, several speeches in which the rotten-heartedness of some of the members was referred to. A long speech was made by Merrill, who then moved an adjourned meeting to decide the fate of the alpha. Brother Rich, seeing several members with hats on, raised the question of order, whereupon Brother Alden made some remarks and suggested as a last resort that a man from Williams be sent for to exhort them to action, but nothing definite was done. Brother Lyons made a speech on the decline of the society, and several attempts to adjourn were made and finally the motion was carried after the society had been in session for ten hours and a quarter. At the adjourned meeting, their courage seemed to have returned, as they decided to keep going and made fiery speeches to that effect, resolving to celebrate with a supper on one of the closing days of the term.

The following fall delegates were elected to attend the convention in Springfield, Mass. Action was taken as to establishing chapters in New York University, Dartmouth and Kenyon Colleges. Several new members were taken in, among whom were Sargent, Tappen and Briggs. The following extract from minutes shows some of the humour of 1845:

"The members of the Chi Psi Fraternity assembled at an early hour in unwonted numbers in their splendid saloon. The scene presented by the hall, over which one tallow candle poured a flood of mellow light, can only find a parallel in the gorgeous description of oriental romance, or the poet's dream of fairyland. The utmost enthusiasm beamed from the countenances and spoke in the voices of all. The calling of the roll was omitted, as the idle ceremony for the insinuation that any member could be absent from so glorious a gathering of the sons of friendship was scorned as it deserved. Hodges assumed the chair of state and announced the chaos for the evening. Instantly the loud hum of conversation that had been before like the roar of many waters was hushed into the breathless silence of eager expectation and one, earnest, rapt, gaze was fixed upon the reader from the whole assembly. Not a limb moved, not a whisper jarred on the listening ear; the rich tone of the speaker's voice alone broke the deep stillness, save that ever and anon as some soul-stirring burst of lofty eloquence fell from his lips, the hall was shaken to its foundations with a storm of en-

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, MIDDLEBURY, VT. Now in its 141st year, Middlebury College retains the tradition and atmosphere that are the heritage of the years since 1800, when it was founded by Timothy Dwight, then president of Yale. Although enrollment has increased, it is still typically a New England small college, with the advantages of personal contact with the teachers that small size insures. The well known "Hi" is the password to a characteristic spirit of friendliness. A freshman may expect to know all his class at the end of the first month. The beauty of the Middlebury campus is acknowledged. Old Stone Row typifies the campus and surrounding countryside. The mountains, where the Mountain Club has weekly hikes, are campus boundaries. Middlebury prides itself on its scholastic standards. Few graduates who have had fair success at Middlebury have difficulty elsewhere in graduate schools. Middlebury is co-educational and the social life suffers little by isolation from any large city. Social life is spread over the year rather than concentrated on week-end parties. Major sports teams have had considerable success in recent years, but this is a school of athletics for many rather than emphasis on successful teams. Nearly all students participate in intramural sports at least. Finally, Middlebury, while it has some students of wealth, is not a rich man's college. The student of moderate means is not prevented from participating in all that takes place.—EDWARD D. CUMMINGS, M'38.

thusiastic applause. During the entire reading, the assembly was held entranced and when at last it ceased, many a moist eye and heavy breast gave tokens of emotion too deep for utterance. After an interchange of many heartfelt greetings the members parted with a deep-seated conviction on the minds of all that so glorious a day for Chi Psi principles had never yet dawned since the society blessed Middlebury College.

—"S. SARGENT.

"Note—Of nine members the only absent ones at this meeting were Hopkins, Lyons, Martindale, Rich and Wright."

On October 14, 1847, the alpha received a visit from VanEtten of Union, Black of Hamilton and Morgan of Williams. A meeting was held at the Vermont Hotel, where, the record says, "Some degree of spirit seemed to be infused into the members to take hold and put their shoulders to the wheel in the cause of Chi Psi."

At the opening of college in the fall of '51 the society met in different fellows' rooms while they were trying to persuade the faculty to give them a room in the chapel, but as they were unsuccessful, they returned to their former haunts. It was about this time that the office of critic was established. This seems to have been a regular office from that time on. They also carried on some interesting debates at each meeting on topics on which the student of today would have to do considerable studying to make even an intelligent showing on the subject. The rest of the members acted as judges and awarded the victory to whomever they deemed worthy of the same. The following were some of the topics taken for debate: "Was the Confusion of Tongues at Babel Beneficial," "Will the Past History of the World Warrant the Conclusion that Democratic Principles Will Ultimately Prevail," "That the Institutions of Know Nothings Will Be Beneficial to the United States," and other similar subjects. During the summer there seems to have been a meeting held once a month at which only a few were present and at which the most important business was election of officers and electing and looking up new members for the fall term. The meetings from this time on seem to consist largely of debates on various assigned subjects. Even at this date, 1855, the debates began to take on questions of interest between the North and South. Poems of patriotic nature were also read. In '56 there were two members of the class of '59, Knight and Ware, with a large delegation from the class of '60, among which were Dickinson, Eddy, Green, Mann, Parmenter, Richardson and Russ. Harris and Hollis of the same class were taken in at a later date. In 1857 four men were taken in. They were Abell, Phelps, Smith and Ezra J. Warner, who in 1901 presented the college with a beautiful science hall in memory of his father. The meetings kept the same character, consisting of an oration, sometimes a poem, and a debate almost always on some phase of the scented trouble.

In the class of '63 six out of the eight men left college before completion to engage in the struggle. They were Butterfield, Hart, Herbert, Kenton, Sabin and Stay. Caldwell and Sturtevant remained in college. During this year negotiations were under way for the purchase of the Chi Psi Hall from the Odd Fellows. This finally occurred in the spring of 1860 and the Fraternity met in their own hall for the first time on May 18, 1860. From the class of '64 came Brainerd, later president of the college. During the years '61 and '62 there was much discussion both in college and Fraternity as to the advisability of leaving college for the war, with the result that over a half enlisted, mostly for the North, but a few for the South.

DR. MERRITT W. EDDY, M'60, when this picture was taken, was laying the corner stone for the New England Medical Center Buildings, in Boston, Mass., on January 25, 1931, which was the day after his ninety-eighth birthday. Shortly before the successful and happy celebration of his one-hundredth birthday (some six weeks before his death), Frederick W. Brink, M'33, wrote of him as follows:

"On January 25, 1933, Dr. Merritt H. Eddy, M'60, the grand old man of Chi Psi, and the grand old man of a good many other things, celebrates his 100th birthday. The oldest Chi Psi, the oldest Middlebury alumnus, the oldest physician in the East, the oldest Methodist in New England, the oldest Mason in Vermont, his list of distinctions could be continued almost indefinitely.

"Graduated from Middlebury in 1860 and from the Burlington Medical College in 1865, he has lived a life of service in its fullest degree. His years have seen changes such as never before occurred in such a short period of time, and it is doubtful whether they ever will again in the span of a century. He started his service as a physician when hospitals were almost unknown, when nurses were non-existent, when ether had not come into general use, when fever was determined by the touch of the doctor's fingers. Dr. Eddy was personally the possessor of the first medical thermometer in the state of Vermont.

"At present the Doctor is confined to his bed. He cheerfully yields to the directions of his son with regard to his care but thinks that Dr. Stanton Eddy, M'94, takes too good care of him. Alert in every respect and with only a slight hardness of hearing, he proves himself capable of keeping up with the times in every way. Visitors find to their amazement that he has read the latest biographies, that he is cognizant of the developments about him in the world. In November he voted for President for the nineteenth time.

"Small in stature, he nevertheless is a very impressive figure. The fine, serious eyes, the wrinkles that have been left on his face by toil, the now thinning hair and sideburns that still retain their color, all this leaves on one an impression of quiet grandeur. He is a man one would be proud to call friend, and he is worthily the possessor of multitudes of friends, scattered throughout the entire country.

"He has probably done more than any other Middlebury graduate in assisting students through college, either by lending them money or by moral encouragement. He has not forgotten the days when he was an undergraduate who had to teach school during the winter months in order to obtain money for the spring term.

"But to us he is the Grand Old Man of Chi Psi. When he was in college there were only three fraternities at Middlebury, Chi Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon and Delta Upsilon. Happily for us he chose the first. To this day he does not tire of telling stories of fraternity life as he knew it, when a large alpha was composed of a dozen men. Of his own family he has seen a son, two grandsons, three nephews and a grand-nephew initiated into the Bonds of Chi Psi. It has been his fond habit to be present at all initiations of Alpha Mu, and until his health prohibited it a few years ago, he had been the guest of honor at all of the Middlebury initiation banquets. Many a Middlebury Chi Psi is proud to have the signature of Merritt H. Eddy, '60, on his initiation program.

"So we have full right to be proud of our connection with Brother Merritt H. Eddy, lovingly called by Middlebury people, 'Old Doc Eddy.' He has reached his hundredth birthday."

In his ninety-seventh year Brother Eddy himself wrote this:

"To be sure I have been a Chi Psi over seventy-three years, have been an M.D. here in Middlebury since 1865 and have seen a good many boys initiated into the Fraternity. I have been well acquainted with four of the founders and with another of the same times as the founders, but I don't think of anything to add to the history of the Fraternity that has not already been recorded.

"The Fraternity in the beginning had opposition to contend with. The president and faculty forbade the forming of any secret society. Jonathan Adams Allen, of the class of 1845, and Gemont Graves, of the class of 1847, have reported that better than I can. Look in the 'Semi-Centennial Catalogue' of 1892 and you will find the history of it. Also on the same page at the bottom you will find references to the numbers of The Purple and Gold containing some Mu members' articles pertaining to the history of Mu.

"John Wolcott Stewart, one of the founders, who became governor of Vermont, always lived in Middlebury. I doctored his family and his father-in-law's family. He was ninety years old when he died.

"The house in which occurred the birth of Alpha Mu is now standing on Seymour Street."

Up to this time there does not seem to be any mention of other fraternities, but Delta Kappa Epsilon established in 1854 and Delta Upsilon in 1856 were gaining slowly, so along in the sixties the competition for men seems to begin, and instead of "rushing" men as they do today, it seems they had a process known as "running out," which was similar, as nearly as can be ascertained, to the present rushing.

Following the war came a period of depression for the college which was shared by the alpha, but not to an appreciable extent, on account of the firm foothold which she had as against the other fraternities. In the late eighties and nineties a period of expansion opened for Middlebury, and during this time we see an increased prosperity for Alpha Mu. The year 1907 saw another step in advance—the renting of a lodge on Main Street, which served to bring the men more closely together and thus to strengthen the Chi Psi bond. This house was occupied until the fall of 1911, when a new home—the Merrill house—on Weybridge Street was rented for a lodge, which was purchased two years later as a home for Mu.

The glory of Alpha Mu has been the men of distinction she has contributed to the Fraternity and to the world. Of the founders, John W. Stewart became Governor of Vermont and United States Senator, and another, Peter Starr, held for many years a place of great distinction at the Bar of New York City. This standard for men of high mark has been maintained throughout the years. It is not strange, therefore, that Middlebury College should have turned to Alpha Mu for two of her presidents. Uninterruptedly for thirty-five years, from 1886 to 1921, a Chi Psi presided over the destinies of Middlebury. (Ezra Brainerd, '64, from 1886 to 1908, and John M. Thomas, '90, from 1908 to 1921). During this period of Chi Psi leadership the college experienced its greatest growth in the way of buildings and endowment. John Thomas, after having served as president of Middlebury, Pennsylvania State and Rutgers, is now back in Vermont, having recently accepted the presidency of Norwich University.

Here, too, should be mentioned the outstanding work of Ernest Bryant, '91, who from 1894 to 1939 held the chair of physics at Middlebury. And it is with especial honor that the distinguished service of Dr. M. H. Eddy, '60, is recorded. For several years he was Middlebury's oldest living graduate as well as the oldest practicing physician in New England. His active life (1865-1933) of skilful devotion to his profession ended soon after his one hundredth birthday.

Alpha Mu has been well represented on the College Board of Trustees. Percival Wilds, '02, has been a permanent member since 1914 and Frank L. Bell, '91, since 1925. Stewart Ross, '20, and Leighton Wade, '22, are serving as alumni members.

In more recent years Chi Psi has continued to carry on a high tradition in scholarship. In the class of 1937 there were five members of Phi Beta Kappa and in other years the scholastic standing has been well above the average.

Alpha Mu also has maintained her supremacy in intramural competition, for which she has been awarded the Trophy of Trophies for two consecutive years. In other extra-curricular activities Alpha Mu has played a leading role.

These facts may have an added significance when it is realized that Middlebury has had a 40% increase in enrollment during the past ten years and that since 1925 six new fraternities have established chapters here, thus making competition in scholarship and activities far more keen than formerly.

During the last ten years there has been an improvement in the internal organization of the alpha. An increased control of finance has been encouraged as well as a greater managerial interest in oversight of the daily household routine. In this connection might be mentioned the retirement of "Minnie" (Miss Minnie McDonald) who during twenty-nine years of faithful service devoted herself to the duties of house-mother.

Mu is still continuing to enjoy the ex-

ALPHA MU IN 1869. "Accompanying this is a picture of Alpha Mu of Chi Psi taken in 1869, just sixty years ago," wrote Edward J. Davenport, M'71, of Minneapolis, Minn., in 1929. "The boys standing, left to right, are George Remele, '72, Henry Ross, '72, M. O. Perkins, '70, Will Page, '72, F. B. Denio, '71. Sitting, H. J. Parker, '69, Fred Muzzey, '69, Horace White, '69, Ed. Howe, '69, J. W. Bradshaw, '69. Sitting on floor, Ed. J. Davenport, '71, Arthur Wilder, '71, Jim Porter, '70, George Owens, '70. The boys were all athletically inclined. We did not have football in those days but the college nine was made up principally of Chi Psis: Parker, catcher; Bradshaw, first base; Davenport, left field; Perkins, center field. When I entered college, O. D. Scott, '68, was playing first base. He was a veteran of the Civil War, a baseball enthusiast and had but one leg. He was a heavy hitter and someone ran for him. The only charter member I knew was Governor John W. Stewart and I am proud to have known him. I am also proud to have known Dr. Eddy, who is still living and over ninety-six years of age."

"Of the three brethren of the class of 1871," wrote Francis B. Denio, '71, in 1929, "two are still living: Hon. E. J. Davenport, of Minneapolis, Minn., and the writer. I believe that all those of earlier classes have passed on. Of the class of 1872 immediately following George Remele is still living. His contemporaries always recalled with pleasure the voices of Remele and his classmate, Charley Brainerd, rendering 'Stars of the Summer Night' on the way home from the chapter hall."

"A few months ago the mail brought to the writer a copy of a letter dated October 25, 1928, sent out from the Central Office of the Chi Psi Fraternity calling attention to the Fraternity by-law forbidding the presence or use of intoxicating beverages in the Fraternity lodges. The letter is a welcome one for it authoritatively bans that which gave the one unpleasant memory of the period of our active membership. Vermont was a prohibition state, but the enforcement of the law was governed by the local demand. A hotel near the chapter hall sold liquor with no effective restraint. The 'spreads' in the chapter hall were supplied therefrom. The active members were divided in sentiment. Those from temperance homes were in the minority, and were told 'the graduates expect it.' Therefore it was used in the major spreads and some of the minor ones. In discussion over the use of wine one asserted: 'Wine will not make a man drunk unless a man makes a hog of himself.' Not many weeks after, that one, returning to his room after a festivity, went to bed with his boots on. After that the subject was not thought a proper one to be discussed. Not many years after our graduation one of my contemporaries, a drinker, informed me that the use of liquors had been discontinued, and at the recommendation of graduates; also that he approved of the change."

cellent lodge built in 1929. It is constructed of rough Vermont limestone, which is the same material used in the earliest college buildings. Located on an excellent site on the campus, it commands a magnificent view of the Green Mountains, and is structure worthy of Chi Psi at Middlebury.

RILEY E. WRIGHT, M'65, wrote in 1929 from Baltimore, Md., where he was then the oldest among the city's attorneys: "Now more accurately speaking I have been a Chi Psi for about sixty-seven years. It was at Middlebury College, Vt., that I was initiated into the mysteries of the order. Its members then outnumbered all other Greek-letter societies at 'old Midd' except that of the Dekes. Their claim of superiority of numbers was of course overbalanced by the Chi Psis' boast of superiority of quality. Chi Psi did, I believe, embrace members who became distinguished in after life, whom it might seem invidious perhaps to mention by name. 'Midd' then was a small college as compared with that of today. It has since become co-ed, and the gentle sex now figure largely there. If the judgment of the finest of the young ladies of Middlebury village that elder day be decisive the Chi Psis outclassed the other societies, in that they were the most popular with the young ladies, who vied with one another in wearing a Chi Psi badge. I am now past ninety years of age, but still an ardent Chi Psi."

JOHN C. SCOFIELD, M'80, received the following letter from the Secretary of War at the close of 1930: "It is with deep regret that I learn of your retirement from the Government service. You have devoted your youth and your seasoned maturity to the War Department. Beginning at the entrance clerical grade in 1884 you rose through sheer merit to your present position in 1899. In the 31 years since that time you have discharged the duties of your office with conspicuous fidelity, ability and efficiency. I feel highly privileged in being able to voice the debt which the department owes you for your forty-six years' outstanding service. Your personal character and your qualities of mind have won you hosts of friends and admirers within and without the service of the Government. I know that I speak for them in all wishing you great happiness in the years that are to come."

SKETCH OF A FOUNDER OF CHI PSL—"The announcement of the death of JUDGE WILLIAM F. TERHUNE, at his home in this city last Wednesday morning, went through the town and community 'round about like an electric shock. He was found dead in his bed by his aged companion about the usual breakfast hour. Since the date of General Rusk's funeral, when he contracted a severe cold, Judge Terhune was indisposed, but had been around town as usual up to two days before his death. Tuesday night, before retiring the judge was attended by his wife, who administered such remedies as seemed necessary. Mrs. Terhune went to his chamber before she retired and found him asleep and resting. When she had the breakfast prepared Wednesday morning she called to the judge, but he failed to make his appearance. Going to his room she was horrified to find him dead. Neighbors were summoned and a hasty examination of his person and room made. The judge was snugly covered up in the bed with one hand under his head and the other folded across his breast, his eyes closed as if asleep. He had apparently passed away without a struggle. The remains were yet warm when found.

"The funeral was held Friday afternoon at the family home the judge founded more than thirty years ago. The large residence was filled with old time neighbors and sympathizing friends. The ceremonies were simple. After prayer by Rev. Hebbard and the reading of a chapter of scripture by Rev. Willey, Judge Wyman read a biographical sketch of the deceased. The sermon was by Rev. George W. Nuzum, who spoke in his usual earnest and sympathetic way, recounting the many good things Judge Terhune had accomplished for Viroqua and Vernon county, paying a high tribute to his signal abilities and worth as a citizen. The choir rendered appropriate selections during the services. At the close all were given opportunity to look for the last time upon the features of one who had been a familiar figure in this community for more than forty-two years. The pallbearers were selected from among the practicing attorneys of this city, who placed his remains to rest in the cemetery the judge himself platted and designed. The only members of the family present were the aged widow and their sons Fred and La Force. Five other sons and daughters are scattered from California to New York, and could not be present.

"It may properly be said of Judge Terhune that no more brilliant, accomplished and polished man was ever a resident of the county. He was a gifted orator, a judge of law and penman with few equals. His life forms a part of the history of the county. Coming here with the rugged pioneer fathers he was eminently qualified to serve them in any capacity. They trusted and believed in him. No man was more fully identified with the material progress of Viroqua and Vernon county than he. He was a gentleman and a neighbor whom everybody honored. For nearly twenty years he had lived a quiet, secluded life and much of his time the past eight years was passed at De Soto, where he had a small collection and law business.

"William F. Terhune was born at Northumberland, Saratoga county, N. Y., July 10, 1821. His ancestors came from Holland and France, and were Huguenots. He is of mixed English, Dutch and French descent. His great-grandfather, at the time of the outbreak of the Revolutionary war, surrendered a lucrative office under the British crown rather than become the instrument to enforce unjust laws and illegal taxation. His grandfather was a soldier in the war on the side of the colonies, and his own father was an adjutant at Sackett's Harbor in the war of 1812.

"William F. Terhune was the son of a farmer, in moderate circumstances, and until the age of 17 years was employed upon the farm in summer and in attendance upon a district school in winter. Having by that time acquired a good common school education, and being ambitious to make further progress, he commenced the business of teaching, which he pursued alternately with attendance on some convenient academy. He attended at different times, Troy Conference Academy, at West Poughkeepsie, and the academy at Castleton, in Vermont, and the academies at Schuylerville and Amsterdam, in New York. During his academic course he was chosen to deliver three valedictory addresses. He entered Union College, New York, in 1843, but the death of his mother, and the consequent derangement of his father's affairs, prevented him from fully completing a collegiate course. He resumed the business of teaching, and in 1846 commenced studying law in the office of Hon. P. H. Sylvester, at Coxsackie, N. Y. Here his success as a teacher, and his pen as an educationist, rapidly brought him into public notice, so that in 1846 he was chosen county superintendent of schools for Greene county, N. Y., which enabled him to complete his law studies, and he was admitted to the bar of the supreme court of the state of New York, in 1848. He commenced practice at Athens, and intermarried with Margaret C. Vandenburg, by whom he has had nine children, seven of whom are now living—Julia, Aurealia L., Leonard B., Blanche, now the wife of Thomas Jerman; Ethie, a resident of Coxsackie, N. Y.; Frederick and LaForce.

"In 1850 Mr. Terhune was employed, by the marshal of the southern district of New York, to superintend the taking of the census of that year, and to correct and revise the returns of the assistant marshals. In 1851 he resolved to seek his fortune in the west, and on the 5th of August of that year landed at where Viceroy now is, and thence came to Viroqua, where he permanently located, and became one of the early settlers of Vernon (then Bad Ax) county. The county was then just organized, and he was very soon appointed deputy clerk of the court, and deputy clerk of the board of supervisors. Since then he has been honored by the confidence of his fellow citizens, who have chosen him at different times member of the assembly, register of deeds, district attorney, and county judge; beside he has filled the less responsible offices of court commissioner and chairman of the board of supervisors. He has ever been identified with the interests of the county, and was chiefly instrumental in procuring the name of the county to be changed from the barbarous one of 'Bad Ax' to that of Vernon.

"Mr. Terhune is the pioneer lawyer of Vernon county. Unlike many of the profession, he wrote a beautiful recording hand which embellishes many of the early records of the county. He was an excellent judge of the law, and excelled in drafting original papers. Of late years he has been afflicted with partial blindness and a nervo-spinal disease, the latter of which, caused by a fall in his boyhood, embarrassed him, even in the vigor of manhood, and as age advanced has had the effect to weaken his powers of application to business, and seems to handicap his executive ability. He and his amiable lady are the only two persons surviving and remaining within the limits of the village, who were adult residents in 1851." —Vernon County Censor, Wednesday, December 13, 1893.

ALPHA ALPHA, established on April 8, 1844, at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., by John Bonner, Gustave Arvilien Breaux, William Newton Brown, Perry G. Childs, Philip Olmsted Hyatt, Samuel Finley Jones, Gilbert Board Lawrence, Lewis Frederick Pelton and Elbert George Roberts. Gamma, Norman Porter, II⁴⁴, and Zeta, Thomas B. Rutherford, II⁴⁴.

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY in 1844 had about one hundred and thirty students and a scholarly faculty, presided over by the majestic Dr. Olin, a graduate of Middlebury, a ripe scholar and a successful president. College fraternities found in Dr. Olin a master advocate. During his presidency, Psi Upsilon founded a chapter at Wesleyan in 1843, and Chi Psi in 1844. There was no opposition from the faculty, no persecution or misunderstanding.

The first secret society at Wesleyan was the Mystical Seven, founded about 1837. Its membership was limited to the magic number, seven, and in 1844, excelled as writers and speakers. Following the Mystics in 1837, came the Eclectics, or Phi Nu Theta, a local society represented largely by its alumni in the Methodist ministry. Psi Upsilon entered in 1843, but its members were at that time somewhat clannish and lacking in breadth of college spirit. While these societies did not ignore the social element, they still did not make it prominent; hence, there was clearly room for an organization which would give prominence to sociability. The three societies had their usual quota of men, one taking seven; therefore, numerically considered, there was ample room for another. Not neglecting intellectual and moral qualifications, but insisting upon sociability, Alpha Alpha of Chi Psi was founded. The nine founders consisted of two seniors, one junior, four sophomores and two freshmen. The leading spirit in the organization of Chi Psi at Wesleyan was Elbert G. Roberts of the class of 1846 and the initiation of the founders was in his room. Certainly not a very imposing arrangement for so important an enterprise. A hall was secured on the east side of Main Street, the third house from College Street; two Chi Psis from Union College gave the starting word, and early in the year 1844, Alpha was fairly launched on a successful voyage. An unbroken career of prosperity followed for nearly two decades. It was, however, a very select body of men and seldom numbered over a dozen. This fewness of numbers undoubtedly made the bond stronger and no other fraternity on the Hill was so closely united. In the middle of the fifties Alpha secured a new hall on the corner of Center and Main Streets. There were two rooms, the more pleasant of which was fitted up as a sitting-room. It contained three sofas, half a dozen chairs, a good carpet, a center table and several pictures. But the most imposing article of furniture was a great elevated throne built by one of our early members, who had learned the trade of a carpenter, and where his "High Mightiness" used to sit. Here this little band of brothers gathered every Saturday evening for their weekly meetings, which were quite informal, although the solemnity of the meetings was never neglected. The other room was somewhat smaller and was used as an office, where the constitution and other Fraternity documents were kept. For the privilege of occupying these meager quarters Alpha paid Messrs. Hayden and Loveland the generous sum of $30 per annum. Hayden and Loveland were the

The condition of the alpha in 1859 may be noted from the following extract from a letter to Brother R. B. Maclin of Alpha Epsilon:

"Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct., "Feb. 18, 1859.

"DEAR BROTHER.

"We are flourishing of course, like all genuine Chi Psis, for they have got it in 'em. Manliness, 'grit,' scholarship, and joviality are the elements. We number fifteen picked men, with just enough ministers to give us stability and character.

"Yours in the Bonds,
"HORACE W. PARMENTER."

The beginning of trouble for the alpha arose in a revulsion from the spirit of exclusiveness which had before existed and which revulsion now manifested itself in a determination to increase the numbers. The increase tended to loosen the close bonds of friendship that had hitherto existed and to allow the accession of some undesirable material. The spring of 1863 saw the culmination of these effects and the fall of the same year brought on the crisis. The period from 1860 to 1863 had been a glorious one for Chi Psi at Wesleyan. Chi Psi stood at the very front among Wesleyan fraternities, and she was in this position when the trouble brewed.

owners of the building and incidentally were proprietors of a grocery on the ground floor, the savory odors of which were ever present in Alpha's rooms above. The other expenses consisted of a small initiation fee, occasional special taxes and light and fuel. One load of wood was a sufficient supply for the winter, while about six quarts of whale oil furnished the light for the whole year, for kerosene had not yet come into use.

In the spring of 1863 some of the members became a little too "fast," bringing discredit upon themselves and upon the alpha, and finally resulting in the expulsion of one man from college and the Fraternity for crime and the resignation of another from college. When college convened in the fall the associates of these two men, who had left the previous spring, associates to the number of two or three, presented serious obstacles to the immediate success of the alpha. In the cultivation of freshmen in the fall of '63 the alpha was very unsuccessful owing to the opposition of these same men and this, added to the previous trouble, was such as to further intensify the bad feeling between some of the members. Discouraged and disheartened at the evident decline of Chi Psi from a proud position in the college, the members determined upon disbandment. So it was that Alpha, numbering nineteen men in October, 1863, gave up her existence by sending her constitution and charter to A. H. Dean of Hamilton College, the then presiding officer of the Fraternity.

DR. JOHN L. RICE, A'12. One of the most important positions in public health service in the world is undoubtedly that of Health Commissioner of the City of New York. Chi Psi is proud of the fact that after "scouring the whole country" to get the best available man for the position, Mayor LaGuardia drafted for the work Dr. John L. Rice, A'12. Until accepting this appointment, Brother Rice had been for the previous ten years public health officer of New Haven, Conn.

The suspension was in a certain sense a credit to the men of that time. There may have been a lack of wisdom in their course but there was not a lack of integrity. They took that course, believing that it would prevent dishonor to the Fraternity at large, as well as their own alpha in particular. Like the old Whig party, it died voluntarily rather than come to dishonor. It is to the further credit of the alpha that its standing in college was such that when President Cummings of Wesleyan heard of the contemplated step he summoned the leading members to his room and remonstrated, asserting that the influence of Chi Psi was too healthy on college life to be dispensed with. But unheeded of this advice the alpha persisted in its course and determined to end its career.

The history of Alpha Alpha by no means ends with the year 1863. The indomitable spirit of Chi Psi may have been in a dormant state, but it was not dead.

Alpha was soon to be revived. Of the revival E. A. White, A'79, writes:

"Two or three months after the commencement of the fall term in 1875, and after the various societies had had their initiation, I received a letter from Dr. J. H. Churchill of the class of 1867, asking me to call and see him. I had never met the man and had no idea what he wanted to see me about, but I complied with his request and called on him. He informed me that he was a Chi Psi, and was very anxious to have the alpha re-established in Wesleyan. I had not yet joined any fraternity, although I was being cultivated by two fraternities at the time. Dr. Churchill stated very clearly what seemed to him the advantages of Chi Psi over any other fraternity. His statement made quite an impression upon my decision in a few days. Having decided in favor of Chi Psi, I again called on Dr. Churchill and was pledged by him. Then I went to work among the non-members of fraternities in college. I found it up-hill work and was soon sorry that I had pledged myself, realizing what a task it was going to be, but having started there was nothing else for me to do but go on. After a little I was able to pledge one of my classmates and took him to Dr. Churchill. We wanted some upper-class men, but a poor freshman could not do much with them. All I could do was to investigate and report to the doctor whom I thought to be the best men in the several classes and get them in touch with him. He finally succeeded in getting two men from the then junior class, Wharff and Hammond. Later I succeeded in getting another freshman and also two sophomores. After we had the promise of seven members the matter was brought before the general Fraternity and consent was given by a vote of the alphas in the spring of 1876.

"The then presiding officer of the Fraternity gave Alpha the following charter:

"Governed in every respect by the constitution of the Chi Psi Fraternity, I now declare a petition granted by said Fraternity to I. H. W. Wharff, C. D. Birnsee, G. H. Hammond, H. Perry, E. A. White, and . . . students of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Ct.; and it seeming advisable, I have requested Alpha Chi of Amherst College, Mass., by a committee to organize these men into an Adelphote of the Chi Psi. Said Adelphote shall be recognized by the Fraternity as Alpha Alpha reorganized. By vote of the Fraternity.

"WILLARD R. CRAY.

"Middlebury, Vermont, May 11, 1876."

"Wharff of '77 and Perry of '79, my classmate, went to Amherst and were initiated there, and then came back and with the help of some of the members of Chi, the rest of us were initiated into Chi Psi. I was not able to go to Amherst as I had been chosen a member of the 'varsity crew, and under training, and no member of the crew was allowed to break training and be absent from daily practice on the river, so Perry of my class went in my place."

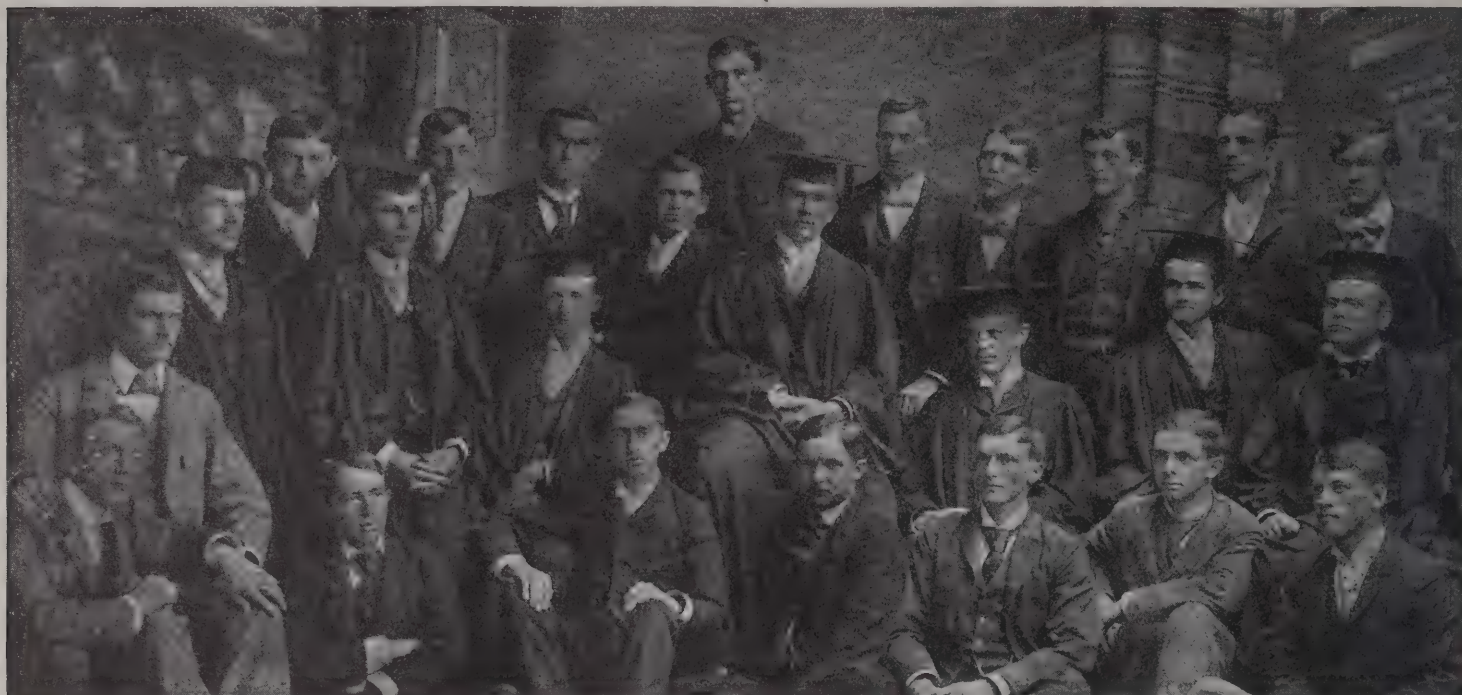

Thus was Alpha Alpha awakened into new life. The next year eight freshmen were initiated, and Alpha was again enjoying the pleasures of life and love and devotion. The members stood high in college activities, especially Wharff, who was treasurer of the rowing association and president of the class day exercises; and White, who was stroke oar and captain of the crew in his senior year, and Commodore of the Navy, graduating with Phi Beta Kappa and Special Honors. Scholarship was in fair condition. The alpha had rooms at the time on the second floor of a building on the east side of Main Street about three doors south of College Street, nearly opposite where the old post-office used to be.

The period immediately following was devoted to the perfecting of the local organization, so much so that it seems the alpha for a time was neglectful of its obligations to the general Fraternity, a condition which within a few years reacted to the harm of the alpha. In 1889 the Alpha Alpha Literary Society was incorporated. This was the first definite organization of the alumni and was due in large part to the efforts of F. T. Garretson, '46, Abram Avery, '48, E. H. True, '55, E. B. Sanford, '65, and Howard Perry, '79, nobly assisted by many of the younger men. It was during this period that the alpha moved into the Foss House, its first real lodge, one where the members could room and board.

During the early periods and for a decade more the chief part of the meetings seemed to be devoted to literary and oratorical exercises, and very little time to the welfare of the alpha or the men themselves. Today the contrary is true. Perhaps after all the change is not so much one in the lodge room as it is in the use and purpose of the Fraternity.

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY, MIDDLETOWN, CONN. To all who know her, Wesleyan is a gem of the small college world. This old New England college, founded in 1831 and located on the banks of the Connecticut River, has through consistently fine scholarship become recognized as one of America's great colleges. Equipment has about been doubled in the last twenty years. Seven new buildings have been erected and five old ones remodeled. Wesleyan has an undergraduate body of about 700. It is the policy of the administration not to increase in size, so many must be refused admission yearly. Standards are strict, but an average student can make good if he will work. Fraternities are important at Wesleyan, and 75 per cent of the men belong. The John Wesley Club, with Downey House as its center, is a powerful independent organization. The new palatially housed Honors College, which has attracted national attention, permits selected honor students to pursue intensively research subjects of their own choice. There is keen interest shown in athletics, which are not over emphasized, however. The college holds its head up in intercollegiate competition and occasionally has championship teams. The Wesleyan choir-gee club is one of the foremost college singing units and has won national honors three times in the last decade.—JOHN T. SINCLAIR, JR., A'39.

Toward the end of this period, in 1887, the alpha was weakened by some internal dissension, necessitating the expulsion of four men of the class of 1889. The delegation of 1892 came in at this time. It was strong in numbers and well balanced, and did much to again turn the tide toward prosperity. In 1893 the alpha moved from the Foss House to a new home, now known as the Greystone, near the corner of Main and College Streets. This home was occupied by the alpha for about ten years. Within a few years after this move the alpha and the alumni began to realize that if Chi Psi was to maintain herself as a force in the college community she must be housed near the campus. With this realization came the movement led by S. F. Jayne, '56, C. D. Woods, '80, and E. G. Derby, '83, for the location and lodge which the alpha now occupies.

The local conditions during this period seemed to be improving and certain it was that alumni interest was on the increase. With the help of these improved conditions the alpha was soon to wage a four-year fight for her existence. In 1898 a movement was started to revoke the charter of Alpha. This fight was carried on through four conventions and was won each time by Alpha. Of necessity, much ill-feeling was engendered, but withal, the trouble infused new life and spirit into the alumni of the alpha and in reality proved to be a blessing in disguise. In 1897 the Literary Society had purchased a lot across from the campus. The charter agitation led to renewed efforts upon the part of the alumni for a new home for the alpha, and as a result of these efforts a new lodge was formally opened on February 22, 1904.

Chi Psi's new home gave fresh life and renewed enthusiasm to the undergraduates. They were now as well located as any fraternity in Wesleyan. The years following this move were ones of progress for the alpha. Each year saw the alpha growing in numbers and influence. A strong senior delegation in 1909 brought the alpha to her rightful position in the college community.

The installation of the late President Shanklin in the fall of the same year was a turning point in the history of the college as well as that of the alpha. Under his leadership, not only were the material resources of the college immensely increased, but the enrollment soon reached the maximum of 500 set by the board of trustees, and the scholastic standard was constantly raised.

With the attainment of outside prestige the alpha's attention was turned to the perfection of internal organization. In the spring of 1910, John K. MacDonald, Jr., the Fraternity Visitor, spent some time in Middletown and this visit did much toward reorganization. It is hardly too strong to say that the internal strength which the alpha has quite consistently maintained subsequently, dates from this time. In the fall of that year an exceptionally strong delegation was secured. Throughout their college course the members of this delegation pushed forward these principles of reorganization, and during their senior year, Alpha occupied unquestionably the strongest position on the campus.

The progress noted above was put to a test in the spring of 1912 when the lodge was partially burned at a loss of $6,000. This trial reemphasized the fact that the progress in the life and spirit of the alpha had been real. It was a spur to new enthusiasm and what in the spring was a burned and dilapidated lodge by fall had been turned into a new and better home.

The prosperity laid in 1910 and earlier on the sure cornerstone of internal strength continued up to the outbreak of the war. Perhaps the alpha had never been as strong as in the fall of 1917. But, small in numbers compared with the other fraternities on the hill, yet sending a larger proportion of her members to the war, it was inevitable that this should be a trying period for the alpha and that the close of hostilities should find her comparatively weak and disorganized.

The work of reconstruction was carried out along the lines of 1910 and subsequent years, and while the progress was slow it was sure. Two indications of this are very evident. First, a completely remodelled lodge was first occupied in February, 1927. With an investment of one hundred thousand dollars Alpha provided herself with a most fitting home and assured herself of equal physical equipment with any other Wesleyan fraternity. Second, the award of the Thayer Trophy to Alpha in 1928. This award gave the stamp of approval to Alpha by the national Fraternity and recognized the fact that Alpha had built herself into one of the strong alphas of the Fraternity.

The foregoing is the account of Alpha printed in the "Catalogue" of 1929. It is probably the work of several hands, and parts of it at least must antedate that publication by many years. It is a picture of struggle and vicissitude over a long series of years, of a sudden breaking into light and life in the twenties and attaining a very apotheosis in the Thayer Trophy award of 1928. But this is as over-simplified as an Horatio Alger story of a poor boy making good and gives only a half-picture of a way of life that was in some respects peculiar even in its own day and may be worth a look by the undergraduate of today. Perhaps one who entered Alpha in the Middle Years of 1909 is well placed to judge of the spirit and temper of both of those ages.

Of struggle and vicissitude there was great plenty; but it was not the result so much of inept management and failure as of a principle that actuated the alpha for fifty years, namely, that the undergraduate body should be small. From the beginnings until the early twenties the undergraduate alpha was small. And it was small in a day that knew large chapters. The leading chapter at Wesleyan had a membership of 75, while Alpha probably had never exceeded 25 up to that time and didn't until the days of her prosperity began. This policy was based neither on an inability to get members nor an unwillingness to share the precious privileges, but on a principle laid down somewhere along the line and strongly held that no larger group could retain the friendly intimacy possible to that small number. Subsequent history seems to prove that doctrine unsound; but it would be well to consider what we had in those dark Middle Ages: We had considerable privacy for one thing, as the lodge was large and the freshmen lived out; and although it came at a high price and we could ill afford it, it was worth what it cost. Above all else we had leisure, as the group was too small to be of account in campus politics and the pressure to do something around the college was almost entirely lacking. No doubt much "material" in the crowd was not exploited for activities; but we had time for study and talk, for hiking in the hills and going on the river. There was not the slightest complacency about this, and we were perhaps more excited than the average of undergraduates when some energetic member distinguished himself. We were neither elegant like some others, nor muscular like still others, and were just as average and commonplace a group of boys as could possibly be found in those days, in fact there was little there that would not have disturbed a present-day Fraternity Visitor to his very soul; but the fact remains that could I guarantee for my own sons in their college days the same kind of peaceful life in an atmosphere as distinctly intellectual, I would consider no effort or expense too great to provide it.

That now such a place is no longer to be found is the result of factors beyond the control of the average layman: The automobile for one thing with its destruction of the isolation that made such a college as Wesleyan possible, and more specifically the modern desire to keep colleges abreast of life, to make the life there comparable in the minutest detail with the adult life on the outside.

These factors plus the sudden access of fortune to the college and the growing pressure of the national Fraternity to make all alphas conform to the same pattern account for both the strength and weakness of the present day Alpha. They forced her to build in 1927 a larger lodge than her small group of alumni could afford and to enlarge the undergraduate membership to support it. With this has come success. She has taken what is considered her rightful place among the influential fraternity chapters at the college, is even argued by some to be at the top of the heap, has many college honors, has regular berths in the old honor societies, and although handicapped by a relatively small alumni body back of the twenties, swims strongly with the current.

These little New England colleges of the period before 1920 must seem complete backwaters to the members of large, bustling universities; but it must not be forgotten that some of the character of our Fraternity as evidenced in the quaintness of its private language (lodge, alpha, etc.), its conservatism in all matters pertaining to dress, insignia, flags, and the like, and its general lack of show-off—elements, on which its distinction chiefly rests—have been given to it by these old and comparatively obscure alphas.

This view is in part pure nostalgia for the good old days; but it is also in part a settled conviction that a college should not properly be contemporary society in miniature and that the very wealth that has made it such should be better used to protect undergraduates from the distractions of ordinary life. And the history of Alpha provides a pattern of a sort.—R.S.T.

CHARLES G. GIRELIUS, A'99, minister of the First Unitarian Church, of New Orleans, La., wrote in 1936: "In going over some old manuscripts and clippings recently, I brought again to light a poem—'To Philip Spencer'—which I wrote when I was a senior at Wesleyan, and which was published at that time in THE PURPLE AND GOLD. Then I undertook to revise the poem, and as you may be interested to see the revised poem, I am enclosing a copy herewith. You may or may not think it well to publish it. Or, if it is to be published, it may be well to hold it until the celebration of the Chi Psi Centennial. It is at your disposal in any way you may want to use it. The fact that I have picked up my old poem on Philip Spencer and revised it—with some improvement I trust—proves at least that my interest is not dead." (See page 36.)

SKETCH OF A FOUNDER OF CHI PSI.—"SAMUEL T. TABER was descended from an old New England family, whose ancestral home was in Massachusetts. His grandfather, William Taber, left the paternal homestead in early life and settled in the State of New York, purchasing a farm on Chestnut Ridge, which lies in the most fertile portion of Dutchess county. This fine property passed by inheritance to his son Thomas, the father of Samuel, who in 1828 represented the district in the XXth Congress.

"In the old-fashioned, roomy and comfortable farm house at Chestnut Ridge Samuel T. Taber was born, on the 13th of April 1824. He early evinced a taste for intellectual pursuits, and after completing his youthful education entered Union College, from which he graduated in 1842. His preference being for the law he passed a year in the law school at Cambridge, Mass., and afterward continued his studies for two years more, and until 1845, with a law firm in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; at the end of which period he was admitted to practice. Inheriting ample means and possessing quiet and studious tastes, he did not enter upon the active practice of his profession; but, having in the same year that he was admitted to the bar married Miss Kate Hiller, of Chautauqua county, N. Y., preferred to retire to the home farm on Chestnut Ridge, where he passed several years in agricultural pursuits. In 1856, having inherited from his mother's family the fine estate and ancestral home of the Tituses in Queens county, he removed to Roslyn, and thenceforth was a resident of Long Island. In his new home he found himself in the midst of congenial surroundings, and seemed to enter upon a life of quiet and uninterrupted happiness. His fine farm was under a high state of cultivation, and he took constant pleasure in improving it by adding the latest inventions in agricultural machinery, and in introducing the most approved methods of using them. He was much interested in fine stock of all kinds but especially in poultry, swine and cattle, the best strains of which he always kept. His herd of thoroughbred Durhams was the finest on the island, and year after year won the highest prize at the county fair. His cultured taste made him also an admirer of all that was beautiful in nature. Trees and flowers were especial favorites, and the ample lawns surrounding his residence were tastefully planted with choice varieties of shade and ornamental trees, while a fine conservatory attached to the house was always kept well stocked with beautiful and rare plants. He was an excellent practical botanist and an authority on the native flora of the island. His quiet and studious habits withdrew him from active public life, and he modestly shrank from assuming the leading position in politics which his ability and social standing would otherwise have given him. He was nevertheless a man of sincere and decided convictions, and never hesitated to espouse promptly and earnestly any cause that he believed just and right. He was quick to respond to calls of patriotic duty of every kind, and all legitimate schemes for public improvement or political advancement found in him an earnest advocate and a generous supporter.

"While Mr. Taber's inclinations turned toward the quiet life of a country gentleman, wherein he found his greatest pleasure in the cultivation of his fertile acres and the enjoyment of the home circle, he was a man of excellent business capacity, and managed his estate and the various important interests intrusted to his care with prudence and success, evincing great natural ability for mercantile pursuits. He was in the board of directors of the Brooklyn Bank, and also president of the North Shore Transportation Company, which latter corporation, under his careful supervision, achieved a marked success.

"In 1866 the Queens County Agricultural Society, which had been leading a species of nomadic life, decided to make for itself a permanent home. To this end a tract of 40 acres of land donated by the town of Hempstead was accepted, and the work of planting trees, erecting buildings, and otherwise preparing the ground immediately begun. In a few years nearly thirty thousand dollars had been expended in these improvements, and the society could justly take pride in having the best arranged and most beautiful agricultural grounds in the State. In this great and laborious undertaking Mr. Taber was a leading spirit, and to him more than to any other person are the people of Queens county indebted for its successful accomplishment. He was president of the society three consecutive terms, and during those years, by his energy, good judgment and generosity, converted a doubtful experiment into a permanent success, and established the society on so firm a basis that it has ever since gone prosperously onward. He was also greatly interested in the State agricultural society, and at the time of his death was one of its vice-presidents, as well as a leading manager in its affairs. Had he lived a few weeks longer, and until the annual meeting, he would probably have been elected to the presidency.

"On the 24th of May 1841, during Mr. Taber's junior year in college, ten Union College men, of whom he was one of the leaders, met and founded the since well known college fraternity of Chi Psi, which now numbers twenty-three alphas or chapters, in as many of the leading colleges of America. He was honored with the highest office in the gift of this society, and always maintained a warm interest in its affairs.

"Mr. Taber was by birth a member of the religious society of Friends, and, although never professing to adhere in all things to the more rigid rules of the sect, was a conscientious and respected member of the society, and lived up squarely to his ideal of the highest and most advanced principles of Quakerism. While a thorough gentleman in appearance and address, he was especially plain and unassuming in all things, inheriting the Friends' aversion to personal vanity and ostentatious display. Although generous and hospitable in a marked degree, he was conscientiously careful to waste nothing in useless luxury, and evinced through life the effect of his early Quaker training in frugality, industry and simplicity.

"He was a keen sportsman and loved his dog and gun, although in this, as in all other matters, he maintained a sensible moderation, and never allowed pleasure to interfere with the strict performance of duty. He used frequently to make excursions to the locality where game was found, and took great satisfaction in sharing the results of his luck and skill with his neighbors. It was during one of these gunning trips that he contracted the malady which caused his death. He, with several friends, leased a large tract of meadow and marsh land on the borders of Currituck Sound, in North Carolina, and in the autumn of each year it was his custom to spend a week or more in hunting the wild fowl that frequent these waters. It is supposed that during his last visit to the south the malaria lurking in the swampy lands of his shooting grounds poisoned his system, and thus was the indirect cause of his death, which occurred a short time after his return, and on the 4th of February 1871."—"History of Queens County."

BOWDOIN had been chartered fifty years, Maine had been a state less than half that time, and Chi Psi was only three years old when Alpha Eta was founded. The college had a trifling endowment, a half dozen modest buildings, a faculty of six, a hundred and fifty students. The curriculum was devoted to Latin, Greek and Mathematics, with some concessions to modern languages and the sciences. Discipline was considered a virtue, and "rustications" and formal "admonitions," both public and private, were frequent. The summer term lasted through July and August, with commencement in early September!

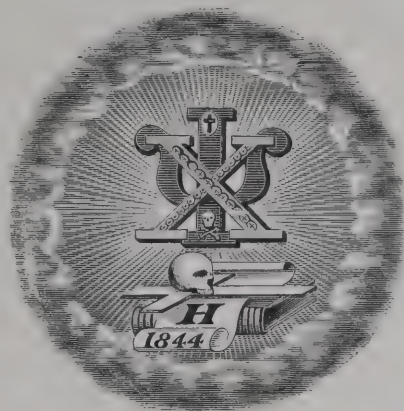

Literary societies had existed here from the earliest days of the college, but the first of the "Greeks" did not arrive until 1841, when Alpha Delta Phi established a chapter, followed shortly by Psi Upsilon. Their participation in the elections of the major literary societies, the Peucinian and the Athenaeon, caused growing resentment among the other students.

In 1844 a small group resolved to seek a chapter of Chi Psi, influenced in that direction by acquaintance with some members of the Fraternity from Williams. Their request for the establishment of an alpha was approved, and plans were made for an initiation at Brunswick in the summer.

James F. Rawson, from Union, arrived according to plan, but the delegate from Williams did not appear. Rawson gave every assurance that there must have been some unavoidable delay, and as a small measure of comfort to the Bowdoin men "he loaned his badge to C. W. Goddard to appear in the Salutatory Oration on Commencement Day."

At the beginning of the fall term, Nathaniel G. White and Thomas A. D. Fessenden went to Boston to meet a group from Williams. They were initiated at the United States Hotel on Friday, October 11. Returning to Brunswick, they met the local group on Saturday evening. The record states that "having taken the preliminary oath we received our badges and the next day put on the golden characters of Faith, Friendship and Death to the Traitor, revealing to the world our existence in splendor and power." At a meeting on Monday the initiation was completed.

The first regular meeting was held November 5. Members were elected and the program for the next meeting was arranged, "after which the Society went into a committee of the whole upon refreshments provided by brothers Avery & Johnson." A "committee of the whole upon refreshments" seems to have been a regular order of business at almost every meeting for the next twenty years.

The early meetings were held in the rooms of members, as were many meetings even after a hall was acquired. Once the meeting was held in Shepley's room "as it was not deemed prudent to repair to our usual place of resort on account of its being so light out." Again "There being a quorum present at Mrs. Mustard's boarding house, the society was called to order by the No. 1."

The question of suitable quarters was considered in the fall of 1844, and a committee appointed to look for a room. After transacting this business it was necessary to omit the Chaos for lack of time! A minutes for April 28, 1845, are headed "Chi Psi Hall." A month later a vote of thanks was given those who "so satisfactorily papered our hall." Four years later it was voted to change the lamps for fluid lamps. The next meeting, after listening to a Chaos, "a good compound of serio & comico," voted for a spirit lamp for the transparency.

By 1855 the furnishings seemed unsatisfactory, and a committee was appointed to consider refitting the hall, and "for the purpose of communicating the design to the graduate members and soliciting assistance pecuniarily." After a month they were asked to report. "Bro. Anderson (William H.) when called upon to 'state his argument,' rose with a look of itself worth two sofas and a spit box, and stated to the Society, that, owing to a pressure of business of a trajical nature, he had up to the present time accomplished nothing, but his mind being now relieved, he should be able to attend to his duty, and that his expectations of success were most sanguine. Ditto the other members, or, to quote the words of the Immortal Advertiser, "The city failed us; ditto the rural districts."

Hospitality was early the rule. In August, 1845, plans were made for entertaining any brothers at commencement "in a man-week later the committee reported that "the hall over the Pleasant St. Seminary if fitted up properly would be a suitable room—that the proprietor had been consulted who offered to make the necessary alterations and lease it to the Society for 20 dollars per year." This seminary was on the south side of Pleasant Street, a few rods from Maine Street.

The following spring a committee was authorized to procure furniture, and the ner becoming the sons of Old Bowdoin." Six years later Brother Willis "addressed the Fraternity in a fervid, elegant and eloquent speech of great power, dwelling principally upon the importance, necessity and absolute imperativeness of our having a celebration at the coming commencement." These celebrations were important events, and the orator and poet were selected with some care.

The committees were not always efficient. Brother Williamson "addressed the society in relation to some Champagne, which had been ordered for the last commencement, but said Champagne coming 'too late for the feast,' had been disposed of, and it was voted 'That the money contributed by members of the Society for the purpose of defraying the expense of the Champagne be transferred to the treasury.'"

Finances were handled most informally, on the basis of passing the hat when the term tax of fifty cents was insufficient. Not all the members were careful about financial matters, even in the good old days. A special committee, appointed in 1846 to wait upon a brother whose account was in arrears was instructed "and if he refused to take him down and pull his pin off."

And under date of June 6, 1850, we read that "according to figures the society is worth 50 cts. cash."

The records of most of the meetings are matter-of-fact: "Call to order, records read, such-and-such business transacted, adjourned." Now and then there was a Tritos of a different turn of mind. Witness the following samples:

"Having satisfied soul and body, the Society adjourned."

"But as most of the Soc. were absent keeping Fast, it was deemed expedient to adjourn till a more convenient season."

"The Society then discussed at length the affair of the Athenaeon Induction, and though it appeared probable several times, that the affair would be dropped after discussing it severely without the dis, yet an amicable understanding was at length arrived at."

"Nothing of any importance was done."

"Bro. Williamson then in view of the full attendance of the meeting moved that: The Tritos be instructed to record that on this 13th day of Nov. 1855 every member of the Chi Psi Society present in the town of Brunswick did with malice aforethought cause the light of his countenance to shine in said Chi Psi's Hall."

The first recorded rushing trip was to North Yarmouth, probably to the Academy, in 1847. The chairman of the committee reported that some of the students had been seen and that "he did not doubt that, as usual, we should get the best of them."

Many letters from other alphas were read. One from Michigan informed us "of the difficulties they were experiencing from the opposition of the government of the college, and of their determination never to surrender their rights." There was opposition at Bowdoin also. The Governing Boards recorded their doubts and fears, but never took very drastic action. By President Hyde's time the feeling had so far changed that we find him saying "Next to the supreme importance of securing the right men for instructors, the keeping of college fraternities in a democratic approximation to equality, a vigorous and friendly rivalry, and a wholesome moral and intellectual life, is the college officer's most delicate and rewarding privilege." Eta owes much to his wise management.

Editors of this "Catalogue" might take some comfort from all the troubles about catalogues in the late forties and early fifties. At Bowdoin the discussion was about evenly divided between seeking ways and means for raising thirty dollars, and voicing indignation because the catalogue did not appear.

We know little about the social affairs of the Fraternity in the early days. In 1849 we read of a letter "inviting the Bowdoin Alpha to a breakdown at the St. Charles." A few years later there is reference to "a letter from Buffalo upon the subject of a Chi Psi Waltz, for which, of course, a subscription was solicited."

Dissatisfaction over campus politics gave rise to the organization of Alpha Eta. However, politics did not suffer, but rather thrived thereby. Within five years "Considerable talk was heard on the feasibility of the plan of uniting with some particular society at elections. . . . Finally concluded to have some influential members of the senior class consult with some members of the Alpha Delta Phi in regard to it." "Brother Jennings wished us to keep an eagle eye upon the actions of the Psi Upsilon society. It was the unanimous opinion of the society that the only society worth uniting with was the Delta Kappa Epsilon."

A few months later "Bro. Fessenden was appointed to wait on Pendergast to see what effect Delta Kappaism has had on him." It was also "Voted: That the Society resolve itself into a committee of the whole to Fish." The catch must have been poor, because a later meeting "was lamentably thin and strong efforts must be made for the future to preserve our much loved Fraternity from dissolution."

Politics continued apace. "A vigilance committee consisting of Fessenden, Fuller and Smith were appointed whose principal care should be to watch diligently the motions of the Psi Upsilon." A trade with Delta Kappa Epsilon for control of the elections in the Peucinian Society was unsuccessful. Immediately a new coalition was made with Psi Upsilon for the Athenaeon election. By 1853 it was necessary to make assessments to defray the election bills!

Petitions for establishing alphas at Dartmouth, Waterville College, Harvard and North Carolina were debated. Bowdoin even went so far as to appoint a committee to initiate a group at Harvard, and recorded considerable indignation when the petition for an alpha there was refused. A petition from North Carolina was rejected because "our chapters were increasing altogether too fast and also the delay which must necessarily occur in communicating with a chapter at so great a distance."

With the outbreak of the war between the states, Bowdoin men, both graduate and undergraduate, rushed to arms. One in four of the living graduates saw active service. Eta was sadly weakened. A few men were initiated after the war, but with the graduation of John C. Coombs in 1869, Eta was dormant. According to tradition Coombs was the sole active member for

BOWDOIN COLLEGE, BRUNSWICK, ME. (Memorial Library, presented by Thomas H. Hubbard, H'57.) Founded in 1794. In 1820, Maine severed its connection with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and became a state in the Union. By that time, Bowdoin College, named for the late governor of Massachusetts, had completed its twenty-sixth year. Bowdoin College was founded by a group of parents who desired their sons to have higher intellectual training without the expense of time and money required to go to Cambridge. Bowdoin has much to offer in its scholastic tradition. Such graduates as Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Nathaniel Hawthorne (great-grandfather of Hawthorne L. Smyth, H'31, and Julien C. Smyth, H'31) contributed to the tradition. A faculty of distinguished scholars perpetuates it. Bowdoin's high standing at graduate schools indicates its scholastic eminence. Alpha Eta of Chi Psi, established at Bowdoin in 1844, dwindled through enlistments for the Civil War but did not give up until the very last man doggedly held the last meetings alone. Its members in those days included Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, '53, Speaker Thomas B. Reed, '60, General Thomas H. Hubbard, '57, and General Henry Clay Wood, '54. Re-established in 1918, the alpha has a fine lodge given by Chi Psi alumni, in particular John Wendell Anderson, E'90, who by his generous gift honored the memory of his father, Dr. Wendell Abram Anderson, H'61. At Bowdoin participation in sports is required up to the senior year. The basis is that a healthy mind functions best in a body developed by vigorous exercise.—HERBERT M. LORD, H'39.

several years. Actually, he was the sole member in the college his senior year, although Frank E. Hitchcock was in the medical school.

Eta had enjoyed a membership of extraordinary quality. A majority of them turned to law when they left college, although not a few clergymen, journalists, and teachers are listed, with an occasional merchant, manufacturer, or ship-builder.

Why did these men allow the alpha to remain dormant? Certainly they were devoted to the Fraternity. The early records (1844-1864) were preserved. Distinguished Eta men were mentioned at various Chi Psi conventions. The reports of enduring friendships among them are many.

It is equally certain that they were closely connected with and devoted to the college. Ten of them served the College as Trustees or Overseers an average of twenty-five years apiece. Judge W. L. Putnam, H'55, was a member of the Boards for a full fifty years. For many years he was chairman of the finance committee and gave careful attention to every item of college business. Rev. Edwin B. Webb, H'46, served on the Boards for forty-five years, the last seven as Vice-President of the Trustees. General Thomas H. Hubbard, H'57, in forty-one years, served on countless regular and special committees, and gave legal services which would have cost the college a fortune if it had had to employ an attorney of equal ability. Dr. Alfred Mitchell, H'59, was a member of the faculty of the medical school for forty-six years, and a member of the Boards for thirty-eight years.

Once at commencement somebody asked Dr. Mitchell what had become of Chi Psi. His answer was, "After the war we merged with the Y. M. C. A." A man who was well acquainted with many Chi Psi alumni is of the opinion that they preferred a dormant alpha to initiating men who did not meet their standards.

1918-1940

Under President Hyde's guidance the non-fraternity men had organized the Bowdoin Club. A house was provided, and the group functioned somewhat like a fraternity. However, there were too many members and differing interests and shortly there were divisions. In 1914 a group formed the local fraternity named Beta Chi, which later became a chapter of Sigma Nu.

In 1916 another strong group organized a local fraternity called Phi Theta Upsilon. There was real organizing ability among them and within a year they had incorporated and bought a large and desirable lot of land on Boody Street. It was necessary to borrow practically all the money. Even then the fraternity had good enough standing so that the money was borrowed on unsecured notes.

A few years before there had been talk of re-establishing Alpha Eta of Chi Psi. There were some conversations with General Hubbard, and privately he had promised funds for a lodge. Various delays were experienced, and nothing definite had been accomplished before his death.

The members of Phi Theta Upsilon set their hearts and minds on Chi Psi. A petition was prepared and submitted to the Fraternity. Overtures from three other national fraternities were rejected while they were waiting for a decision from Chi Psi. Favorable action was reported on May 31, 1918, in the midst of the Ivy house party. Perhaps Eta has never had a happier one.

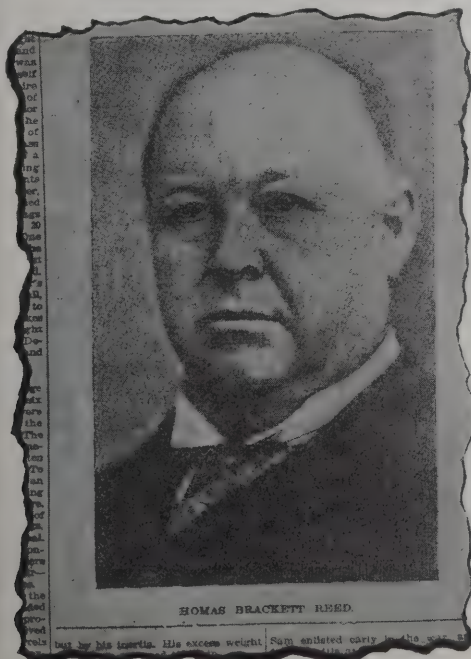

By the next autumn, when the actual initiation into Chi Psi was planned, the college had loaned its facilities to the government and military training was in full career. Normal college and fraternity life was sadly disturbed. Nevertheless plans for the initiation went forward. The government had taken over the fraternity houses but permission was finally secured to use one of the college buildings. The ceremonies were conducted on October 20, 1918, with improvised accessories, in a small room on the second floor of old Massachusetts Hall, in the corner now occupied by the Alumni Secretary's office.

In spite of the excitement and confusion, the affairs of the alpha were capably handled. The house on Maine Street, opposite the D. U. House, had been given up and a house on Pleasant Street (the present Odd Fellows Block) was leased for two years. Perhaps the members did not know it at the time, but they had returned almost to the site of the first Chi Psi Hall.

Realizing that the erection of a suitable lodge must be postponed, the property at 183 Maine Street was purchased in 1920. The house was pleasant and conveniently located, but it was not large enough for fraternity purposes. A lodgeroom gradually evolved. Alumni from other alphas contributed some money. The undergraduates did most of the work themselves. In spite of limited facilities, the alpha maintained itself reasonably well here.

Even though the interest and taxes on the Boody Street land were a burden, the alumni looked steadfastly to the future. More than once the undergraduates wanted to sell the land and use the profit from the sale to remodel the house. At least once officers of the national Fraternity advised this course. The alumni still looked to the future, and succeeding corporation treasurers stretched and retied the financial shoestring so well that the credit of the Fraternity remained good.

Many financing plans were made and elaborated. Steady progress was made in reducing the debt on the property, but the members were few, and none was wealthy, so that it became increasingly clear that any building program would require substantial help outside Eta's membership.

"THE CORNERSTONE OF ALPHA ETA." Remarks of John Wendell Anderson, E'91, at the laying of the cornerstone of the lodge of Alpha Eta, on June 22, 1932:

It is needless to say with what profound regret I find myself, at the last moment, prevented from being with you today to personally assist in the dedication of the new lodge of Alpha Eta of Chi Psi at Bowdoin College. In view of this, I have been requested by Professor Durham to send to those present a message of greeting, which I am very happy indeed to do.

Two weeks after entering Cornell I was initiated into Alpha Psi and for the first time bore upon my bosom the badge of the Chi Psi, just as over quarter of a century before, on this campus here at Bowdoin, not long prior to the sounding of the tocsins summoning the manhood of Maine to that terrible intersectional conflict which we now know in history as the Civil War, my father had for the first time as a member of Alpha Eta of Chi Psi worn upon his bosom that precious badge of our Fraternity. And with the happening of that initiation swiftly and surely began that human alchemy, that indefinable something, that process which puts the freshman in the melting-pot, so to speak, and causes those desirable characteristics, which are latent, to become patent, and those faults which are patent, to become less obtrusive or to completely disappear—a process the contemplation of the effectiveness of which in many of our colleges and universities, endears me so much, not only to my own fraternity but to others in the Greek letter world, wherein its effectiveness is equally manifest. And although in my own case I am adventuring to a period nearly half a century ago, this process, hallowed now by tradition and fortified by decade upon decade in its history, still goes on, to a greater or less degree, in all the fraternity houses, on every campus, in every institution of learning throughout the length and breadth of our country, its wondrous and mysterious mission in undergraduate character-building, to perform.

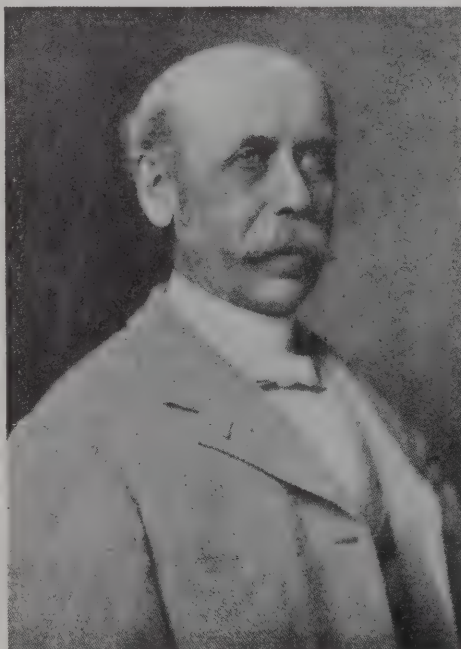

Take my own individual case, for example, and examine it from a strictly sartorial standpoint. In the first place, were my trousers "high-water," as they used to say? I do not remember (I daresay they were) but if they were I am very sure it was not long before I was diplomatically approached, with the result that my galluses were lengthened until my trouser legs, approximately at least, approached the proper length, befitting the college and campus style of the day. Were my shoes tan? I cannot recall, probably they were, and if they were and contrary to the prevailing style of campus footwear, I was again diplomatically advised how tan shoes, by a very simple process, could be made black. Were my socks white? Confidently I answer "No"—only "demi-tasse white," because, being of remote Scotch ancestry, purely from a thrift standpoint, if nothing else, laundry seemed, so far as white stocks were concerned, to be in those early and unsophisticated years more of a luxury than a necessity. But, evidently, they did not conform to campus style and Lo! soon they disappeared, with the result that the first money out of my allowance was spent in their replacement, under proper tutelage, by socks of a more sombre and conventional hue. Probably, I ruefully reflected, the Scotch still strong within me, because they would not show the soil so quickly!

But, my dear undergraduate Chi Psis, alumni and friends, trouser-leg-lengths, socks and shoes paled into insignificance in comparison with my hat. It was at once my pride, my joy and my most priceless sartorial possession. Yes, it was a derby—and if you must know the real truth, it was a brown derby—and even in those long-distant days there was a deep and yawning chasm between the Sidewalks of New York and the shaded, classic paths of old Cornell, so far as derbys, particularly brown derbys, were concerned. One never-to-be-forgotten night it disappeared from its accustomed hook and search as I would, and did, I could get no trace of it. Finally, in sheer desperation, I ventured to ask of an austere upperclassman if he had seen it. Whereupon he proceeded to throw his usually inane countenance out of gear, assuming a wise, shrewd and knowing look, and surveying me very deliberately, opined that he believed he had, that morning, encountered it as he was hurrying down the main hall of the lodge intent on making an "8 o'clock" class. In fact now that he came to think of it, he knew he had, because he distinctly remembered its hat-band was playing a dirge, its crown was deeply furrowed and wrinkled and its general appearance was most dejected, as he passed it in the hall, headed straight for an open window. It acted as though it was tired of life and was about to commit suicide, he said, and wound up—that smart, suave upperclassman devil did—by suggesting that I call up the morgue! Needless to say I never saw it again and thus was compelled, once more, to intrude upon my slender hoard of spending money to buy a new hat, the style and make-up of which the diplomatic corps of the alpha promptly advised me about, and in no uncertain terms!

So much for the fraternity alchemy working on the sartorial side. Its character-alchemy became equally evident, I felt it working within me. My shy and diffident side gradually began to disappear and I became correspondingly more self-confident and self-reliant. But best of all, finest of all and grandest of all, I began to know and to understand and to appreciate more and more intimately those young men with whom I was associated and who wore the badge of my fraternity. Thus were born and christened those friendships and intimacies which "time does not wither nor custom stale" and which have only grown stronger and stronger with the passing years.

Just to illustrate and bring home to you the truth of what I say, I need only add that at the last dinner of our Detroit Alumni Association of Chi Psi at which over one hundred were in attendance, held only a few weeks since, there sat at the speakers' table the man who assisted in initiating me into Chi Psi—George Miller, Ψ '87, of Buffalo; the man who entered the mystic circle the same night I did—Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ '89, of Chicago, who later was best man at my wedding and is now the honored

DR. WENDELL A. ANDERSON, H'61, attended Bowdoin College for two years and was a member of Alpha Eta at the time that it included Thomas B. Reed, '60, and others destined to serve their country and their communities conspicuously in the years that were to follow. His son, John Wendell Anderson, E'90, by gift made possible the building of the Alpha Eta lodge, as a memorial to his father.

President of our Fraternity, and three members of the Executive Council of the Fraternity, from Chicago.

From what I have said you may perhaps the better understand why I am so happy today in having been so favored in the later years of my life as to be permitted to assist in the building of the lodge you are here dedicating. To me it affords the opportunity of paying a tribute to the badge I once found in the old bureau top drawer and all that it and its symbols typify and stand for; of paying filial honor and respect to the memory of that fine, courtly gentleman of the old school, whose ancestry and nativity were within the confines of this grand old Pine Tree State and who, as I have said, on this campus three-quarters of a century ago, also wore upon his bosom the badge of Chi Psi—my father; of giving tangible expression of my sincere and heartfelt appreciation for all the life-friendships which my fraternal affiliations have afforded me and which have made the years of my life the brighter and the better for having formed them; and, finally, in being able to house a small section of the student-body in safer, more healthful, and more comfortable and befitting surroundings, thereby aiding, in a small way, the college itself. A college, situated as it is away off here in the north-eastern corner of our country, founded one hundred and thirty-eight years ago and which, since 1806, has been sending forth from its portals, in a constant, never-ending stream, men of such character, caliber and standing (as reflected in their careers in after-college life) as to amply justify the educational policy of the institution, as I understand it, viz: of hewing close to the old-fashioned lines of a college-education, undisturbed or unperturbed by the widened scope and fad-courses of other institutions of learning. A college, in my opinion, strengthened and not weakened by the comparatively small number of its student-body, when contrasted with the colossal size of others of our mental-foundries of youth situated elsewhere in our country.

In conclusion, may I add that it is my fond hope that the building we are dedicating may ever house a section of the student-body who will not only prove loyal and worthy members of the Fraternity to which they belong, but who also will never lose sight of the college of which they form a part, its history and its traditions. May they remember, first and foremost, what they are here for, viz: to secure the advantages of an education which this college so richly affords, the better to enable them to face the battle of life. And when once they leave the campus, in after-graduate days, may they never forget the debt of gratitude they owe old Bowdoin for affording them such an advantage. In other words, may they show that alumni loyalty which means so much by way of encouragement to those who are actively carrying on, both as members of the faculty and of the student-body as well. People this lodge with youth of that type, with character and with loyalty to their Fraternity and to their Alma Mater and it shall not have been builded in vain. So may it be!

WILLIAM LE BARON PUTNAM, H'55
Judge, United States Circuit Court of Appeals

Late in the fall of 1931 the alpha was electrified by an offer to contribute the major part of the cost of a new lodge. For a time it seemed impossible to secure from Eta men even the modest amount which was required from them. General financial and business conditions were awkward in 1931. But now the credit which had been so jealously guarded bridged the gap. Plans were perfected during the winter, and ground was broken in April. The ceremonial cornerstone was laid at commencement time, the traditional season for celebrations at Eta! Early in November the undergraduates were established in a lodge easily the equal of any fraternity house at Bowdoin. What a change from the rented hall and fluid lamps of 1848, and Mrs. Mustard's boarding house!

A modest tablet in the library, a less conspicuous place than Eta men would like to give it, carries this inscription:

"This home for ALPHA ETA OF CHI PSI was erected in 1932 through the generosity of Brother John Wendell Anderson, Epsilon '90, son of Wendell Abraham Anderson, Eta '61, and that of many other loyal Brothers in Chi Psi."

As this brief summary is being written Eta begins another year disrupted by war. Already the National Guard has called three of her members, including the No. 1. Nevertheless, the best in her tradition must be cherished, both as a memorial to those who have gone before, and as an inspiration to those yet to be initiated.

A BOWDOIN CHI PSI MYSTERY. Some time ago a dealer in antiques, etc., offered the college a painting, of indifferent artistic merit. (Later bought by Chi Psi and left in the archives at the Central Office.) The interesting point was that on the back was a list of Bowdoin men, dating from 1830 to 1868. From 1844 on they were all members of the Chi Psi Fraternity. One would infer that there was some small local group which had a ritual of some sort which provided for handing this painting along from year to year and that the group somehow was taken into Alpha Eta in 1844, going dormant with the alpha. Neither in College nor Fraternity history can I find any evidence of such a group."

CHI PSI RHODES SCHOLARS. Supplementing the material on page 28 are the following 1940 reports: "After my return from Oxford in 1908 I became an instructor in the law school in the University of Minnesota. In 1912 I went into general practice in Minneapolis. In 1914 I went to Washington as a special assistant to the attorney general of the United States. My work in that capacity consisted chiefly of handling cases under the so-called Sherman Anti-Trust Act and under the Interstate Commerce Act. In 1922 I resigned from the Department of Justice and went to New York, where I was associated with the firm of Quinn & Kieffer. After about a year in New York I returned to Minneapolis to become general counsel of the Soo Line. Late in 1938 I resigned from the Soo Line to enter the general practice of law at the above address, since which time my time has been largely occupied in representing the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. in the reorganizations of various American Railroads in which it is interested.—HENRY S. MITCHELL, N'05."

"My career since leaving the University might be summarized briefly as follows: I was at University College, Oxford, from September, SHERMAN L. PEASE, N'36.—"Soon after he got his degree Brother Pease became connected with the British branch of the Shell Oil Co. The first year of his service with them was spent in Rumania. Later he came to the United States and was employed in California for six months. For the last six months he has been employed by the United British Oil Fields of Trinidad, Ltd., as an exploitation engineer. His complete present address is as follows: Sherman L. Pease, United British Oil Fields of Trinidad, Ltd., Point Fortin, Trinidad, British West Indies.

"The latter part of this summer (1940) I saw an interesting article in the Minneapolis Tribune concerning him. It seems in the course of his work in Trinidad he injured one of his fingers so severely that a doctor told him that it would have to be amputated. That idea didn't appeal to Sherm, so he flew home to the U. S. by clipper and flew up here to Rochester to the Mayo Clinic. There he was told his finger could be saved. Sherm was here in the cities and in Rochester for a short time and then flew back to his job. Quite a trip, but it seems to have been well worth the time and money.—ROBERT A. WOOD, N'42, Chairman of Alumni Relations."

ALPHA PHI, established in March, 1845, at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., by John Henry Black, Henry McNeil Burchard, James Leeworthy Camp, Leonard Wood Ferris, John Newton Hungerford, Gustavus Adolphus Kellogg, Barnhardt B. Nellis, Josiah Addison Priest, Cornelius Lansing Seymour, William Heywood Sherman and Chauncey Newell Waterman. Robert Earl, II'45, and John Bonaparte Myers, II'47.

OWING to the loss of Fraternity records in the fire which destroyed the old lodge in 1905, any written account of the history of Alpha Phi must necessarily be fragmentary and incomplete. In compiling the materials used in this story of the alpha the writer is indebted in large measure to older alumni who have provided facts from memory.

It was through the efforts of R. N. Austin, II'45, that a small body of men in Hamilton College banded themselves together for the purpose of petitioning Chi Psi for an alpha. Interested in extending the Fraternity and convinced that Hamilton was a college in which Chi Psi would grow and flourish, he obtained the consent of the other alphas for the establishment of Phi.

In March,* 1845, the above founders gathered together at the old United States Hotel in Utica, along with Robert Earl and John B. Myers, both of Pi. One of the founders of Phi wrote of that occasion:

"It was an enthusiastic meeting; every heart was stirred. The initiation was thoroughly enjoyed; each neophyte felt nobler and stronger; he felt that the strength and the dignity of the whole Fraternity was his. It was a new start in life for him. He was now within the mystic circle; ties were formed that long years would not avail to sever; he was assured of help, sympathy, and close companionship such as he would never have sought. The very fact of his being united with others whose plans and purposes were good and true, was a positive help to him; he felt at once that he was, or ought to be, a better man."

Such may well have been the truth, for Chi Psi immediately took a high place in the affairs of Hamilton College. After a banquet in celebration of the founding of Phi the new members began their return trip to College Hill. A report had spread that Chi Psi would "swing out" that night, and this event was believed to be a challenge to the members of other fraternities. Bonfires kindled on the campus could be seen at a distance by the homewardbound members of Phi. They were falsely alarmed, for upon reaching the top of the Hill they found nobody to oppose or molest them.

At its very inception the alpha established a high standard of scholastic performance. In the second year of its life three members were appointed to compete for honors in public speaking, and all three were winners. For years it has been a tradition in Phi that it should rank high in various public speaking events. Preparation for such affairs has been carefully regarded from the outset. Before competent instructors were employed by the college to provide for the needs of all undergraduates it was a practice within the alpha that each underclassman should be assigned to a chosen upperclassman for drill in advance of the day when he appeared before the college assembled for rhetorical. Henry A. Frink, '70, as professor of rhetoric and oratory in Hamilton College, and later, Sidney A. Sherwin, '67, as a most devoted alumnus, stimulated the younger brothers incalculably in their public appearances. Hardly a year has passed in which some man has not been appointed to intercollegiate debate or has not been awarded a prize for speaking.

LODGE OF ALPHA PHI

During the years preceding the Civil War, Phi, according to available records, prospered and grew in influence. For some time meetings were held in an inferior building located in the village of Clinton. This building continued in use until 1856. Then the members obtained the consent of the college authorities to tear out the partitions between several rooms in Old South, one of the dormitories. The large room thus provided became the meeting-place of the Fraternity. In 1858 John H. Peck and Charles A. Hawley, both of the Class of 1859, published the first Hamiltonian, the college annual. The profits of this venture they used to furnish the lodge room. The next year they repeated the publication with the same purpose in view. This room in South College was used until about 1865, when the alpha again held its meetings in Clinton. This change was made because so many of the members lived in the village. Lodge rooms were rented in the block just south of the old Williams home. These quarters were held by the alpha until the purchase of the Huntington homestead at the top of the Hill, and just opposite of the campus, where the present lodge is situated.

From the year 1845 until 1868 the members of Phi boarded at the home of the Misses Lovina W. and Mary A. Kinney. These sisters acted as the genial hostesses of Chi Psi through these many years. At that time undergraduates went to chapel services on the Hill at six o'clock in the morning, and then ran down to bolt a hasty breakfast before returning for the first class. With them they carried lunches put up by these "sisters" of Chi Psi. They are not forgotten even now, for upon a wall in the reception room of the lodge hangs a picture of these women so intimately connected with Phi in the early days.

The years 1861 to 1865 were almost disastrous for the alpha. Eleven men out of twenty-six who were in college during this period went out to take part in the War of the Rebellion. Four of these eleven died in the service of their country. They are remembered for their patriotic bravery and self-sacrifice. Some of the alphas, as

*In previous histories the date of Phi's founding has been given as May 1845. This is incorrect. By referring to the "Catalogue" of 1852, which printed the Greek characters engraved on badges, showing the initiation date, we find the founders of Phi were initiated in March.

Pi and Eta, together with the Southern alphas, suffered more, but there is reason for real gratitude that Phi continued to live in these strenuous times.

Probably no man has influenced Chi Psi in Hamilton College more profoundly than Henry Allyn Frink, who was graduated in the class of 1870. Two years after graduation he became a member of the faculty. He injected new life into all activities of the alpha. At this time none of the fraternities, with the exception of Sigma Phi and Alpha Delta Phi, possessed homes. Brother Frink began the campaign which finally resulted in the purchase of the Huntington property. It is admirably located, and has been envied by other fraternities ever since it has been the home of Phi. Until comparatively recently a rule of the Trustees of the College forbade any fraternity having a house on the campus to provide meals for its men. While this restriction brought undergraduates together at the Commons, it permitted little privacy to the fraternities falling under the rule. When the new lodge was built, the alpha was urged to erect the building on the campus. The proposal was rejected by a majority of the alumni. Their action has always been gratifying.

Brother Frink solicited money from alumni to purchase the Huntington place, and personally aided the fund in a substantial way. John N. Hungerford, William M. White, George M. Diven and C. C. Kellogg supported Brother Frink in his efforts. In June, 1881, the active members and the alumni gathered at Baggs Hotel in Utica to hear the announcement that Phi was to have a new home. It was a gladsome time for the members of Phi, for at last they were to have a home in the real sense of the word, a place to eat and to sleep, and above all a place where close and lasting friendships would be formed. Although the Huntington house was in good condition, repairs and alterations were necessary before the men could take possession. Consequently the housewarming took place in the autumn of 1882.

With the possession of a house, the first that any fraternity in Hamilton College owned in which its members could really live, came increased prosperity to the alpha. It grew in numbers and in strength. The spirit of its members was cohesive and vigorous. Every one yearned to put Chi Psi in the forefront of all activities. For the next few years Chi Psi, besides being a leader in athletics, carried off many of the commencement prizes. A historian of that time stated that the alpha was "feared, hated, and respected by all its rivals."

About this time The Purple and Gold was first published. To W. L. Cornwell, '85, and to W. H. Hotchkiss, '86, belongs much of the credit for the venture. Through their efforts it entered upon its course auspiciously, and has kept the high level set by its early editors. The first numbers of the magazine were printed in the village of Clinton, about a mile and a half from the college.

In 1885, through the efforts of alumni of Alpha Psi, the Fraternity was revived at Cornell. Phi, the nearest of eastern alphas, was chosen to initiate the new members. The event was most pleasant and memorable.

For several years prior to 1892 re-establishment of the mother alpha had been agitated. At last the right men to undertake this task assembled. "On April 22, 1892, Chi Psi, through Alpha Phi, revived the long dormant mother alpha." Generations of Chi Psis in Hamilton College have looked back with gratification to that event, for just as Alpha Pi established Alpha Phi in 1845, so Phi awakened Pi in 1892.

The college, which was prosperous during the '80's, suffered from administrative difficulties during the latter part of that decade and the early '90's. Funds were lacking, and there was general dissatisfaction among alumni. The alpha suffered in the general depression, but the members kept a courageous spirit and remained hopeful of better times. The best traditions of the Fraternity were maintained. In 1892 President Stryker took charge of the college. His coming marked the beginning of a period of rejuvenation affecting the college in all its interests and activities. Alpha Phi rose with the tide. The men of the transitional period are particularly to be commended for upholding the standards of the Fraternity and for keeping faith with earlier members who were the makers of tradition.

One practice of Phi is particularly worthy of note. In class and college meetings its members regularly speak and vote as a unit. When any important question is to be acted upon, the brothers of the alpha discuss the matter thoroughly beforehand, reach a decision regarding the position they will take, and never permit even the appearance of disharmony. Such was the case when Phi was invited to join Theta Nu Epsilon, a sophomore society. The invitation was rejected by the alpha as a unit, and membership in it was never permitted. Again, in 1887 a movement was begun to abolish the so-called "algebra show." The Chi Psi freshmen decided to support this movement and contributed not a little to its accomplishment. They did so with the support of the entire alpha.

Just prior to the beginning of the twentieth century the college began to change in its physical appearance. New buildings were erected to replace antiquated structures and to provide for urgent needs. The one change which affected Phi most was the erection of a new home by Sigma Phi. The old lodge, though a pleasant home, had become inadequate. Each year more money had to be expended for repairs. An event occurred which made a new

HAMILTON COLLEGE, CLINTON, N. Y. (Campus scene, showing the West Walk.) Founded in 1812. Hamilton College was designed and is maintained as a small liberal arts college for men. Here one finds the atmosphere and friendliness peculiar to a school with enrollment between four and five hundred. The campus of 160 acres, shaded by venerable trees, is on a hill overlooking the Oriskany and Mohawk Valleys. Here stands the little house in which Samuel Kirkland lived in 1793 when he founded the Hamilton Oneida Academy, chartered as Hamilton College in 1812. Hamilton preserves earlier ideals of cultural training, combining now modern scientific courses and languages. Pre-law and pre-medical courses are offered, and Hamilton graduates are regularly admitted to leading graduate schools. Four years of public speaking are required. This is an obvious advantage, at a time when self assurance in personal contacts is so important. Athletics are well provided for out of doors, and a campaign is under way for a new gymnasium. Free to students, the college maintains a nine-hole golf course. At the foot of College Hill is the village of Clinton, a mile away. Here bus connections are made for Utica, our railroad terminal. A familiar sight to Hamilton men is the statue on the campus of Alexander Hamilton, one of the first trustees, for whom the college was named.—Lewis B. Rock, Jr., Φ'40.

structure imperative. On March 1, 1905, the old lodge was destroyed by fire. Fortunately the blaze was discovered in time to prevent any loss of life, as happened later when the lodge at Cornell burned. Practically nothing was saved from the building. One of the most serious losses was the library of several hundred volumes. This loss was the more keenly felt because the mother and the sister of Brother Frink, '70, had recently presented a part of his fine library to Phi.

Members of the alpha immediately took rooms in the dormitories, and ate their meals at Commons. The loss of the lodge was a painful handicap. The men rarely gathered except for a short time at meals. Even in the dormitories there was no real privacy. There was no appropriate place to "rush" freshmen and to initiate them.

Plans for a new lodge were begun at once. Money, sufficient at least to start building operations, was quickly contributed. The building was rushed to completion. To Clinton Scollard, '81, and to Joseph D. Ibbotson, '90, too much credit cannot be given for their faithful and persistent efforts in furthering the development and final erection of the new lodge. The estimated cost of the building was $25,000. It was complete in every respect for Fraternity use. In the summer of 1927 it was thoroughly renovated and somewhat altered to provide for a larger number of men. The estimated cost of this work was $5,000. The lodge is still thought to occupy one of the choicest sites on College Hill. It long compared favorably with newer fraternity houses built in later years, and best of all, it is debt-free.

On April 21, 1907, the undergraduate members and a few alumni members of the alpha sat down to the first meal served in the new lodge. The formal opening was postponed until Commencement. On Monday evening, June 24, the lodge was thrown open to its friends. On the following Wednesday evening the annual Commencement Banquet took place. Many alumni, some of them from a distance, returned to help dedicate the new lodge. The Honorable Charles A. Hawley, of the class of 1859, made the principal address at this important occasion in the life of Phi.

In Hamilton College, as in all colleges and universities of the land, the World War was depressing and disruptive. The S. A. T. C. period is sorrowfully remembered. The lodge of Phi was rented to army officers during the autumn of 1918. The alpha was seriously disorganized. Its members had no home, and they were depleted in numbers. Recovery from this experience was necessarily slow, but the organization was finally restored to its old standards. Coveted recognition of the earnest effort of the undergraduates to improve their scholastic standing was made by the Fraternity as a whole when the annual national convention was held at Minneapolis in June, 1922. At that time the first award of the Thayer Trophy was made to Alpha Phi. Subsequently the alpha has won the Trophy in 1930, 1931, 1934 and 1935—a total of five times out of a possible nineteen.

It is noteworthy that the undergraduate members of Alpha Phi have taken genuine interest in the appearance of the grounds about the lodge, and that they have of their own initiative made internal changes affecting the domestic welfare of the group. They have improved the landscaping of the grounds by planting trees and shrubs, and they have shown pride in developing better lawns in front of and behind the lodge. From time to time they have purchased new desks, chairs and rugs. Twelve years ago they established a Loan Fund, which has been increased periodically as they were financially able to add to it; a number of needy undergraduates have been aided by loans from this Fund. The economic depression that lasted throughout the '30s forced certain changes in traditional alpha policy. Prior to 1929 it was thought undesirable to have members of the group wait on table; thereafter it became imperative that a few of them be permitted to do so for the purpose of helping to defray living expenses. The change has been most gratifying. Furthermore, the posts of treasurer, steward and house-manager have yielded welcome revenue to a few undergraduates who annually were in need of funds. Although financial hardship has raised many knotty problems for the alpha to try to solve, it has impressed upon the group the value of mutual helpfulness and support.

During the thirty-four years since the lodge of Alpha Phi was constructed, seven other fraternities at Hamilton College have erected new buildings for their undergraduate members. Some of these buildings are larger and better appointed than the lodge; indeed, in several instances they impress the observer as being modern clubs. In one respect, however, the lodge has maintained a distinction: It has always enjoyed a high degree of home atmosphere. Repairs have regularly been made on the physical property as often as they have been needed; to this end the alumni have made generous contributions of money at intervals of every three or four years. The undergraduates have been reasonable and careful in their use of the lodge; they have treated it much as if it were their own home. They have discovered, too, that they need not be hopelessly handicapped by newer houses when they have been faced with the annual task of pledging a new freshman delegation. They have learned that success in such an undertaking is determined by strength and unity of alpha organization, that the will to win fairly as gentlemen is just as potent in providing for group continuity and welfare as it is in the realm of athletic sports. The fact must not for too many years be blinked, however, that the alumni of Alpha Phi will have to plan for extensive alteration or replacement of the present structure.

The lodge is steadily getting older and more obsolete; a newer building will be needed if the alpha is to continue in a place of leadership.

Such is the history of Alpha Phi of Chi Psi. It has met reverses and enjoyed successes. It cherishes nothing more than the desire to live its life and to conduct its affairs in a way that will reflect much credit upon Chi Psi in the world at large and upon the college of which it is a vital part. During the ninety-six years since its establishment the alpha has grown in undergraduate membership and in importance as Hamilton College has grown. In an institution whose enrollment is restricted to about four hundred students and whose educational policy is conservative, the alpha finds it quite possible to cling to the ideals and traditions of Chi Psi. By so doing it believes it can make its best contribution to the men who succeed to its membership.

JOSEPH HARVEY DURKEE

Lawyer, Jacksonville, Fla.

b July 16, 1837 at Augusta, N.Y. A.B., A.M. Hamilton. Receiver, Tavares, Orlando & Atlantic R.R.; v-pres.

CONWAY WING YOUNG, Φ'60, in his ninety-fourth year was the oldest living Chi Psi, until his death came to him on October 25, 1933. Of his early Chi Psi days he wrote in 1929:

"I entered 'frosh,' accompanied by an older brother, Thomas Kingsley Young, Φ'60, at Hamilton in the fall of 1856, and became a member of the Chi Psi Fraternity a little later. We were not rushed by any other fraternity, being as good as pledged beforehand, T. T. Caldwell, class of '57, the son of a near neighbor in our home town, and a Chi Psi, going security for us. Brother Caldwell afterwards became a banker at Omaha, Neb., and president of the first railroad reaching out from Omaha to Fremont, Neb. He was also mayor, I believe, of Omaha at one time. He died early. The Peck boys from Hudson, N. Y., entered Hamilton when we did and became members of Chi Psi at the same time that my brother and I were inducted into its folds. They were fine fellows, a great catch they turned out to be. Horace led his class by a higher per cent than any man that had ever left Hamilton before him. However, he broke down early, dying in middle life. John became eminent in his profession (law) and became chancellor of the Troy Female Seminary, a leading institution of that sort in the state in those days. Jim Woodward was a fine fellow, 'hail fellow well met,' but not in the vulgar sense. He, after the Civil War, I believe, became a minister. He always possessed the hickory cane which he carried during his college course and with which he once brought down three pigeons that were flying over college hall, perhaps disturbing his studying. Jim has taken wings; the pigeons fly no more over the hall. Rest to his ashes.

"Sheppard and Elsworth came from Penn Yan; Diven and Towner from Elmira, N. Y. These names flash upon me once in a while. I might mention others who were there and whom I knew in those days, if it were worth while. They have lived their lives and have passed on. Shall we meet again? Perhaps! I am like one in a dream. I never expected to outlive so many of my friends and companions of those youthful days. I was not a robust youth, somewhat effeminate, perhaps. I mixed in some of the lighter activities of college life, not a high stepper by any means. And yet I seem to have outlived many, if not all of those companions. Is it chance or kind providence? Who knows!"

CLINTON SCOLLARD, Φ'81, was a distinguished poet and a much loved Chi Psi. At the funeral services for him at Hamilton College on November 23, 1932, Joseph D. Ibbotson, Φ'90, read the scriptures and prayers. Undergraduates of Alpha Phi were the bearers: Robert Toaz, '33, Arthur Scott, '33, Henry Harding, '34, Charles Payne, '33, Paulding Sellers, '33, and Francis Bellaty, '33. Afterwards his widow wrote:

"There was nothing dearer to Mr. Scollard's heart, outside of his immediate family life, than his association with the Chi Psi Fraternity. He not only kept his college friends of the Fraternity but made many friends among those of the later generations both at Hamilton and elsewhere. He read The Purple and Gold with keenest interest and had all the welfare of the Fraternity at heart.

"When he went to Hamilton he used to speak at the banquets and was always on the watch to send desirable boys to the Fraternity. He took great pride in the fact that it was during his day that the house was built and that he was able to help promote it. You had no more loyal and devoted member."

My House.

*Though the mad winds carouse,
And brawl the brimming streams,
Still will I build my house,—
My house of dreams.*

*On faith, against rude shock,
Shall the foundations stand,
Thus shall they rest on rock,
And not on sand.*

*The walls, the roof, tree slopes,
Floors morticed cunningly,
These of my heart's high hopes Shall shapen be.*

*And all the rooms thereof,
Though scant they be and few,
Shall be made rich with love
Because of you!*

WILLIAM MILLER COLLIER, Φ '89, has had a most distinguished career as a lawyer and a diplomat. But instead of being pictured thus, we believe he would prefer this more current view, illustrative of the years of his retirement, as sportsman and traveler. The "catch" with which he is shown at Naples, Fla., is a gray nurse shark, length 9'10 $\frac{1}{2}$ ", weight 343 lbs.

Brother Collier was editor of The Purple and Gold in 1890-93, editor of the "Semi-Centennial Catalogue" in 1891, and elected a member of the first Executive Council in 1893. Our magazine under his editorship contained numerous important articles bearing upon the early history of Chi Psi. To the 93rd Convention he wrote from London, England:

"I note that the relations of the Fraternity to college life will be discussed. While I believe that in my undergraduate days at Hamilton, nearly fifty years ago, there was possibly a tendency in our loyalty to Fraternity and in the exclusiveness of our alpha life, to minimize obligations to the college, and to lose some of the benefit of other student associations, I am nevertheless thoroughly convinced that college and Fraternity are not antagonistic, but that the development of each is necessary to the full perfection of the other.

"Fraternity associations will, of course, be injurious if the moral and ethical standards of members be low, but, in my opinion, based upon observation and experience, the moral standards of men are invariably higher when they are organized into a body, than when they act as detached individuals.

"I believe every organized group feels the necessity of maintaining its prestige, and entertains a sense of responsibility for the good conduct of all its members. The closer the union, the greater those influences. In an organization proclaiming the fraternity of its members, these feelings reach their acme.

"In these days when religious forces seemingly are waning, and moral forces are weakened by the idea that every person must act as he judges proper, and may do as he likes, I feel that the college fraternity offers to the college student a safeguard of which he stands greatly in need—one that is not provided by any other college organization that exists. Were I a father sending a boy to college, I would not feel at ease with regard to his moral development unless I knew that he was a member of some good fraternity, whose ideals were high, whose active members were in general, clean livers, and whose alumni took an active sympathetic interest in the chapter.

J. S. IBBOTSON, Φ '29

"I believe that a student is more apt to find such association, if he searches for a good fraternity, than he is by the otherwise haphazard way of meeting people and forming personal associations. I realize that fraternities can get bad; but I believe that the loyalty to ideals, the ambition to maintain prestige, and the sincere devotion to the idea of fraternity which animate and actuate the undergraduates, coupled with and strengthened by the sympathetic guidance and counsel of the alumni, quickly correct any evil aberrations, and make fraternity life in general wholesome and helpful—an absolute necessity to the American College.

"Of course, I speak largely from observation of Chi Psi. What I have said, I confidently feel applies to our own Fraternity, but I doubt not that it applies to many others also; in fact, to all that are truly fraternities."

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD OF THE CHI PSI FRATERNITY. The following recital of citations supplements the account on page 27 of this "History":

(At a dinner at the Chicago Club in Chicago, Ill., on November 20, 1939.)

His gifts of service and devotion to the Fraternity would have won him this award without fortune's favor, with which favor those gifts have been so princely as to constitute in themselves a saga within the long history of Chi Psi. JOHN WENDELL ANDERSON, E'90, has notably served his alpha as an undergraduate and alumnus, the alumni association in his home city, and the national Fraternity as president. Added to all this, his good fellowship has been in the best tradition of this social Fraternity, making memorable contribution to fraternal pleasure within the Bonds. Therefore, to him is made this Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

(At a dinner of the San Francisco Chi Psi Alumni Association at the Stock Exchange Club in San Francisco, Calif., on November 16, 1940.)

CHARLES FRANCIS CRAIG, ΔΔ'97, was a founder of his alpha and has ever been among its best friends.

He has been a rallying point of alumni interest and a bulwark of strength in the San Francisco association.

His loyalty has been demonstrated not in the Bay Cities alone but also in other Coast alphas and the Fraternity nationally. He has contributed notably to the success of our conventions.

He continues after more than forty years to be a force for good in the general fraternity situation of his Alma Mater. With the mind of a man he has the heart of a boy, and it befits his whimsical spirit still to be "Warpie" to young and old.

He merits the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

HOWELL WORTH MURRAY, EΔ'14, saw into the heart of Chi Psi when the alpha rushing him did not even have a lodge. With him came one of the best classes ever initiated.

After graduation he was the moving spirit in the purchase of his alpha's lodge facing the campus.

Through the years he has been an ever-present source of inspiration, strength and action, in his alpha, in his alumni association, in conventions, in all aspects of his Fraternity.

As President of the Executive Council he was the prime-mover in perpetuating through our Educational Trust by material means the spiritual values he had so early and truly sensed.

None could more richly deserve this Distinguished Service Award to the Chi Psi Fraternity.

The following Awards have been authorized in this order:

1. Albert S. Bard, X'88
2. Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89
3. John W. Anderson, E'90
4. Charles L. Durham, I'91
5. Howard Greene, I'86
6. Thomas F. Wallace, N'93
7. Charles F. Craig, ΔΔ'97
8. Howell W. Murray, EΔ'15

ALPHA EPSILON, established in 1845, at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich., by George Brooks Alcott, Seneca Ewer, Henry David Goodrich, David E. James, George P. Kellogg, Aaron Burton Levisse, Charles Wing Noble, William Wallace Phelps, Homer French Schoff, William Howard Wait, William Pitt Cleveland Whiting and James Bonaparte Witherell. Gamma, Josiah Addison Priest, Φ'47.

LITTLE is known of the founding of Alpha Epsilon of Chi Psi beyond the few meager facts gleaned from the archives of Alpha Phi, and the few priceless letters now in the possession of the alpha. In 1845 some of the members of the Chi Psi Fraternity becoming convinced that the University of Michigan would, before many years, become one of the leading universities of the country, determined to establish, if possible, an alpha of their Fraternity at the university. Accordingly, Cornelius Lansing Seymour, of Hamilton College, communicated with William Howard Wait (whom he had known at his home in Ohio) of the class of 1848 of the University of Michigan, inquiring if in Mr. Wait's opinion it would be possible to establish such a chapter in the university. Wait, after looking over the ground, replied in the affirmative, and received at his home in Oberlin, Ohio, the following letter sent by Seymour from his home in Cleveland:

"September 7, 1845.

"FRIEND WAIT:

"I received Monday eve your letter which stated that you were favorably disposed towards the plan of establishing a branch of Chi Psi Fraternity in your college or rather Michigan University. I tell you now, as I told you then, that what I have done, has been done on my own authority. But the first step must always be taken. When I found out by inquiry what station and importance the M. University was destined to take among the Western colleges, I immediately saw the importance, also advantage, even the necessity of our society being the first to establish a branch there. Michigan is pursuing the right policy to ensure success to her colleges. The policy of Ohio in that respect is poor. For that reason I think that M. University is destined in these two States and undoubtedly in the Western States. My opinion may be wrong from my hasty judgment and scanty knowledge of facts. You say that you are ignorant of the mode of procedure in the organization of a society of this kind. We usually choose four, five, or six best fellows in each class, or as good as are caught. You will have to get a few fellows with you secretly of course, that is, unknown to others, who belong to the college. Then after our society has given its consent we are to send two or more fellows to you to initiate you into the secrets of the society, or you to send two to us to be initiated with us and they on their return to elect and initiate the rest. When your society is organized you can elect whomsoever you please. I think the best plan would be to have a couple of our fellows to come to Buffalo or half way and meet some from you and initiate them then. But all of this is unnecessary and before the time. I would request of you upon your arrival in Ann Arbor to write me informing me of state and prospects of the college, whether there are already any secret societies in existence there, and what would be the prospect of success in regard to the undertaking. I request this in order that I may be able to inform our society and give them correct information. I have not the least doubt that they will be very glad to give their consent. It will be necessary for you to speak to none on the subject except such as you intend to associate with yourself in the society. I am bound next week for Hamilton College. You will direct your letters to me at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y., if you please."

Most actively associated with Wait in this endeavor was Charles W. Noble of the senior class. He soon became the correspondent for the petitioners and J. Henry Black of Hamilton likewise became that for the Chi Psi Fraternity. As a result of the negotiations Charles W. Noble on January 13, 1846, wrote the following letter to Mr. Black:

"University of Michigan,
"Ann Arbor, January 13, 1846.

"DEAR SIR:

"Enclosed I send you the names who have determined to link themselves to the fortunes of the Chi Psi.

"It would seem foolish in me to praise them, yet I shall take the liberty to say that there

"It seems peculiarly fitted for us at the West, as one of our characteristics is 'go-a-head-a-tive-ness.' So we here send you our right hands and our right hearts too. You must excuse this article of agreement as it is somewhat blotted, etc., but the names are there and we trust that our branch will not be a blot upon the honor and high standing of the Chi Psi.

"You must also excuse the shortness of this letter as we believe that it is not the length of letters that is to make the works go on, but the spirit.

"We trust that we shall hear from you soon and until then believe that we shall do all we can to push the matter along.

"Yours sincerely and in haste,

"CHAS. W. NOBLE.

"We the undersigned having associated ourselves together for the purpose of becoming a secret, social, and literary society, and being convinced that the Chi Psi Society is worthy of our confidence do hereby pledge ourselves to become members thereof as soon as convenient for the several branches.

LODGE OF ALPHA EPSILON

is nowhere a finer set of fellows so far as warm hearts and ready hands are concerned. Your letter arrived at Ann Arbor during vacation, and as I have but just returned you will readily excuse this apparent tardiness of reply. But you may be assured that there is no lack of interest in the Society manifested by those who have placed their names to this paper. Your letter in reply to the interrogations was all that could be expected from a society laying any claim to secrecy. The age of the Society is hardly as great as we had thought, but its growth seems almost incredulous, and we hasten to join ourselves to a society which bids fair to eclipse any other in our republic.

Goodrich, and although his name is in our catalogue as one of the founders of Alpha Epsilon, yet he never passed the mystic veil; but in honor of his memory the alpha has ever seen fit to place and keep his name upon the roll of Chi Psi.

From this time until February 11, 1846, nothing of importance was done save the exchange of a few letters. On this date a meeting was held in the room of Charles W. Noble, located in the old South University Hall, the following men being present: W. W. Phelps, S. S. Schoff, H. L. Schoff, C. W. Noble, of the senior class; Seneca Ewer, of the junior; Witherell, Wait, Whiting and Parks of the sophomore class, with W. W. Phelps presiding. In this meeting the first real step was taken towards the founding of an alpha. The meeting was called to consider an offer of the Chi Psi Fraternity to admit them into their brotherhood. As all of them had signed their names to a document agreeing to become members of that society if elected and had received notice that their election had already been accomplished, there was not much further to do along that line. A letter was read from an official of the Chi Psi Fraternity at Hamilton advising them to form into a body such as they saw fit until properly initiated in the spring. This was done, and a society formed—"The Association"—whose purpose was to have its members become Brothers in Chi Psi. The Association met six times and then on April 9 two more members were admitted and then the "ghost" of the Association departed.

On April 11, 1846, in a room in the old Exchange Hotel the following men were initiated into the Fraternity by Josiah A. Priest, then a junior in Hamilton College: Messrs. Allcott, Ewer, Levisse, Noble, Parks, James Phelps, H. F. Schoff, S. S. Schoff, Wait, Whiting, Kellogg and Witherell. The alpha is indeed unfortunate in not possessing a more complete record of the happenings of that night, beyond the meager description furnished by the minutes and some recollection by Brother Noble, who says:

"It was surely an event in the history of the university when Priest came from Hamilton to light our altar fires. He was dignified and agreeable and well suited to the occasion. All of the original thirteen were initiated the same day. I was the first and was put through privately by Mr. Priest; the others the same evening at the room we had hired in the Exchange Hotel. Great was the surprise among the other students when we 'swung out.' It hastened the work of the other societies then in embryo."

At about this time the pioneer college fraternity house came into existence through the efforts of Brothers James and Kellogg. It was situated "in a vast forest extending east of the campus from the Huron River on the north to the village of Gettysburg on the east and to the limits of Ypsilanti on the southeast. This oak wilderness was known to the inhabitants of the few scattered villages as the Black Forest and was only visited by the lone hunter in search of furs and game, or some half starved, half civilized Indian wandering among the villages to barter furs with white traders for powder, shot, and 'firewater'." Brother James conceived the idea that this vast and lonely forest would be a fitting place to hold the meetings of the alpha, as it would promote the secrecy and add to the mystery of the organization. Accordingly about the middle of April, 1846, the log cabin was built. This hall, twenty feet wide by twenty-four feet long, was located about a half-mile in the forest—the site of the present Forest Hill Cemetery. Brother James christened the new abode "David's Cottage in the Woods" and from May, 1846, to July, 1848, the alpha held her meetings there. On May 25, 1846, the alpha held her third meeting in the cottage and on this night the first two neophytes were initiated by the members of Epsilon, George L. Lee and Merchant H. Goodrich, "after which the tallow dips were lighted, wood was cast upon the smoldering back log in the fireplace, liquid refreshments were served, and each member pledged himself anew to old Chi Psi." The first by-laws were adopted at a meeting held June 9, and with one or two more meetings, the first year of Epsilon's existence came to a close. Much had been done, and what had been done was done well; a foundation had been laid both broad and deep upon which it was impossible to build any structure but one that would last for many generations to come.

The year 1846-47 was indeed a stormy one for the alpha. It was a year of hard struggling for existence. Shortly after school opened, some nightly student depredations were reported to the faculty and while the faculty were subjecting these performances to an "inquiry," Professor Ten Brook took it upon himself to sneak about the grounds and follow whatever students he could see and learn where they were going and for what purpose they were out of their rooms after hours. So well did he succeed that he was able to furnish the faculty with the list of names of the students who had gone to "David's Cottage" the night previous. Later investigation disclosed the fact that two societies, secret in their nature, called Chi Psi and Beta Theta Pi, had been existing in the university for about a year and gave a complete list of their respective membership and their relations with similar societies in other colleges. Immediately the faculty, thinking to stamp out these organizations, decreed that, although the present members could retain their membership, they were prohibited from initiating any new members, and furthermore all new men entering the university were required to sign a pledge not to join one of these societies. Alpha Epsilon succeeded, however, in initiating that year three new men and was further strengthened by John B. Meyers, of Alpha Pi, who entered the university during the year. Nothing of further importance was done that year—the alpha feeling that this action of the faculty was but the beginning of the end, and that an outbreak would come, which did come exactly three years later.

During the years 1847-48-49, the alpha flourished quietly and initiated fourteen men. Nothing was done to those who were discovered to have broken their pledges to the university—and the fraternities los-

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN, ANN ARBOR, MICH. (Legal Research Library, seen across the Law Quadrangle.) The one-hundredth milestone was passed in 1937 by the University of Michigan. At Ann Arbor the university has grown from a small struggling school to become one of the outstanding educational institutions in the country. Authorities rank it among the first five. It has more graduates listed in "Who's Who" than any other state university. Schools of law, medicine, engineering, architecture, pharmacy, dentistry, forestry and conservation, business administration, literature, arts and science, have been developed at the university. Michigan has been consistently eminent also in athletics, and an athletically minded youth who wants a well-rounded education can choose no better colors than the maize and blue. Intramural sports facilities are liberally provided for those not out for college teams. Alpha Epsilon of Chi Psi, established 95 years ago, was the first fraternity at Michigan. Its lodge in Hubbards Woods, near the campus, was the forerunner of the modern fraternity house. Michigan does not claim to have the most beautiful campus in the world, but the campus has natural charm not easily forgotten. Long rows of stately trees provide setting for many impressive buildings, including the Library of American History bearing the name of its donor, William L. Clements, E'82. Architecturally conspicuous are the buildings of the Law Quadrangle, gift of Alumnus William W. Cook, who refused to see them for fear of disappointment in what had been done with his ideal plans.—RAYMOND J. FRASER, E'40.

The year 1849-50 was the culmination of the strife and the crisis in the history of Epsilon. The lack of space precludes us from going into the details of this year. It seems that the alpha had had printed a complete list of her members and had inserted a list in each catalogue of the university as it had been sent out. By some mistake, a copy of this list found its way to the faculty, and immediately all the men were called before that body. An old rule, which had been in the rule-book since the founding of the university, and relating Only to Literary Societies was dug up and used as the basis of faculty operations. This rule, No. 20, Chapter 4, provided "that no student shall be or become a member of any society connected with the university whose constitution has not been submitted to and approved by the faculty." Taking advantage of this, the faculty purposed to crush Epsilon forever. At this period the Alpha Delta Phi chapter came forward like true men and, turning in their list of names, asked to share the same fate as the Chi Psi. Beta Theta Pi turned in their constitution in compliance with the faculty order. The outcome was that the students were asked to leave the university at the end of the term. Naturally the matter, which had been the topic of every conversation, reached the Board of Regents, who immediately appointed a committee to investigate the matter. The report of the faculty and that of the committee are given below and are in a meas-the circumstances set forth in their report, justified in the course which they have pursued in reference to the delinquent students. Upon this question the Committee entertained no doubts; a judgment less lenient could not under the circumstances have been expected. They must either submit to the laws of the University or their connection with it be dissolved!"

But this was by no means the end, for these reports were about what the students expected and preparations were made to carry the matter to the legislature which met that January. The object of the societies at this point was to secure a new election of the Board of Regents and by so doing secure the removal of most of the present faculty, and, most important of all, procure the repeal of the hated Rule 20—no mean ambition for a band of students! Senator Finley from the Ann Arbor district became much interested, as did all the people of Ann Arbor, and shortly after the beginning of the session, a bill was introduced by him providing for a popular election of the Board of Regents as opposed to the present method of selection by the Governor.

Being familiar with rumors current about the trouble in Ann Arbor, a resolution was passed, instructing the Regents to furnish the legislature with all documents on the matter. This was complied with, and the fraternities' golden opportunity was at hand. A committee, composed of four Alpha Delta Phis and three Chi Psis, drew up a report which memorialized that legislature and is considered the most complete answer to any and all objections to secret societies.

Copies of these reports were sent to every part of the State and a flood of editorials headed "Rebellion," "Insubordination," "The Presumption of the Faculty of the University of Michigan," "Despotism," etc., etc., etc., appeared in every newspaper. The whole State was agitated and the citizens of Ann Arbor held mass meetings denouncing the action of the Faculty and upholding the character and conduct of the students. The following poster will show the temper of the townspeople of Ann Arbor:

"ATTENTION!"

"INDIGNATION MEETING!"

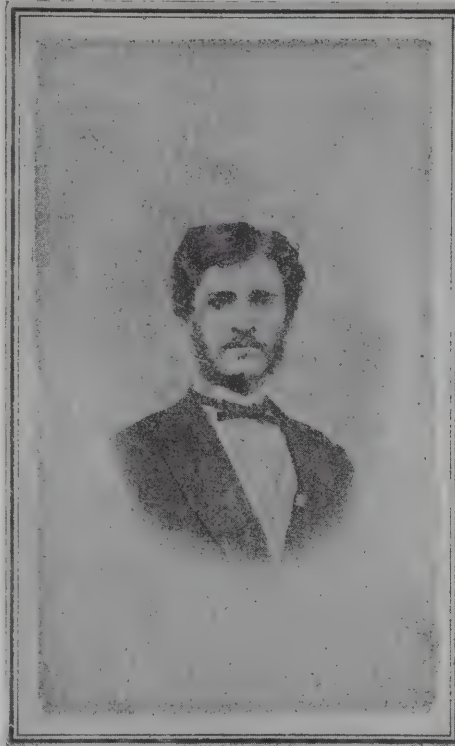

"The Citizens of Ann Arbor are requested to meet at the Court House this evening, at 6 o'clock, to take into consideration the conduct of the Faculty of the University of Michigan, in expelling all the students belonging to Secret Societies.

"MANY CITIZENS.

"December 20, 1849."

In addition to these a paper was drawn up and sent to the Senate, demanding a change in the Board of Regents. No legislation followed these petitions. The faculty were jubilant and the fraternities saw ruin staring them in the face. In the fall, however, a committee appointed to draw up a new constitution for the state, provided for the desired change in the election of the Regents, and from the new Regents it was but a step to remove several of the faculty and abolish the hated Rule 20. Thus after five years of hard struggle and many defeats the final victory was won by the Chi Psi and Alpha Delta Phi societies over their enemies and they rejoiced in seeing the entire Board of Regents and the entire faculty, with the exception of Pro-

MICHAEL A. A. MEYENDORFF, E'70. (Photograph taken on January 25, 1868, while Brother Meyendorff was a student at Ann Arbor.) He was twenty-one years old when the following letter, now a yellowing sheet in the archives of Alpha Epsilon, was written, to the alpha:

"Jefferson Canon, Mont., August 8, 1871.

"DEAR BRETHREN:

"When looking up towards the stars and skies of the Heavenly Vault, and all the beauties of God's Nature, I cannot but feel that it is through its instrumentality that even here, across this waste distance, the golden ties stretching themselves through thousands and thousands of miles unite us all in our beloved, ever cherished and ever ennobling Fraternity, as if we were within heart's beat of each other. It is at least my experience.

"Can such feeling be lasting and general? It is for us alone to decide. It was wisely said that men themselves are moulders of their destinies. And why not of their hearts? Undoubtedly they are. And if so, the problem is solved. All we have to do is try and the desired will be accomplished. It chiefly, however, depends upon you, dear brethren. You know of course what is needed while together in order to captivate each other's heart and command mutual respect. But there is something else that in my opinion is fully as important. And this is, try and remember that those who left the Mother's wing to try and become worthy members of the community at large and thus add the widow's mite to the glory of Chi Psi, are always ready to share with you your joys and sorrows. And also something more tangible, if you should only now and then let them feel that you, the active members, recognize them as your brethren. Keep them posted about the progress of the society and all that may be of any interest to a true and loving Chi Psi.

"Hoping for your success in the coming campaign, I remain, my dear brethren,

"Your faithful in Chi Psi Bonds,

fessors Sager and Douglas, dismissed from the university, and the right to enjoy and to transmit to those that were to come after them their beloved societies forever secured to them.

The next year, 1850-51, was quiet—the meetings, as before being held in the Exchange Hotel. There were four men initiated that year. The minutes of the years 1851-52 and 1852-53 are not at all complete and about all that we are able to learn is that four men were initiated each year and that, in the year 1852-53, the alpha became possessed of a hall—this time the third story of a new block erected at the northeast corner of Main and Washington Streets. This was leased to M. H. Goodrich and used by the alpha. The year 1853-54 was not a very prosperous one for the alpha. Although the brothers initiated eight men and even bought a little furniture for the new hall, there was a seeming lack of interest—the literary exercises being temporarily dropped. The following fall, however, found them apparently rejuvenated. Rugs were bought for the floors, lamps were purchased, and a lively interest taken in all the meetings. Epsilon had passed her first period of depression.

The next three or four years were not of much moment. The meetings were held during the year in the Firemen's Hall—why the other was given up, no one knows. It is interesting to note that Alpha Epsilon developed her most lasting trait at this early period, that of "working" the alumni for newer and better quarters. During this period, while prosperous in numbers, the alpha had no hall and was compelled to use hotels, lodge rooms, and the rooms of its members for meetings. It was not until the fall of 1858 that the alpha again secured a lodge room. This they retained until the fall of 1866. During this time they reached a pinnacle of success. Their numbers were large, their finances in good shape, and all things looked very bright for the alpha. The year 1860-61, however, marked the second period of depression. "The faculty by virtue of the august power vested in their body, had the audacity to rusticate Brothers Draper, Montgomery, and Davidson." How true the saying, "History repeats itself!" With these three brothers departed the backbone and prosperity of the alpha. Furthermore, this was by no means the end of their troubles, as four more men found it necessary to leave college before the year was out, and when Commencement came there were only three left to carry on the work. All correspondence was dropped—Epsilon was in the throes of her second illness, which lasted until the latter part of the year 1861-62. But in the words of Brother Sager, the end of the year found the alpha not dead by a long shot—merely convalescent, with six good men to carry on the next year.

The next seven years were ones of uniform prosperity. Although the alpha was at no time very large, the interest taken was intense and some of the best men that Chi Psi ever had on her roll were initiated

MAX ZINKEISEN, E'80, retired from business in 1928 and spent the remainder of his time happily in study and reflection, winters in New York City and summers in the Berkshires. Chi Psi was often in his thoughts. He was a speaker at the convention in Chicago in 1934. Off and on he wrote to The Purple and Gold, including a short autobiographical sketch in the third person for reference after his death, from which the following excerpt is quoted:

"Max Zinkeisen, E'80, was born in Chicago in 1859, his father having been resident townsman there as commission merchant since the early 1850's. During the Civil War period the family home was destined to find itself shifted to a small hamlet in Wisconsin, where the father kept the country store and the post office. The boy never forgot how he stood in awe of Indians that would haunt the front platform of the store, and how parties of them on the march would find their way into the yard of the family home and be fed from the kitchen. At the close of the war the father established himself in business in Milwaukee, which after that became the family's home-town. However, in 1875, father, mother and sister on their way to Europe were lost in the wreck of the steamer off the coast of England. This left the boy an orphan and his own guide. He was influenced to go to Michigan by his Latin teacher at the Milwaukee high school, who had been a student at, and was very enthusiastic about, Michigan. Both visited Ann Arbor together at Easter time, 1877, and the teacher, though not a fraternity man himself, was bound that his protégé should be one; and he picked Chi Psi for him, in so far as by introducing him to Chi Psis who were friends of his, he trusted to them to do the rest. At the end of the visit the young Milwaukeean was a pledge, and the following June, returning to Ann Arbor, he then passed his entrance examination, and in due course became a matriculated student at the university and a member of Alpha Epsilon of Chi Psi. At the end of three years, in 1880, Zinkeisen obtained his A.B., and then followed, so to speak, a three-year postgraduate course in Europe. There, during the winters, he was enrolled at one or another German university. The rest of each year, excepting one-half year when he was settled in Paris, he toured Europe leisurely. In 1883, ending up with a final visit in England, he returned to Milwaukee."

CONVENTION GAVELS. It has become the custom for the No. 6 to open and to conduct each convention with the aid of the gavel presented by the Chicago Chi Psi Alumni Association to Edward C. Swift, E'76, who was President of Chi Psi in 1914-19. Then at the close of the convention there is presented to the No. 6 a handsome and suitably engraved gavel for him to keep, in appreciation of his services.

within this period. In the year 1867-68 the alpha moved into her new hall over the First National Bank and, incidentally, began another of those glorious periods of Chi Psi supremacy which have made the Fraternity famous. Among some of the most important things that transpired during that period were the publication of the "Catalogue" in 1871 under the supervision of Brother Sager, the No. 6 of the Fraternity, during the year 1870-71.

The years of the seventies were still continued successes for the alpha, her membership being high in quality as was evidenced by the activities in later life of the men of those delegations. In September, 1878, the then members of Alpha Epsilon rented the Wiedeman House at the northwest corner of Packard Street and Fourth Avenue, and here began the Fraternity House as we know it, where the members live and eat as a group.

On November 2, 1878, occurred the

EPSILON IN THE SEVENTIES. "Some time ago I received your letter suggesting that, as a Chi Psi of fifty years standing, I might have something to say to the younger members," in 1929 wrote William D. Eaton, E'77, from Burlington, Iowa, where he was C. B. & Q. R. R. attorney for the Iowa district. "That it has been over half a century since I joined the Fraternity hardly seems possible. My immediate reaction to your reminder of that fact was a determination, since the Iowa and Michigan football game was near at hand, to go to Ann Arbor on that occasion, meet the boys and revive recollections of long ago before I let any more years drift past. I made the trip and had a most interesting and enjoyable time. So much so that I am promising myself another trip before long. Inasmuch as there seemed to be some doubt among the present undergraduates as to when the Fraternity achieved its first home in Ann Arbor, I will say that it was early in the year 1878. It was a large rented frame house, located, I believe, on Fourth Avenue. I endeavored to find it the other day when in Ann Arbor but, as I was very much hurried for time and the town has changed so much, was unable to do so. I was among the first who had a room in this house. However, I did locate, from across the street, the third floor in the old bank building where we had our lodge room, the windows of which looked just as unwashed as they used to look in my day. Fifty years ago it was, largely, the social side that counted in fraternity life, and Chi Psis then as now stood at the top."

initiation of Paul and Hendricks of the University of Wisconsin at the hall of Epsilon. According to the minutes of Epsilon for November, 1878, E. H. Guyer, '77, H. J. Meyer, '79, and Max Zinkeisen, '80, are to be considered as the founders of this new alpha.

In 1879 we see the alpha collecting money for a new lodge, liberal contributions being received from many sources. The lodge did not materialize at this time, nor for many years thereafter, and what disposition was made of the money so collected is unknown to the writer.

The occupancy of the Wiedeman House continued until June, 1883, and in the fall of that year the members rented the Gott House, now known as 709 West Huron Street, and continued to occupy that house until the close of college in 1883. This location, far removed from the campus, was found to be unsatisfactory, and in the fall of that year the alpha moved into a house on Jefferson Street, directly behind the home of Professor Morris, at the corner of Jefferson and State Streets. After occupying this house for one year they moved into the Hunt House on State Street, one door south of the home of Professor Morris, and what is now the property immediately north of the Michigan Union.

During all this period there had been considerable agitation for a permanent home. On November 10, 1880, the Articles of Association of the Chi Psi Association of Michigan were signed, this being the first corporate entity of the alpha or its alumni, and in 1886 the triangular lot at the corner of Washtenaw and East University Avenues, where the new medical building now stands, was purchased at a cost of $4,000.

An interesting sidelight on the history of acquiring a lodge, is found in the following excerpts from a letter written from Detroit on August 30, 1886, by Fred A. Robinson, E'82, to Frank E. Whitman, X'85, at Amherst, Mass.:

"... As to the early traditions of the chapter, her log hut, etc., (which an examination of the archives would give more accurately than I can recall from memory), and as to the progress of the house question since '82, I will refer you to W. A. Blakely, E'87, ... the present moving spirit in our house question. ... He returns to Ann Arbor next collegiate year, soon to open, and is managing editor of the Palladium, the organ of the secret societies. So far as I know the Chi Psi Fraternity was the first to discuss the idea of a chapter house or chapter hall, i.e., at Ann Arbor. It was started by the success we had in renting a house permanently and all living in it together, and called the Chi Psi House. This was about '75. At that time no fraternity there had such a fraternity home. We occupied it seven or eight years. It was singularly adapted in its arrangement for our purpose. Shortly afterward, one or two other fraternities followed suit, and finally a fraternity couldn't compete unless it had a home that was known as its quarters. ... In '79 we had a subscription list for about \$5,000, payable $\frac{1}{3}$ on demand, $\frac{1}{3}$ on laying of cornerstone and $\frac{1}{3}$ on completion. The first third was called in soon after and the money held in the bank by the three trustees appointed for the purpose—Senator Thomas W. Palmer, E'49, Don M. Dickinson, E'67, and Henry M. Duffield, Ø'61. That is as far as we've gone financially. We were handicapped by not having an alumnus in Ann Arbor right on the ground to look after the scheme. The active members of the alpha had all they could do in looking after college and society duties, and were themselves divided in opinion as to whether a 'House' or 'Hall' was the thing to have. I believe that if we had been a unit on either, we could have had it long ago. The merits and advantages of each were long and laboriously argued at our weekly meetings until the subject became a veritable 'chestnut,' and it finally got so we wouldn't take it up but would leave it on the table under 'unfinished business.' After a year or so of this, we concluded we would buy a lot first. We canvassed all the lots in town. The crowd was too fastidious. They wanted the earth, so to speak. We exhausted enough efforts to have acquired the whole town in fee simple, but couldn't settle on a lot. The lot question became a thorn in the flesh. During any lull in a business meeting some one was sure to move, 'I move we buy a lot.' This was always followed by the addition or amendment, 'I move we paint it red.' ... This summer Brother Don M. Dickinson, of his own notion largely, though encouraged by some of the younger members, went out to Ann Arbor and bought a lot, very well located and commanding in position, at \$4,000. ... I can't say how soon we will build, it may go through very soon and it may drag some. ... Our annual banquets are very successful and are gradually paving the way to

JOHN W. ANDERSON, E'90. His jaunty figure, twinkling eye, humorous mouth, wise yet kindly look—these are characteristics remembered by all privileged to meet the arch Chi Psi of all time, John Wendell Anderson, E'90. He is and always has been a great Chi Psi, utterly apart from his centennial gift of $100,000 to the Fraternity, and countless earlier gifts, known and unknown, totalling several times more. He made those gifts, as he signed the check for the 100th Convention Banquet, as simply and naturally as one, who happened to be in the best position to do so, would assume the chit for a chance luncheon of old friends. The "happened-to-be" in his case arose from his foresight as a young lawyer in buying stock in the Ford Motor Co., which the young manufacturer had retained him to incorporate. In 1940 he gave $200,000 to Cornell University to endow a distinguished service professorship, the first incumbent of which was Prof. Charles Love Durham, T'91. Later in the year he made a similar gift to the University of Michigan in honor of an old friend (a Deke) there.

it. ... Out of thirty alumni present we have a senator, congressman, a man who makes and unmakes governors and senators ('President of the United States for the State of Michigan,' as he has been facetiously dubbed, i.e., Brother Dickinson), a circuit judge, a U. S. district attorney, a clerk of the U. S. court, many leading lawyers, physicians and merchants. ... So far as money and brains go, I think we could erect a castle, and I predict that when we do make a break and put up a building it will be something of which the whole Fraternity will be proud."

With the opening of the college in 1889 only four men returned and then began the fight for Epsilon's existence. New men were secured, however, and an alpha of about nine men maintained Chi Psi's position throughout the year. But what a change was to be seen the next fall. Chi Psi's position at the head of fraternity life at Ann Arbor was certainly hanging by a thread. Only one of the initiates of the last year returned to college and consequently the year opened with only four men again in the alpha. The troubles of the previous year had been bad enough, but added to these this year was the utter lack of a house. The Hunt property on State Street which had been occupied the previous year had been sold during the summer vacation, and the alpha was forced to look elsewhere for quarters. Under the conditions the best that could be done was to secure rooms together and this they did. What shall be said for the record of the work of Epsilon? One neophyte only was added to the list, but suffice it to say that Epsilon, throughout that college year, did maintain her position and command recognition from the other fraternities as still an active chapter at the head of the Greek-letter societies at Ann Arbor. The opening of another college year (1891-92) found Epsilon in much the same condition. Again it was evident that success must mean a hard struggle against untoward circumstances. Brothers Cheney and Breakey were the only ones to return; but they were joined by Brother G. M. Tyng from Alpha Psi. There were thus three in all and they were not long in making it known to the fraternity world that Chi Psi had still an active chapter at Ann Arbor and that she proposed still to claim her rights as the oldest fraternity at the university. That this was regarded with much disfavor by our rivals, is needless to say. Alpha Delta Phi, as next in rank, was, naturally, most provoked at the stand Epsilon took. It required much persistence on the part of Epsilon to thus live on, and there were times when it seemed the best and only way to surrender the charter. Indeed, the same had seemed inevitable the year before, and our rivals were disposed at that time to look upon such ending as only a matter of time. It should be said, however, that not all of the other college fraternities held such a view. Many were our friends who duly appreciated the condition in which Epsilon was placed. That year five brothers "passed the veil." Three of these were seniors in college, all well-known men, and their initiation had Generous Alumni!

Generous Chi Psi alumni of the University of Michigan have recently contributed a completely modern kitchen to the lodge at Ann Arbor. All old equipment in the kitchen and pantry was torn out. The new equipment includes:

Stainless Steel!

Enameled steel wall cabinets; stainless steel sinks and cook's table; gas stove and Swedish A.G.A. coal stove; very large electric refrigerator; four-pot electric coffee-maker and large mixing machine, potato peeler, pot rack, plate warmer, etc.

Delighted Professors!

"Whenever a professor and his wife come for dinner," writes one of the boys, "we show them the kitchen, and revel in their joyful exclamations. Maybe it will bring up our scholastic average."

COMPLETELY MODERN KITCHEN IN LODGE AT MICHIGAN

an almost magical effect upon the fraternity student body. No longer was it said that Chi Psi was dead or dying. In April, 1892, occurred the annual convention. It had been given to Alpha Psi with the location undecided. As the time approached efforts were made to secure it for Detroit, with the idea and hope of again arousing the alumni of Epsilon to an appreciation of the struggling condition of their alpha and its need in the way of a chapter house. After much hard and laborious work, the convention was assured for Detroit. In both of its aims it was a success. Much money was pledged for a lodge but not enough to warrant beginning the work.

In April, 1893, the alpha secured the first house below Packard, on the west side of State Street, and remained there until the fall of 1897. Looking back now it seems altogether wonderful that Epsilon survived those two years. But soon the alpha began to fare better, and although for many years it was constant struggle to maintain her position (far more of a struggle than it should have been), the future became assured at Michigan for Chi Psi. Brother Cheney, '92, says, "We were glad those other days seemed safely over, and thankful after all that a part of the struggle was ours."

Beginning with the fall of 1892 we see a reinvigoration of Epsilon. Of necessity her progress was slow, but it was sure. The majority of her membership during the ensuing period came from the professional schools, especially the law department, and this was especially so in the years 1896-97 and 1897-98. As a result of the arousal of Epsilon's alumni by the Detroit convention of 1892 much solicitation was carried on for funds for a new lodge. This campaign was a success and in 1897 the residence of a Mr. Whitman, one of the regents of the university, was purchased, at that time the finest home in Ann Arbor. With the new lodge, a patent sign of stability, the reinvigoration of Epsilon was well nigh complete. As progress had been made from 1892 to 1897, so it was again made from 1897 on. Each year brought a fuller realization of the ideals of Epsilon; her membership increased, and so likewise her influence in university affairs.

In 1909 came a renewed movement for a new lodge and a new location. Upon his graduation in February of 1910, Alexander E. Walker assumed the task of visiting the Epsilon alumni in quest of funds, as the result of which substantial subscriptions were secured. This was followed in 1913 with another personal solicitation by H. Seger Slifer, '12. Shortly thereafter it was felt that ample subscriptions and funds were in sight to proceed with a new lodge. On March 20, 1913, the Articles of Association of the Epsilon Realty Co., a Michigan corporation, with an authorized capital of $20,000 and a paid-in capital of $10,000, were executed, the original incorporators being John W. Anderson, W. W. Hannan, and Charles R. Wells; and the Jones property, at the northwest corner of State and Monroe Streets, was purchased at a cost of $10,000. York & Sawyer, architects, of New York City, were commissioned to draw plans, after which the contract was let to the George A. Fuller Co., of New York City, and the building was dedicated, with appropriate ceremonies, on October 30, 1915. All indebtedness on the property was liquidated by 1928. Today we are the possessors of one of the finest pieces of fraternity property in the city of Ann Arbor, free and clear from debt, in excellent physical condition, and, thanks to the liberality of the alumni, with a current surplus for its maintenance and for furthering the educational ideals of Chi Psi.

During the period of the S.A.T.C. and the World War, this lodge served as the infirmary, and the members who were left in college rented rooms on the third floor of 310 South State Street, where an attempt was made partially at least to preserve fraternity life.

Since the World War the alpha has consistently maintained a high place in the university and in the Fraternity. In 1926, in 1939, and again in 1940, Epsilon was awarded the Thayer Trophy in recognition of its high qualities of leadership.

In 1940 the Epsilon Realty Co. was succeeded by the Epsilon Trustee Corporation as the alumni organization of the alpha, in an effort to widen the base of alumni interest in the alpha and control over its property.

J. STERLING MORTON, E'54, became Secretary of Agriculture in President Cleveland's cabinet and won fame as the founder of Arbor Day. But Mr. N. C. Abbott, of Nebraska City, Neb., who has been working on the Morton biography, discloses that his undergraduate days were, to say the least, turbulent. "Morton came from a distinguished family. In 1850 he enrolled at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor for four hectic years. He had wanted to board a prairie schooner for California and the gold rush, but his father persuaded him to go to college instead," Mr. Abbott writes. "It was a small, disorganized college. Secret fraternities were outlawed. Morton joined one of them, Beta Theta Pi, and later a second, Chi Psi. The future statesman was far from a star student. The faculty reported him as frequently absent, failing to pass examinations. In January, 1852, he was given one more term to make up his deficiencies, under threat of expulsion. That same year, he was called on the carpet with three other students for trying to lock the dormitory monitor in his room. It was in his senior year that Morton and the faculty came to open warfare, partly because of his deficiencies as a scholar, partly because of the dismissal of Prof. J. Adams Allen, who later became the distinguished president of Rush Medical College, Chicago. Friction had arisen between the college president and Allen. The Detroit Free Press, to which Morton contributed as an editorial writer, criticized the president, and faculty circles suspected its information came from Allen. At length Allen was discharged. A meeting of aroused citizens gathered to pass resolutions of protest, and Morton took an active part. Next day, the faculty met again, voted to expel Morton 'on account of general remissness and inattention to all his college duties, and particularly for long continued neglect of recitations and for his manifest contempt of the authorities. . . . Morton, seeing his degree vanishing, sought to patch up a truce with the faculty. He presented a public apology and was rewarded with a suspension of the expulsion order. But, thinking it over, Morton, changed his mind. He repudiated his apology. Again the faculty met, again Morton was expelled. His father now took a hand, demanding to know of the faculty what charges had been brought against his son, what proof offered. The faculty replied frostily that 'he would in all probability have been refused his degree and might have been dismissed' even had he not taken part in the citizens' meeting, but admitted that the meeting was 'the occasion of the action of the faculty and one of the causes.' So Morton left college. That fall he came to Nebraska to seek his fortune, settling first at Bellevue, then at Nebraska City. Immediately he became a power in democratic politics, and within five years was territorial secretary. He did not have to wait that long for repentance on the part of Michigan's faculty. In 1856 Union College at Schenectady, N. Y., then one of the nation's foremost colleges, granted him a degree of bachelor of arts. And in 1858, on petition of Dr. Allen, the dismissed professor for whom he fought, Morton received from the Michigan faculty the bachelor's degree which had been denied him four years before."

PLINY H. VAN BUREN, E'70. "On the evening of May 8, 1924, the Detroit alumni and Alpha Epsilon gave a farewell dinner to one of the best loved and most loyal Chi Psis of Michigan, Pliny H. Van Buren. It was occasioned by the fact that Brother Van Buren has retired from business and is leaving Detroit to make his home at Tryon, N. C. It was an informal gathering, full of the spirit of friendliness, just as we thought Pliny would have wished, and was intended to let him know just how much he and his spirit of Chi Psi were appreciated by the men and boys who have come in contact with him in his many years of Chi Psi. The last generation at Epsilon recalls no man who has been as frequent a visitor as Pliny; no one who has helped and counselled them as much, giving counsel not so much by words as by example; no one who has listened with more sympathy to their troubles. No one more than he has made them feel that the spirit of Chi Psi is everlasting." —The Purple and Gold, May, 1924.

JOHN WENDELL ANDERSON

Lawyer (Retired), Detroit, Mich.

b Sept. 25, 1867 at LaCrosse, Wis. Init. at Ψ in 1885; tr. to E; LL.B. Univ. of Mich. 1890. m Gustava Doeltz of Detroit June 19, 1895. Clk., Bowen, Douglas & Whiting 1890-93; formed legal partnership Anderson & Rack-

HOWARD T. ABBOTT, E'91, who was one of the leading attorneys of the northwest, was a close friend of Vojta F. Mashek, Ψ'89, John W. Anderson, E'90, and other Chi Psis. At the University of Minnesota, which he attended for three years, he was quarterback and captain of the first football team established there, and later was quarterback at Michigan, to which university he transferred for the completion of his education.

"It may not be proper at this writing to inject any personal comments," at the time of his death wrote one of his law partners, Mr. Edgar W. McPherran, "but nevertheless I feel moved to do so. Howard entered the University of Michigan in the fall of '88, and there I first knew him. My acquaintance began with him within a week after he landed in Ann Arbor. The Chi Psi lodge then was but a short distance from the Psi U house, at which I was living. Having many tastes in common, we formed a definite and intimate friendship which was only terminated on October 5, 1939. I was best man at Howard's wedding in Duluth. I knew him personally and intimately for many years, and I sustain a personal loss which is immeasurable. Howard left a host of friends throughout Minnesota. For many years he delighted in gathering together the Chi Psis in Duluth and vicinity and holding banquets and social sessions. He was always very loyal to your fraternity. One of his most intimate friends was John W. Anderson, of Detroit, who was in college with us at Ann Arbor. Mere words cannot express my sorrow or measure the deprivation which I feel."
